Apollo 13 Leaps Aloft For Third Moon Visit

Liftoff On Dot With Substitute Crewman

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — America's Apollo 13 astronauts — one of them a late-hour substitute — rocketed away from earth Saturday on man's third lunar-landing expedition, a search for clues to the moon's origin.

Astronauts James A. Lovell Jr. and Fred W. Haise Jr. — along with backup pilot John L. Swigert Jr. — rode the giant Saturn 5 rocket into space, headed for the ancient, rugged Fra Mauro highlands located between the plains where man landed on two previous missions.

Swigert earned a seat on the flight Friday after providing in a blitz checkout that he could time his delicate, split-second maneuvers with those of the other crewmen throughout the flight.

He replaced Thomas K. Mattingly II, who was exposed to German measles.

ORBITS FIRST

To reach the moon, the astronauts first must orbit the earth 1½ times while they check all the spaceship's systems. Then a second burst from the Saturn 5 propels them toward their distant target, 246,524 miles—and three days—away.

From deep in space, they will beam back a 30-minute television program Sunday, giving viewers a tour of the command module starting at 8:28 p.m. EST. U.S. television networks said they would not have live coverage of the show, but would consider later transmissions by videotape.

The spacemen fire themselves into lunar orbit Tuesday night, and on Wednesday night, Lovell and Haise are to attempt the most risky space adventure yet —steering the lunar lander toward a precision landing in a narrow valley on the eastern shore of the Ocean of Storms.

BATTERED REGION

Fra Mauro is a battered region of hills, ridges, deep craters and huge boulders—some the size of automobiles. Scientists believe it may harbor rocks dating more than 4.5 billion years to the creation of the moon and perhaps the solar system.

During 33 hours on the moon, Lovell and Haise plan two outside excursions to set up a nuclear-powered science station, collect rock and dirt samples, and drill 10 feet into the lunar crust.

Hundreds of thousands of people jammed vantage points near Cape Kennedy to watch the thundering departure of the rocket. Through the morning, launch crews had pumped more than a half billion gallons of liquid oxygen and liquid hydrogen into the ship's fuel tanks.

The three astronauts boarded the spaceship they call Odyssey and had secured themselves inside at 11:44 a.m. EST, right on schedule.

LATE AWAKENING

They had awakened at 8:58 a.m. and were given the traditional launch-day breakfast of steak, eggs, toast, coffee and orange juice. Doctors said all three were in "top shape" for the mission.

The decision to fly Swigert was made less than 24 hours before the scheduled launching.

If Swigert hadn't made it, the launching would have been postponed until May 9 at a cost of at least $800,000.

He got his chance when another backup astronaut, Charles Duke, exposed the prime crewmen, Lovell, Hause and Thomas K. Mattingly II, to German measles. Because he had no immunity, Mattingly faced the danger of being disabled by the disease in space.

Lovell and Hause were immune, as was Swigert. Throughout the week, space agency officials considered postponing the mission, but decided to give Swigert a trial despite initial objections from mission commander Lovell, who wanted to keep his team intact.

While Mattingly watches from the sidelines, the new Apollo 13 prime crew will be heading for one of mankind's greatest adventures.

THEIR MOTTO

They are going in the name of science and they have chosen for their motto "Ex Luna, Scientia"—"From the Moon, Knowledge."

To seek that knowledge, Lovell and Haise will attempt the tricky landing Wednesday night at Fra Mauro, named for a 15th century Italian monk-cartographer.

"It will be a riskier landing than Apollo 11 and 12. We don't have much flat area to play with," said Lovell, the world's most traveled spaceman, who is taking his fourth flight.

"But the rewards should be well worth the attempt," he said. "Scientists believe Fra Mauro harbors some of the oldest rocks on the moon, rocks that date back more than four billion years to the origin of

Two Men Drown Despite Struggle

Two East Bay men were drowned yesterday when huge waves swept them off Elephant Rock at McClure's Beach on the Point Reyes peninsula. The second man was swept away as he joined rescue efforts for the first, Marin County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom reported.

Bloom said Mark Dilger, 21, of Oakland, was swept off the jagged rocks at 5 p.m. by a wave. Two Montana men, Lloyd Dickey and Michael Reber, tried to rescue him by tying their jackets together, but could not reach im in the pounding surf.

Then two other men, Ronald Turney of Inverness and Eugene Edwards of Hayward, brought a rope and tried to reach Dilger, and another big wave swept Edwards into the sea.

Both men were swept out. Four members of the county rescue squad and six rangers from Point Reyes National Seashore joined an unsuccessful search for the bodies that lasted past dark, Bloom said.

Bloom said high winds and the rough sea hindered rescue efforts.

Brandt Concludes Talks In Capital, Watches Launch

WASHINGTON (UPI) — West German Chancellor Willy Brandt today completed two days of policy talks with President Nixon during which he received Nixon's endorsement of his efforts to seek "a more normal relationship" with the Communist countries of Eastern Europe.

No statements were issued after the 50-minute meeting, and Brandt left amid much pageantry for Cape Kennedy to watch the launch of Apollo 13.

The Chancellor and the President said their farewells on the edge of the White House south lawn with a handshake and a smile.

Brandt drove to a waiting helicopter, preceded by a fife and drum company dressed in red and white colonial regalia. A 19-gun salute boomed out. The area behind the White House was ringed with crowds and decorated with U. S. and German flags.

Ferryboat Cost Turns Board Cool

Golden Gate Bridge District directors got a single bid yesterday for a ferryboat — $558,673 — and promptly balked.

Before acting on the bid, a majority insisted, the district had to know where it would dock, who would run it, and whether it was the best vessel to begin the proposed Marin-San Francisco service. (Other bridge board stories, page 6)

Marin Supervisor Michael Wornum and Mill Valley Mayor Dean N. Meyer pushed briefly for immediate acceptance of the bid by San Diego Marine Construction Co., but Director L.E. Castner of Sonoma County insisted this would be "a premature step." He noted that Harbor Carriers had told him that they had rejected purchase of the same vessel for their bay service.

SAN DIEGO CRAFT

The vessel is the Point Loma, commissioned in December. She is 110 feet long, carries 600 passengers, and operates at 14 knots. Similar in design to the Harbor Emperor that serves Tiburon commuters, the new boat needs about $35,000 in modifications to make it suitable for bay use.

The Harbor Emperor carries 500 passengers and does about 10 knots.

UP TO 60 DAYS

Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring estimate that it would take 45 to 60 days to ready the vessel, adding that the district's ferry consultant, Philip F. Spaulding, had found the new boat "satisfactory" for the district use. Spaulding told directors last month that the vessel was overpriced by about $50,000.

The directors, however, postponed action to 9 a.m. Thursday in district offices, when they will meet as a "committee of the whole" to hear Spaulding present his preliminary plans for the ferry system.

Cambodia Troops Ban Plans Bared

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Frank Church and John Sherman Cooper announced Saturday they will attempt to extend the ban on use of American combat troops in Laos or Thailand to neighboring Cambodia.

Church, an Idaho Democrat, and Cooper, a Kentucky Republican, won inclusion of the Laos-Thailand ban in last year's defense appropriations act.

They said they will introduce the same amendment to the appropriate military bills this year, with the addition of Cambodia where the recent overthrow of Chief of State Norodom Sihanouk has spurred increasing Senate fears of possible U.S. involvement.

HANDBOOK FOR TUESDAY CITY VOTE CASTING

On Tuesday, citizens of 10 Marin Cities and two Southern Sonoma municipalities will go to the polls to elect city councilmen.

Two Marin school districts will also ballot on special tax proposals.

To acquaint Marin voters with the candidates and the issues, today's Independent-Journal Marin Magazine is a special issue devoted largely to the election. There are photos, brief biographies and campaign statements from the candidates.

Bolinas Ridge Logging Fire Burning Up County Official

An Oregon logging firm, accused of allowing fires to burn uncontrolled on the Ethel Righetti ranch at Bolinas Ridge, should have its state logging permit revoked and face a criminal charge of disregarding public health and safety, County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney declared yesterday.

He said he will make that recommendation to the board of supervisors Tuesday.

Marin County firemen, who first spotted the fires on Tuesday, sent bulldozers and firemen into the logged area to contain the flames.

"The fire was very close to a highly incendiary area of dry brush which, if ignited, would have spread to Marin Municipal Water District lands," said Maloney. "As of Wednesday morning, one large flaming pile of debris was still flaming vigorously within 100 feet of the water district lands," said Maloney. Yesterday, firemen said they fought seven other flaming piles of debris.

"Rather than piling the slag and debris and burning it under controlled condition, the loggers merely set fire to the entire area and have burned extensive area containing ground cover and seedling trees," Maloney said.

Maloney reported that the

Los Angeles Teacher Strike Almost Sure

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Officials and teachers of the nation's second largest school system made final preparations for a threatened teachers' strike Monday after talks broke off in a stalemate Friday.

Negotiators for both sides met for about three hours without the strike being discussed and no further talks are scheduled until next Tuesday, a day after the strike deadline.

A representative of the United Teachers-Los Angeles (UTLA) which claims to represent 22,000 of the district's 25,000 teachers, said Friday's session centered around a "rehash of previous board policies."

A school board official said, however, that agreement was reached on two minor non-money issues involving rules for leaves of absence and teacher conferences on grading.

District officials again flatly rejected a request from the teachers for a stepped-up schedule of negotiations with meetings over the weekend.

Lyman Powell, chief negotiator for the schools, said it was impossible to negotiate an agreement quickly, adding it could take months, not hours, to reach an accord.

However, UTLA officials charged Powell and other school officials with "stalling" to test the attitude of the city's teachers toward such militancy.

They said a strike could be averted in all probability, or at least be shortened, if the district showed "good faith" in the talks. UTLA said it expected more than 12,000 of its members would participate in the strike.

"We expect to close the overwhelming bulk of the district's 616 schools," said UTLA President Robert Ranson. He said there was no fixed period for the duration of the strike, but added teachers "are prepared to stay out the rest of the school term, if necessary."

There are 674,357 students enrolled in the city school system, making it second in size only to New York City's system.

School Superintendent Dr. Robert E. Kelly said skeleton staffs would attempt to keep the schools open if the strike was carried off as scheduled.

Railroaders In Wildcat Walkout

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Members of Sheetmetal Workers Local 368 in Cleveland struck the Penn Central Railroad today rejecting an emergency law that imposes a settlement on them and three other national shopcraft unions.

Chicago truckers considered a general strike for Monday in retaliation for a lockout of 35,000 drivers as labor unrest continued in education, aviation and the New York newspaper industry.

The law, which imposes contract terms negotiated last December, was signed Thursday by President Nixon.

The proposal was accepted by all of the railway unions except the sheetmetal workers.

Local 368 represents about 200 Penn Central employes in Cleveland and two dozen in Toledo and Ashtabula.

In spite of the rejection of a tentative nationwide trucking contract by Chicago drivers and other truckers who were staging wildcat strikes in a number of cities, national Teamsters Union leaders said they would push for

Israel Students Raid Meir Home

JERUSALEM (UPI) — About 140 Israeli students, chanting "Golda Must Go!" tried to invade Premier Golda Meir's residence Saturday during demonstrations to protest government plans to settle Jewish families in Hebron in the occupied West Bank of Jordan.

Police drove them off with water cannon after several of the demonstrators scaled the wall and dropped into the garden of Mrs. Meir's home in downtown Jerusalem.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Hijackers Foiled

NEW YORK (AP) — Eastern Airlines, trying to thwart hijackers, has U.S. marshals physically search passengers or luggage when electronic surveillance reveals an "alien" object, an Eastern spokesman says.

The object "could turn out to be a bunch of keys, for example, or a transistor radio," the spokesman said Friday, but a number of persons have been arrested "upon disclosure of weapons or narcotics in their luggage or on their person."

Papers Grabbed

SAIGON (UPI)—The government confiscated today's editions of four Vietnamese newspapers for carrying stories of police torture of alleged Communist students.

The seizure of the newspapers brings to 14 editions of seven newspapers the government has confiscated since the first of the year under the federal newspaper code permitting such action if it "endangers national security."

Reds Pursued

JAKARTA (AP) — Indonesian troops are moving against a band of 40 Communist-led guerrillas who slipped across the jungled border from Malaysian Sarawak into western Indonesian Borneo earlier this week, the army said today.

The guerrillas fled from Malaysian forces who claim to have killed 45 of their number in clashes in Sarawak in the last six weeks.

Stravinsky Better

NEW YORK (UPI)—Composer Igor Stravinsky, who was taken to Lenox Hill Hospital Tuesday for treatment of pneumonia and a minor heart ailment, was reported "doing well" early today.

The 87-year-old composer was removed from the hospital's intensive-care unit Friday, but his physician, Dr. Michael Bruno, said he probably would be hospitalized for at least another week.

Rhodesian Election

SALISBURY (UPI)—Premier Ian Smith's Rhodesian Front won all 50 seats allotted to white men in Rhodesia's new 66-seat republican parliament and Smith greeted the victory today by singing a Zulu battle song.

The Center party, main opposition and more moderate than the Front on the racial separation issue, won the first three out of eight elected seats reserved for blacks. Tallying was incomplete on the other five.

Another eight black seats, making 16 such in the parliament, will be selected later from nominations by tribal chiefs and other leaders of the black community.

Of Rhodesia's 4.6 million people, nearly four million are black Africans.

Kidnap Hinted

DAMASCUS (UPI) — Anti-Ethiopian guerrillas said today they were investigating reports that members of their group had kidnaped the American consul-general in Ethiopia, Murray Jackson.

The Iraq News Agency (INA) reported from Khartoum Friday that Jackson was seized March 14 by gunmen of the Eritrean Liberation Front (ELF) who shot their way into the U.S. consulate in Aoara. He is now held at a secret rebel base, INA said.

Peace Corps Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate passed by voice vote Friday a bill to authorize $90 million for the Peace Corps, $8.4 million less than this year. Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., pleaded with the House to restore the cut, saying the corps is "the best way we have to get America across."

Auto Solution?

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Fort Worth city manager Howard McMahan has proposed a "burial tax" on all new cars registered in Texas in an effort to combat disposal problems.

McMahan, appearing Friday before a subcommittee on air pollution and solid waste, also urged the $25 tax be placed on other cars when registered in Texas the first time.

"The abandonment of junk vehicles on streets and private properties is rapidly becoming a major problem to Fort Worth and other cities," he said.

Riots In London

LONDON (AP) — Three hundred soccer fans rioted on a train late Friday night then went on the rampage in the town of Walsall.

Police arrested 60 fans, three of them girls.

The fans were celebrating Coventry's 1-0 victory over Wolverhampton. The win puts Coventry into the European Fair Cities cup competition next season.

Slain Envoy Home

BONN (AP) — The body of Ambassador Count Karl von Spreti, slain in Guatemala by leftist guerrillas, arrived here today aboard a West German air force plane and was honored with a military ceremony.

Von Spreti's body will lie in state Monday in the Bundestag, the lower house of Parliament, and Foreign Minister Walter Scheel will deliver a eulogy there. Von Spreti, 63, will be buried Tuesday in a private ceremony.

Bombs In Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Two bomb explosions today tore through an office and garage belonging to a former Unionist cabinet minister who is running for the Northern Ireland parliament.

The targets, a garage and office owned by William Morgan, were badly damaged. Morgan, a former cabinet minister, is running as a Unionist candidate in a parliamentary by-election at South Antrim next week.

Teen Shooting Spree

GLENDALE (AP)—Two teenagers are accused of shooting pellet guns which police said caused an estimated $50,000 to automobiles and homes in a one-weekend escapade.

Booked for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon Friday were Richard R. Day, 18, of Glendale, and a 16-year-old Burbank youth whose name was not made public.

Investigators said the pair used carbon dioxide pellet guns last weekend to smash windows of 305 cars in Glendale, 75 in Burbank and 50 in Highland Park. Some occupied homes also were hit, officers said.

Wife Pays Alimony

WINDSOR, Ont. (UPI)—Louis Cohen, 63, learned Friday that after months of litigation he will be the first Canadian to receive alimony from his divorced wife.

The Ontario Supreme Court ordered his wife, Ruth, to pay him $355 a month.

Cohen, the first man under relaxed Canadian divorce statutes to be granted alimony, has been living in Toronto the past year on a $100-a-month welfare allowance.

Bay Span Speedup

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Eastbound motorists on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge Monday morning will find clear lanes through the toll plaza and a new speed limit of 40 miles per hour, according to the Division of Bay Toll Crossings.

Since March 23 a 25 miles per hour limit has been in effect and traffic limited to half of the toll booths while the other half was torn down. That phase of the remodeling has been completed.

The remaining booths will be removed starting Monday.

Tate Case Suit

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The former caretaker at the Sharon Tate estate, who was arrested and held two days following the August slayings, has filed a $1.25 million suit against the city for false arrest.

William Garretson Jr., 20, charged in the suit several policemen "maliciously and without warrant" entered his backyard cottage at the estate after the bodies of the actress and five other persons were discovered Aug. 10. He was arrested and held two days before his release.

Newhall Promoted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Scott Newhall, who joined the staff of the San Francisco Chronicle in 1935 as a photographer, was named Friday as the editor of the morning daily by editor and publisher Charles de Young Thieriot.

Thieriot, who is also president of the Chronicle Publishing Company, said he has become "more and more occupied with additional Chronicle Publishing Company responsibilities," and therefore had asked Newhall to take the new post.

U.S. Envoy Visits Cairo; New Fights

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Scattered border clashes were reported in the Middle East today, while Joseph Sisco, U.S. under-secretary of state for Middle Eastern affairs, visited Egypt in quest of a solution to the Arab-Israeli conflict.

An Israeli army patrol in Upper Galilee fought with several Arab guerrillas who crossed over from Lebanon, the army command in Tel Aviv reported. An Israeli resident of the village of Avavim was injured, a spokesman said.

A military spokesman in Amman reported that Jordanian forces pushed back an Israeli patrol which tried to cross the armistice line four miles north of the Red Sea port of Aqaba. The spokesman said one Israeli was wounded but that there were no Jordanian casualties.

Sisco, who had made stops in London and Paris before going to Cairo, was the first high-ranking American official to visit the Egyptian capital in more than a year. He was to go to Tel Aviv to meet with Israeli officials after conferring with Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Sisco said the United States supports the United Nations resolution calling for Israel to withdraw from territory occupied during the 1967 Middle East war.

Sisco made no reference to an Egyptian charge that Israel bombed a school this week, killing 31 children. Israel has maintained it bombed a military target Wednesday, saying that if Egypt was sending children to school in the building it was an irresponsible act.

In Beirut, Lebanese Foreign Minister Nassim Majdalani called on the United States to denounce the alleged raid.

"After this barbaric aggression, we are waiting to see the steps the United Nations and the U.S. will take in denouncing and condemning Israel," he said.

A MOTHER'S CHARITY LEADS TO NIGHTMARE

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—When 8-year-old Mark A. Browne died of an inoperable brain tumor Friday, his mother gave permission for transplants of his eyes and kidneys.

As soon as he was pronounced clinically dead at Childrens' Hospital in Los Angeles, he was placed on a life-imitating machine designed to keep his blood circulating until the transplants could be performed.

Then a kind of nightmare began for his mother, Mrs. Sandy Kindred, of Costa Mesa.

The machine had revived Mark in a short time and he was returned to a regular room. Doctors said it was "unbelievable," and noted his condition was extremely poor.

Mark was given no chance to survive beyond a few days because of the tumor. Nevertheless, he was alive and Mrs. Kindred had to experience the wait for his death all over again.

Kirk Takes Segregation Fight To Top, Skips Court

TAMPA, Fla (AP) — Again shunning a face-to-face meeting with a federal district judge, Gov. Claude Kirk sent two aides to a contempt hearing while he took Manatee County's school desegregation case directly to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Kirk, in seeking a hearing before the high court, said through his attorneys in Washington Friday that "there is grave danger of loss of life" if the turmoil in Manatee County continues.

The Republican governor contends his assumption of control over Manatee schools and their 17,000 pupils is a matter that can only be dealt with by the Supreme Court. He has twice defied U.S. District Judge Ben Krentzman's orders to leave the school system alone and to appear before him on contempt citations.

Kirk sent key aides Loyd Hagaman and Robert Hoffman — and Manatee Sheriff Richard Weitzenfeld and six deputies before Krentzman Friday to face contempt hearings.

Kretzman, during the six-hour hearing, asked Hagaman and Hoffman if they would obey Kirk and act against the court's order.

In tears, Hagaman replied: "I'll have to stay with my governor."

Hoffman followed: "Yes, your honor, I feel emotionally the same as Hagaman does."

Asked the same question, Weitzenfeld replied he could uphold the order of the court but only until he "receives another order from the governor."

Former Florida Gov. Millard Caldwell represented Kirk in court Friday.

Judge Krentzman heard testimony without formally recognizing Kirk's absence. He did not rule on any of the contempt cases.

Kirk returned to the state Capitol in Tallahassee Friday night. Spokesmen for his office said a 24-hour guard would be posted during the weekend at the Manatee school headquarters in Bradenton.

Lawmaker Apologizes For Talking Out Of Court

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Sen. Lawrence E. Walsh, D-Huntington Park, apologized in Sacramento County Superior Court today for disregarding an order that he not discuss secret grand jury testimony.

Walsh had been ordered by Judge William A. White to appear today and show cause why he should not be cited for contempt.

The senator told newsmen as he left court that he apologized and that the judge treated him "nicely." He had no other comment.

Walsh was one of several senators called by the Sacramento County Grand Jury last month as it investigated a $5,000 campaign contribution by savings and thrift firms to Senate leader Jack Schrade, R-San Diego.

After Walsh testified, he chatted with reporters outside the jury room briefly, saying he didn't think anything would come of the probe. He said he told the jury he had received a $1,000 campaign contribution from the same group.

The grand jury had instructed him not to discuss his testimony.

Los Angeles Official Sent Up To Prison

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Mel Pierson, former city recreation and parks commissioner, has been sentenced to one to 14 years in state prison on his bribery conviction involving city architectural contracts.

Pierson, 46, was denied probation by Superior Court Judge Harold J. Ackerman following sentencing Friday although the probation report recommended it.

FOUR COUNTS

Pierson was convicted last Jan. 14 on three counts of receiving bribes and one of soliciting a bribe in the awarding of city contracts. He was acquitted on a fifth count of bribery.

Pierson, the third city commissioner appointed by Mayor Sam Yorty to be convicted of bribery, was freed on $2,500 bond and his attorney, Douglas Dalton, was granted a stay of execution pending appeal.

TWO BRIBES

Pierson was found guilty of accepting a $4,500 bribe from architect Irving Shapiro and of soliciting a $25,000 bribe from golf concessionaire Richard O. Boggs.

In denying probation, Ackerman asked "How can we expect . . . our public servants . . . our . . . children to respect our form of government if Pierson was freed on probation?"

Pierson, who operates recreation camps for children, claimed he had been "used" by political friends.

More Time Sought For Chicano Voters

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Thousands of newly enfranchised Mexican-Americans will be given another month to register to vote in the June primary election, if Assemblyman John Vasconcellos has his way.

The San Jose Democrat Friday asked the Assembly Rules Committee for permission to introduce an urgency bill extending the voter registration deadline to May 15. The deadline was Thursday.

The state Supreme Court ruled last month that an otherwise qualified voter need not be literate in the English language to register to vote if he was literate in his own language. An estimated 100,000 to 500,000 Chicano citizens were affected by the decision.

But Vasconcellos' proposed bill contends that local registrars of voters did not learn of the decision until near the April 9 deadline.

"Therefore, most persons enfranchised by the Supreme Court's order will not be able to vote unless this act takes immediate effect," he said.

As an urgency measure, it would take effect immediately upon passage by the legislature and signature of the governor.

The rules committee must give its approval for the special introduction because unrestricted introduction of bills ceased last week.

Patrolman Mourned

FAIRFIELD (AP) — A dormation of some 400 California Highway Patrol officers stood outisde Hasley-Brien Funeral Home Friday as last rites were conducted for James Pence Jr., 25, one of four patrolmen killed Sunday in a gun battle.

About 250 persons, including law enforcement officers from Los Angeles, filled the chapel, as the Rev. William I. Witt said: "My farewell prayer is that this tragedy will seek to spark badly needed legislation to protect our law enforcement officers serving in the line of duty and to enact a meaningful system of weapons control."

The three other officers killed in the gunfire near the Southern California town of Saugus were buried Thrusday after eulogies in Merced and Los Gatos.

One of the gunmen in the battle died after a 10-hour holdout in a suburban home. The other has been arraigned on murder charges.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Hijackers Foiled

NEW YORK (AP) — Eastern Airlines, trying to thwart hijackers, has U.S. marshals physically search passengers or luggage when electronic surveillance reveals an "alien" object, an Eastern spokesman says.

The object "could turn out to be a bunch of keys, for example, or a transistor radio," the spokesman said Friday, but a number of persons have been arrested "upon disclosure of weapons or narcotics in their luggage or on their person."

Papers Grabbed

SAIGON (UPI)—The government confiscated today's editions of four Vietnamese newspapers for carrying stories of police torture of alleged Communist students.

The seizure of the newspapers brings to 14 editions of seven newspapers the government has confiscated since the first of the year under the federal newspaper code permitting such action if it "endangers national security."

Reds Pursued

JAKARTA (AP) — Indonesian troops are moving against a band of 40 Communist-led guerrillas who slipped across the jungled border from Malaysian Sarawak into western Indonesian Borneo earlier this week, the army said today.

The guerrillas fled from Malaysian forces who claim to have killed 45 of their number in clashes in Sarawak in the last six weeks.

Stravinsky Better

NEW YORK (UPI)—Composer Igor Stravinsky, who was taken to Lenox Hill Hospital Tuesday for treatment of pneumonia and a minor heart ailment, was reported "doing well" early today.

The 87-year-old composer was removed from the hospital's intensive-care unit Friday, but his physician, Dr. Michael Bruno, said he probably would be hospitalized for at least another week.

Rhodesian Election

SALISBURY (UPI)—Premier Ian Smith's Rhodesian Front won all 50 seats allotted to white men in Rhodesia's new 66-seat republican parliament and Smith greeted the victory today by singing a Zulu battle song.

The Center party, main opposition and more moderate than the Front on the racial separation issue, won the first three out of eight elected seats reserved for blacks. Tallying was incomplete on the other five.

Another eight black seats, making 16 such in the parliament, will be selected later from nominations by tribal chiefs and other leaders of the black community.

Of Rhodesia's 4.6 million people, nearly four million are black Africans.

U.S. Envoy Visits Cairo; New Fights

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Scattered border clashes were reported in the Middle East today, while Joseph Sisco, U.S. under-secretary of state for Middle Eastern affairs, visited Egypt in quest of a solution to the Arab-Israeli conflict.

An Israeli army patrol in Upper Galilee fought with several Arab guerrillas who crossed over from Lebanon, the army command in Tel Aviv reported. An Israeli resident of the village of Avavim was injured, a spokesman said.

Pierson, 46, was denied probation by Superior Court Judge Harold J. Ackerman following sentencing Friday although the probation report recommended it.

FOUR COUNTS

Pierson was convicted last Jan. 14 on three counts of receiving bribes and one of soliciting a bribe in the awarding of city contracts. He was acquitted on a fifth count of bribery.

Pierson, the third city commissioner appointed by Mayor Sam Yorty to be convicted of bribery, was freed on $2,500 bond and his attorney, Douglas Dalton, was granted a stay of execution pending appeal.

TWO BRIBES

Pierson was found guilty of accepting a $4,500 bribe from architect Irving Shapiro and of soliciting a $25,000 bribe from golf concessionaire Richard O. Boggs.

In denying probation, Ackerman asked "How can we expect . . . our public servants . . . our . . . children to respect our form of government if Pierson was freed on probation?"

Pierson, who operates recreation camps for children, claimed he had been "used" by political friends.

More Time Sought For Chicano Voters

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Thousands of newly enfranchised Mexican-Americans will be given another month to register to vote in the June primary election, if Assemblyman John Vasconcellos has his way.

The San Jose Democrat Friday asked the Assembly Rules Committee for permission to introduce an urgency bill extending the voter registration deadline to May 15. The deadline was Thursday.

The state Supreme Court ruled last month that an otherwise qualified voter need not be literate in the English language to register to vote if he was literate in his own language. An estimated 100,000 to 500,000 Chicano citizens were affected by the decision.

But Vasconcellos' proposed bill contends that local registrars of voters did not learn of the decision until near the April 9 deadline.

"Therefore, most persons enfranchised by the Supreme Court's order will not be able to vote unless this act takes immediate effect," he said.

As an urgency measure, it would take effect immediately upon passage by the legislature and signature of the governor.

The rules committee must give its approval for the special introduction because unrestricted introduction of bills ceased last week.

Patrolman Mourned

FAIRFIELD (AP) — A dormation of some 400 California Highway Patrol officers stood outisde Hasley-Brien Funeral Home Friday as last rites were conducted for James Pence Jr., 25, one of four patrolmen killed Sunday in a gun battle.

About 250 persons, including law enforcement officers from Los Angeles, filled the chapel, as the Rev. William I. Witt said: "My farewell prayer is that this tragedy will seek to spark badly needed legislation to protect our law enforcement officers serving in the line of duty and to enact a meaningful system of weapons control."

The three other officers killed in the gunfire near the Southern California town of Saugus were buried Thrusday after eulogies in Merced and Los Gatos.

One of the gunmen in the battle died after a 10-hour holdout in a suburban home. The other has been arraigned on murder charges.

Cotati Vote Will Decide Bonds' Fate

Cotati residents will go to the polls Tuesday to decide on a $100,000 bond issue to finance new sewer lines and a connection with the Rohnert Park sewage disposal plant.

The lone polling place at the Cotati Elementary School will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. a total of 654 persons are registered to vote.

The connection with the more modern Rohnert Park plant was recommended by engineers hired by the city council instead of making improvements to Cotati's plant.

The plant has been placed under a cease and desist order by the North Coastal Regional Water Quality Control board and failure to make necessary improvements could bring a halt to all building and a possible $6,000-per-day penalty for noncompliance.

Additional federal, about one third the total cost of the project, will be supplied by a extended to all portions of the project represents a regional joint undertaking.

If approved, sewers would be extended to all portions of the city, while now one-fourth is without sewer service.

The 15-year bonds would be sold at a maximum interest rate of 7 per cent.

According to City Mgr. Gordon H. Howe, the extension of sewer service would produce revenue estimated at $30,800 per year, which would be applied to bond payments.

Howe said the tax of 25 cents per $100 assessed valuation now paid by residents in the sewer district would not increase, while residents in the sections getting new service will begin also to pay the 25 cent sewer charge.

Howe also noted that a portion of the land occupied by the present sewage treatment plant can be sold and the proceeds used for sewerage improvements.

No organized opposition has been evident.

CAMBODIA

ment news agency reported "some material damage" in a Viet Cong sabotage attack on the capital's main railroad station Thursday. The blast occurred in the fuel tank of a diesel locomotive.

The Information Ministry said Viet Cong guerrillas came back for a second foray against the village of Prasaut at 11 a.m. today but were repulsed under attack from Cambodian artillery and MIG fighter bombers. The village is 20 miles from the border with South Vietnam.

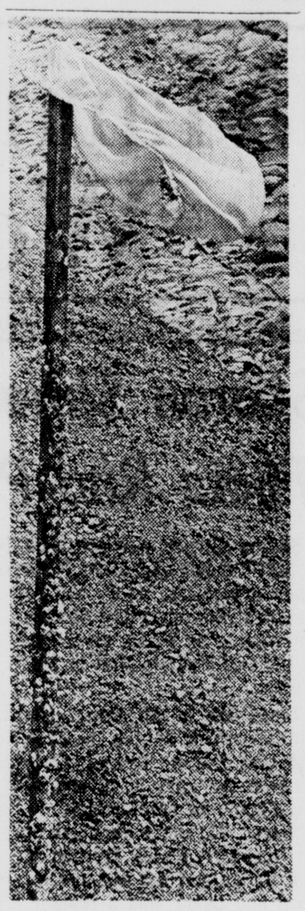
The government said at least 50 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers were killed or wounded Thursday in fighting at Prasaut. That was the day when the massacre took place, according to firsthand reports from the scene.

UPI correspondent Jack Walsh, in a report from Prasaut Friday, said Cambodian troops firing machine guns massacred 90 Vietnamese refugees when Viet Cong guerrillas attacked the camp in an attempt to "liberate" its occupants. Guards told Walsh they considered the place a "concentration camp" for Viet Cong suspects.

Three U.S. Planes Crash In Far Eastern Countries

BANGKOK (AP) — Three American military planes have crashed in eastern Asia, taking the lives of at least nine persons and injuring 30 others, U.S. officials reported.

A riddled U.S. Air Force reconnaissance plane hobbling back to its home base crashed Friday into the officers' quarters at Udorn Air Base in northeastern Thailand, killing three Americans and injuring 30.



OH, OH — The nude lady, if there was one, couldn't be found, but the display on West Marin's Agate Beach was a bold sign of the approach of summer anyway.
(Independent-Journal photo)

In north central Laos, an Air America C130 cargo plane plowed into a mountain and burned Friday, killing all six crewmen aboard.

And in Japan a U.S. Navy jet fighter crashed into Buckner Bay in central Okinawa today. The pilot was reported missing.

The Udorn crash occurred when the pilot of an RF4 jet, which was hit by antiaircraft fire over Laos, attempted an emergency landing but lost control.

Although the pilot and his copilot ejected safely, their plane plunged into the barracks beside the runway, exploded on impact and set fire to nine buildings, an officers' trailer and the office of the Armed Forces Radio Network.

A U.S. official said the final casualty figures were not immediately available, and that the toll might rise.

The names of the three dead men were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The 30 injured men were treated for smoke inhalation, heat exhaustion and minor injuries but were said to be in good condition.

The Air America crash over Laos took place during cloudy weather. There was no indication that the plane had been downed by enemy fire.

The C130 had taken off from Udorn, where the RF4 crashed, and was heading for the U.S.-supported base at Long Cheng in Laos to pick up road construction machinery and material. Air America, a nominally private firm, does contract work for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

The pilot informed the Long Cheng control tower that he was about to land—and then radio contact was lost. Air America search helicopters spotted the plane's wreckage at 7,200 feet on one of the highest mountains of the region. There appeared to be no survivors.

The crash of the U.S. Navy fighter in Okinawa was the second plane disaster there in two days. A U.S. Air Force C130 transport plane with 11 persons on board plunged into the Pacific off Okinawa Friday.

FERRY

of a 60-day option could be obtained to prevent sale of the vessel to one of the other parties reportedly interested in it.

The vessel was built to haul tourists from San Diego to watch migrating whales, but plans for that use collapsed after it was built, Luehring said.

The district's attorney, Jerome B. White, advised that before buying the vessel the directors would have to pass a resolution declaring the ferry service would not provide any intracounty service in Marin. A 1969 state law required either such a finding or a contribution from Marin for intracounty service provided by the district, he said.

Lester C. Bedient, general manager of Harbor Carriers, assured directors that his company will continue commute service from Tiburon indefinitely. Still unknown, however, was whether midday and weekend service will be continued, he said.

Directors also referred to committee a suggestion from Mill Valley city officials that the district consider putting a ferry terminal at Mill Valley's small craft harbor, which would be about 45 minutes from San Francisco.

Directors also authorized Luehring to explore the possibility of using the district's own ferry boat, if it buys one, to serve Sausalito. Wornum said Sausalito city officials were "very interested" in such service and that landowners also were interested in providing landing and parking facilities.

Jury Convicts Youth On Dope, Knife Charge

A jury in Marin Superior Court deliberated about an hour yesterday before finding Kenneth Foss Allen, 20, of Mill Valley, guilty of possessing heroin and a switchblade knife.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner set sentencing for May 25.

Allen was arrested Sept. 21 in Corte Madera after he and a 17-year-old Novato boy were reported prowling through a residential neighborhood. A man walking his dog called police when he saw the two youths shining a flashlight into a house.

A search of Allen's clothing produced a small knife and a white paper containing heroin.

Ross Valley Officials Prepare Debris Plan

A proposed ordinance aimed at stopping the dumping of tree trimmings and other debris into creeks won unanimous assent yesterday from three mayors of Ross Valley and Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr.

Arrigoni announced he would ask the board of supervisors to set public hearings on the ordinance. Mayors Neil R. Brixon of Larkspur, Woodrow V. Capurro of San Anselmo and Francis J. O'Connell of Fairfax agreed to submit the county ordinance to their cities for approval.

The ordinance, to apply countywide, would make each owner of property adjacent to a creek responsible for keeping his portion of the creek free of "debris, rubbish, or any other unnatural obstruction" which would impede the free flow of water. Debris collecting on county rights-of-way would be the responsibility of flood control districts.

Arrigoni estimated it would be about a month before public hearings could be held by the supervisors.

Arrigoni and the mayors initiated the ordinance because they fear the ban on backyard burning will increase the problem of debris dumping into creeks.

Public works departments of each city would inspect creeks periodically and enforce the ordinance within city limits. In unincorporated areas, the county public works department would inspect and enforce, with flood control zones paying for any enforcement cost.

Arrigoni guessed that a tax rate increase of 2 to 5 cents would cover the cost of enforcing the ordinance in the unincorporated areas of Ross Valley flood control district.

The group tentatively scheduled the next meeting of the Ross Valley Flood Control District Adivsory Board for 4 p.m. April 24 in Ross.

Camp Given Some Help; Shells Rain

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist gunners in jungles around the Green Beret camp at Dak Seang fired 10 82mm mortar shells into the outpost around noon today and a South Vietnamese general predicted more heavy fighting in the area despite arrival of Allied relief forces.

A South Vietnamese helicopter landing at Dak Seang today took 93 shrapnel hits from a mortar shell which exploded behind it.

Brig. Gen. Lu Mong Lan, the commander in the area, said he thought North Vietnamese troops around Dak Seang were regrouping and obtaining reinforcements and supplies for new assaults within a week. More than 10,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong are believed within striking distance of the camp.

But most commanders were optimistic about the outlook at Dak Seang as the relief column of 600 South Vietnamese soldiers arrived and six waves of B52 bombers tried to strike a death blow against the Communists encircling it.

Spokesmen said the new raids brought to 24 the number of Stratofort missions flown in support of the base—similar to B52 strikes that helped break such other sieges as the one at Khe Sanh in early 1968 and at Ben Het, near Dak Seang, last spring.

Fighting elsewhere on the battlefield was described as light. One of the largest actions involving American troops saw a unit of the 25th Division throw back a ground attack 74 miles northwest of Saigon, killing 12 North Vietnamese. GI losses were two dead, five wounded.

Bay Area Air Pollution Control District is accumulating data to support a misdemeanor violation against the firm, Mathews, Humbert and Walker. "However, the state Division of Forestry has displayed a monumental lack of interest in the entire problem and as of this date has not even sent an investigator to the property," Maloney said.

Maloney said he will ask the board of supervisors to instruct the district attorney to start criminal proceedings against the logging firm, and demand that the state Division of Forestry revoke the logger's permit and institute punitive measures, asking Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, to join the county in this demand.

The lumbermen were under fire from the county last summer for allegedly poor logging practices and the issue wound up in court, resulting in an order from an Alameda Superior Court judge that the firm should meet certain operating standards.

a membership vote on the contract.

As a result of the wildcat strikes, thousands of workers have been laid off in the Midwest and there have been scattered incidents of violence reported there and in the East.

Some Chicago trucking companies began the lockout in response to a selective strike by drivers.

In Pittsburgh, U.S. Steel Corp. filed a suit in federal court asking an end to a six-day strike by independent steel haulers. The company said the strike could force the layoff of "many thousands of employes."

In teacher strikes in Minneapolis, Butte, Mont., and Muskogee, Okla., almost 40,000 pupils were left without instruction.

The 2,200 striking Minneapolis public schoolteachers walked off their jobs illegally Thursday to seek higher wages and smaller classes.

The teachers threatened to extend their picketing Monday to halt construction at sites of new school buildings.

The Butte dispute centered on hiring practices for administrators. And in Muskogee, the teachers were demanding the school board work out a desegregation plan acceptable to the federal government.

Air traffic controllers continued to call in "sick" for the 18th day. However, the Federal Aviation Administration said some of the striking controllers were continuing to drift back to work.

In New York, both sides in the newspaper talks said a shutdown is likely if a contract is not settled this weekend.

OBITUARIES

Joseph V. Arata, Banker, Dies

Joseph V. Arata of Greenbrae, a retired bank vice president whose career spanned nearly four decades, died of a heart attack yesterday while traveling in Japan, his family said. He was 69.

Arata retired from the Bank of America in 1966 after 39 years' service.

He spent most of his career at the bank's Columbus branch in San Francisco, first working there as chief clerk in 1927. He was named assistant manager in 1944, advancing to manager of the branch at 29th Avenue and Mission Street the following year.

Arata served as vice president and manager of the Columbus branch from 1954 until retirement.

Born in San Francisco, Arata moved to Marin 41 years ago and lived in Ross before moving to Greenbrae in 1957. He lived at 115 Altura Way.

Arata was president of the Italian Welfare Agency and the Societa Italiana Dimutua Beneficienza. He was on the lay board of St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco, and was also active in the Salesian Boys' Club, Knights of Columbus, the Native Sons of the Golden West, Sons of Italy, the Italian Chamber of Commerce, San Francisco Chamber of Commerce and the North Beach Merchants Association.

In addition to his wife, Frances, he is survived by his mother, Clorinda Arata of Greenbrae; three daughters, Virginia Finocchio of San Jose, Clorinda Powers of Vallejo, and Joanne Bruno of La Selva Beach, Santa Cruz County; a sister, Marie Figone of Greenbrae, and 14 grandchildren.

A Solemn Requiem High Mass will be offered at 10 a.m. Tuesday at S.S. Peter and Paul's Church, San Francisco. Recitation of the Rosary will be Monday at 8 p.m. at the chapel of Valente Marini Perata and Co., San Francisco. Entombment will be in the Italian Cemetery in Colma.

Contributions to the Salesian Boys Club are preferred.

AUDREY ISBEL

Audrey Christine Isbel of 226 Sycamore Avenue, Mill Valley, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness. She was 45.

A native of Franklin, N.C., Mrs. Isbel came to California eight years ago. She had lived in Marin County for five years.

She is survived by her husband, Jack, and a daughter, Nancy Colvin, both of Mill Valley; her mother, Mrs. William Lee; three sisters, Margaret Boles, Elizabeth Greer and Myrtle Phillips and two brothers, Floyd and William Lee.

Funeral will be Monday at 11 a.m. at Russell and Gooch Mortuary, Mill Valley. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

ROBERT W. SCOTT

Private funeral for attorney Robert W. Scott of Kentfield was held today at Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

Scott, 60, of 26 Rancheria Road, died at his home Thursday following a short illness.

A native of South San Francisco, Scott moved to San Francisco in 1936 and to Kentfield in 1949.

He had practiced law in San Francisco, running his own firm, since graduating from Stanford Law School at the age of 21.

He was president of the board of directors of Hahnemann Hospital in San Francisco from 1965 to 1968, a member of the Islam Temple of the Shrine, the Marin Shrine Club and the California Bar Association.

Surviving are his wife, Eleanor; two daughters, Judy Luce of San Anselmo and Lynne Scott of Kentfield; a brother, Gordon C. Scott of San Carlos, and two grandchildren.

WAYNE JORDAN

Wayne H. Jordan, 39, a pipe crew foreman with the Marin Municipal Water District, died yesterday at a local hospital following a long illness.

A native of Novato, he lived at 312 Las Flores Avenue, Los Ranchitos. He was a Navy veteran and had worked for the water district for 19 years.

He is survived by his wife, Gerry; a daughter, Linda Noel, and a son, Michael Jordan, both of San Rafael; his mother, Lena Blaski of Novato, and a granddaughter.

Requiem Mass will be offered at 9:30 a.m. Monday at Blessed Sacrament Church in Santa Venetia. Recitation of the Rosary will be tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary. Burial will be at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society are preferred.

Candidates' Coffee

A public coffee will be given Monday for Mayor Edward W. Colthurst and Herbert C. Leney, candidates for the Corte Madera Town Council, by Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Kogler and Mr. and Mrs. Phillip J. Trau Jr. at 8 p.m. in the library at San Clemente School, Golden Hind Passage.

Lovell and Haise plan to spend 34 hours on the lunar surface. They hope to make two five-hour excursions to collect primitive rocks, set up a nuclear-powered science station, drill 10 feet into the lunar crust and trek nearly two miles on a geology field trip.

Once separated, the two ships will use the code names Odyssey for Swigert's command vessel and Aquarius for the lunar lander.

ment news agency reported "some material damage" in a Viet Cong sabotage attack on the capital's main railroad station Thursday. The blast occurred in the fuel tank of a diesel locomotive.

The Information Ministry said Viet Cong guerrillas came back for a second foray against the village of Prasaut at 11 a.m. today but were repulsed under attack from Cambodian artillery and MIG fighter bombers. The village is 20 miles from the border with South Vietnam.

The government said at least 50 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers were killed or wounded Thursday in fighting at Prasaut. That was the day when the massacre took place, according to firsthand reports from the scene.

UPI correspondent Jack Walsh, in a report from Prasaut Friday, said Cambodian troops firing machine guns massacred 90 Vietnamese refugees when Viet Cong guerrillas attacked the camp in an attempt to "liberate" its occupants. Guards told Walsh they considered the place a "concentration camp" for Viet Cong suspects.

Three U.S. Planes Crash In Far Eastern Countries

BANGKOK (AP) — Three American military planes have crashed in eastern Asia, taking the lives of at least nine persons and injuring 30 others, U.S. officials reported.

A riddled U.S. Air Force reconnaissance plane hobbling back to its home base crashed Friday into the officers' quarters at Udorn Air Base in northeastern Thailand, killing three Americans and injuring 30.

OH, OH — The nude lady, if there was one, couldn't be found, but the display on West Marin's Agate Beach was a bold sign of the approach of summer anyway.

In north central Laos, an Air America C130 cargo plane plowed into a mountain and burned Friday, killing all six crewmen aboard.

And in Japan a U.S. Navy jet fighter crashed into Buckner Bay in central Okinawa today. The pilot was reported missing.

The Udorn crash occurred when the pilot of an RF4 jet, which was hit by antiaircraft fire over Laos, attempted an emergency landing but lost control.

Although the pilot and his copilot ejected safely, their plane plunged into the barracks beside the runway, exploded on impact and set fire to nine buildings, an officers' trailer and the office of the Armed Forces Radio Network.

A U.S. official said the final casualty figures were not immediately available, and that the toll might rise.

The names of the three dead men were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The 30 injured men were treated for smoke inhalation, heat exhaustion and minor injuries but were said to be in good condition.

The Air America crash over Laos took place during cloudy weather. There was no indication that the plane had been downed by enemy fire.

The C130 had taken off from Udorn, where the RF4 crashed, and was heading for the U.S.-supported base at Long Cheng in Laos to pick up road construction machinery and material. Air America, a nominally private firm, does contract work for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

The pilot informed the Long Cheng control tower that he was about to land—and then radio contact was lost. Air America search helicopters spotted the plane's wreckage at 7,200 feet on one of the highest mountains of the region. There appeared to be no survivors.

The crash of the U.S. Navy fighter in Okinawa was the second plane disaster there in two days. A U.S. Air Force C130 transport plane with 11 persons on board plunged into the Pacific off Okinawa Friday.

FERRY

of a 60-day option could be obtained to prevent sale of the vessel to one of the other parties reportedly interested in it.

The vessel was built to haul tourists from San Diego to watch migrating whales, but plans for that use collapsed after it was built, Luehring said.

The district's attorney, Jerome B. White, advised that before buying the vessel the directors would have to pass a resolution declaring the ferry service would not provide any intracounty service in Marin. A 1969 state law required either such a finding or a contribution from Marin for intracounty service provided by the district, he said.

Lester C. Bedient, general manager of Harbor Carriers, assured directors that his company will continue commute service from Tiburon indefinitely. Still unknown, however, was whether midday and weekend service will be continued, he said.

Directors also referred to committee a suggestion from Mill Valley city officials that the district consider putting a ferry terminal at Mill Valley's small craft harbor, which would be about 45 minutes from San Francisco.

Directors also authorized Luehring to explore the possibility of using the district's own ferry boat, if it buys one, to serve Sausalito. Wornum said Sausalito city officials were "very interested" in such service and that landowners also were interested in providing landing and parking facilities.

Jury Convicts Youth On Dope, Knife Charge

A jury in Marin Superior Court deliberated about an hour yesterday before finding Kenneth Foss Allen, 20, of Mill Valley, guilty of possessing heroin and a switchblade knife.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner set sentencing for May 25.

Allen was arrested Sept. 21 in Corte Madera after he and a 17-year-old Novato boy were reported prowling through a residential neighborhood. A man walking his dog called police when he saw the two youths shining a flashlight into a house.

A search of Allen's clothing produced a small knife and a white paper containing heroin.

Ross Valley Officials Prepare Debris Plan

A proposed ordinance aimed at stopping the dumping of tree trimmings and other debris into creeks won unanimous assent yesterday from three mayors of Ross Valley and Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr.

Arrigoni announced he would ask the board of supervisors to set public hearings on the ordinance. Mayors Neil R. Brixon of Larkspur, Woodrow V. Capurro of San Anselmo and Francis J. O'Connell of Fairfax agreed to submit the county ordinance to their cities for approval.

The ordinance, to apply countywide, would make each owner of property adjacent to a creek responsible for keeping his portion of the creek free of "debris, rubbish, or any other unnatural obstruction" which would impede the free flow of water. Debris collecting on county rights-of-way would be the responsibility of flood control districts.

Arrigoni estimated it would be about a month before public hearings could be held by the supervisors.

Arrigoni and the mayors initiated the ordinance because they fear the ban on backyard burning will increase the problem of debris dumping into creeks.

Public works departments of each city would inspect creeks periodically and enforce the ordinance within city limits. In unincorporated areas, the county public works department would inspect and enforce, with flood control zones paying for any enforcement cost.

Arrigoni guessed that a tax rate increase of 2 to 5 cents would cover the cost of enforcing the ordinance in the unincorporated areas of Ross Valley flood control district.

The group tentatively scheduled the next meeting of the Ross Valley Flood Control District Adivsory Board for 4 p.m. April 24 in Ross.

Camp Given Some Help; Shells Rain

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist gunners in jungles around the Green Beret camp at Dak Seang fired 10 82mm mortar shells into the outpost around noon today and a South Vietnamese general predicted more heavy fighting in the area despite arrival of Allied relief forces.

A South Vietnamese helicopter landing at Dak Seang today took 93 shrapnel hits from a mortar shell which exploded behind it.

Brig. Gen. Lu Mong Lan, the commander in the area, said he thought North Vietnamese troops around Dak Seang were regrouping and obtaining reinforcements and supplies for new assaults within a week. More than 10,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong are believed within striking distance of the camp.

But most commanders were optimistic about the outlook at Dak Seang as the relief column of 600 South Vietnamese soldiers arrived and six waves of B52 bombers tried to strike a death blow against the Communists encircling it.

Spokesmen said the new raids brought to 24 the number of Stratofort missions flown in support of the base—similar to B52 strikes that helped break such other sieges as the one at Khe Sanh in early 1968 and at Ben Het, near Dak Seang, last spring.

Fighting elsewhere on the battlefield was described as light. One of the largest actions involving American troops saw a unit of the 25th Division throw back a ground attack 74 miles northwest of Saigon, killing 12 North Vietnamese. GI losses were two dead, five wounded.

Bay Area Air Pollution Control District is accumulating data to support a misdemeanor violation against the firm, Mathews, Humbert and Walker. "However, the state Division of Forestry has displayed a monumental lack of interest in the entire problem and as of this date has not even sent an investigator to the property," Maloney said.

Maloney said he will ask the board of supervisors to instruct the district attorney to start criminal proceedings against the logging firm, and demand that the state Division of Forestry revoke the logger's permit and institute punitive measures, asking Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, to join the county in this demand.

The lumbermen were under fire from the county last summer for allegedly poor logging practices and the issue wound up in court, resulting in an order from an Alameda Superior Court judge that the firm should meet certain operating standards.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

8:10 a.m., Mount Tamalpais — Leaf mold ignited from an unknown cause burned a 30 by 90 foot spot fire in brush on fire trail one mile below Pan Toll Camp ranger station.

10:46 a.m., Sausalito — Heavy smoke from fire at old distillery, Tomales and Wateree streets, when cutting torches used to dismantle tanks ignited tarpaper and other materials. Air pollution control authorities notified of improperly controlled burn.

2:26 p.m., San Rafael — Fire set in mail box at Third and High streets damaged five letters. Matchbook covers found in mailbox, damaged mail returned to senders with explanation.

3:15 p.m., Nicasio — Brush pile on wharf at Nicasio Lake ignited from unknown cause, no damage.

TODAY:

a membership vote on the contract.

As a result of the wildcat strikes, thousands of workers have been laid off in the Midwest and there have been scattered incidents of violence reported there and in the East.

Some Chicago trucking companies began the lockout in response to a selective strike by drivers.

In Pittsburgh, U.S. Steel Corp. filed a suit in federal court asking an end to a six-day strike by independent steel haulers. The company said the strike could force the layoff of "many thousands of employes."

In teacher strikes in Minneapolis, Butte, Mont., and Muskogee, Okla., almost 40,000 pupils were left without instruction.

The 2,200 striking Minneapolis public schoolteachers walked off their jobs illegally Thursday to seek higher wages and smaller classes.

The teachers threatened to extend their picketing Monday to halt construction at sites of new school buildings.

The Butte dispute centered on hiring practices for administrators. And in Muskogee, the teachers were demanding the school board work out a desegregation plan acceptable to the federal government.

Air traffic controllers continued to call in "sick" for the 18th day. However, the Federal Aviation Administration said some of the striking controllers were continuing to drift back to work.

In New York, both sides in the newspaper talks said a shutdown is likely if a contract is not settled this weekend.

JOSEPH ARATA
Long-time banker

OBITUARIES

Joseph V. Arata, Banker, Dies

Joseph V. Arata of Greenbrae, a retired bank vice president whose career spanned nearly four decades, died of a heart attack yesterday while traveling in Japan, his family said. He was 69.

Arata retired from the Bank of America in 1966 after 39 years' service.

He spent most of his career at the bank's Columbus branch in San Francisco, first working there as chief clerk in 1927. He was named assistant manager in 1944, advancing to manager of the branch at 29th Avenue and Mission Street the following year.

Arata served as vice president and manager of the Columbus branch from 1954 until retirement.

Born in San Francisco, Arata moved to Marin 41 years ago and lived in Ross before moving to Greenbrae in 1957. He lived at 115 Altura Way.

Arata was president of the Italian Welfare Agency and the Societa Italiana Dimutua Beneficienza. He was on the lay board of St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco, and was also active in the Salesian Boys' Club, Knights of Columbus, the Native Sons of the Golden West, Sons of Italy, the Italian Chamber of Commerce, San Francisco Chamber of Commerce and the North Beach Merchants Association.

In addition to his wife, Frances, he is survived by his mother, Clorinda Arata of Greenbrae; three daughters, Virginia Finocchio of San Jose, Clorinda Powers of Vallejo, and Joanne Bruno of LaSelva Beach, Santa Cruz County; a sister, Marie Figone of Greenbrae, and 14 grandchildren.

A Solemn Requiem High Mass will be offered at 10 a.m. Tuesday at S.S. Peter and Paul's Church, San Francisco. Recitation of the Rosary will be Monday at 8 p.m. at the chapel of Valente Marini Perata and Co., San Francisco. Entombment will be in the Italian Cemetery in Colma.

Contributions to the Salesian Boys Club are preferred.

AUDREY ISBEL

Audrey Christine Isbel of 226 Sycamore Avenue, Mill Valley, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness. She was 45.

A native of Franklin, N.C., Mrs. Isbel came to California eight years ago. She had lived in Marin County for five years.

She is survived by her husband, Jack, and a daughter, Nancy Colvin, both of Mill Valley; her mother, Mrs. William Lee; three sisters, Margaret Boles, Elizabeth Greer and Myrtle Phillips and two brothers, Floyd and William Lee.

Funeral will be Monday at 11 a.m. at Russell and Gooch Mortuary, Mill Valley. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

ROBERT W. SCOTT

Private funeral for attorney Robert W. Scott of Kentfield was held today at Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

Scott, 60, of 26 Rancheria Road, died at his home Thursday following a short illness.

A native of South San Francisco, Scott moved to San Francisco in 1936 and to Kentfield in 1949.

He had practiced law in San Francisco, running his own firm, since graduating from Stanford Law School at the age of 21.

He was president of the board of directors of Hahnemann Hospital in San Francisco from 1965 to 1968, a member of the Islam Temple of the Shrine, the Marin Shrine Club and the California Bar Association.

Surviving are his wife, Eleanor; two daughters, Judy Luce of San Anselmo and Lynne Scott of Kentfield; a brother, Gordon C. Scott of San Carlos, and two grandchildren.

WAYNE JORDAN

Wayne H. Jordan, 39, a pipe crew foreman with the Marin Municipal Water District, died yesterday at a local hospital following a long illness.

A native of Novato, he lived at 312 Las Flores Avenue, Los Ranchitos. He was a Navy veteran and had worked for the water district for 19 years.

He is survived by his wife, Gerry; a daughter, Linda Noel, and a son, Michael Jordan, both of San Rafael; his mother, Lena Blaski of Novato, and a granddaughter.

Requiem Mass will be offered at 9:30 a.m. Monday at Blessed Sacrament Church in Santa Venetia. Recitation of the Rosary will be tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary. Burial will be at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society are preferred.

Candidates' Coffee

A public coffee will be given Monday for Mayor Edward W. Colthurst and Herbert C. Leney, candidates for the Corte Madera Town Council, by Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Kogler and Mr. and Mrs. Phillip J. Trau Jr. at 8 p.m. in the library at San Clemente School, Golden Hind Passage.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Pupils Praise Their Teachers' Warmth, Originality, Fairness

DEAR HELEN:

I wrote this for a special teacher, and when you print it I'll put it on his bulletin board so he'll know.

WHAT IS A FAVORITE TEACHER?

He is a good guy who doesn't have any pets. He's a guy who listens to corny jokes and lets you decorate his bulletin boards. On the first day of school he puts a drawing that you made (instead of listening) on the door. He's that guy with a grin from ear to ear.

He's the one who finally gives you detention after putting up with your gum-chewing zillions of times, but it isn't bad.

He wants you to understand fractions and what the word "contagious" means. He's the guy who says "It's 'isn't', not 'aint.' "

He's the man who lets you play softball with him and other older people. He understands that girls like that kind of stuff, too. He's the guy who lets you get an extra drink on hot days.

He's the one who asked you the answer when you don't know, but doesn't make you feel stupid, and then he explains it so anyone would know.

He's the one who makes you sit with a boy when you're standing on the bus on the way from a school trip. And you don't like boys! He is the one who is proud of his wife and little girl — and also proud of his kids at school. I surely hope he'll be a seventh grade teacher next year. SIXTH GRADE KAY

DEAR HELEN:

I'm not too well at expressing my feelings, but I'll try.

There's this certain student teacher (I'll call her P.B.) who just taught us for eight weeks. She was the most wonderful, warm, friendly teacher I have ever had. The subject was art. She not only put her knowledge into her job, but most of all, her personality. She made us feel as though we could always improve and always learn, and we learned how to accept criticism, too.

She would joke around while explaining something, to make the project more interesting. It was never, "Do this or else."

She became a friend to everyone, especially me. Even while she had a semester break, she gave up her time to come back and help the seniors finish their projects.

It's certainly true that if you put a little kindness into your job, you'll make life worth living for someone else. — C.C.

DEAR HELEN:

We also have a best-loved teacher at our school, and surprise, surprise, she's a nun. I should say The Nun, because she's the best. She is outspoken, original and honest, plus strict and fearless. She can be the bouncer if you don't watch out. She's very well educated, not only in book-learning, but in people.

She is determined to give each student the best chance he can have. She demands obedience and respect. She makes us do things over until we get them right, and we love her for it. It's a rare and beautiful teacher who can gain real admiration and love by being tough! — A SENIOR

DEAR READERS:

And it's a rare and beautiful day when I can devote a whole youth-written column in praise of adults. May there be more such days! — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

FIFTY YEARS of marriage are recalled by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bottarini of San Rafael. In the foreground of a family tree of photographs presented to them by their children is the couple's wedding picture, taken April 7, 1920 in San Francisco. The family is traced in photographs including those of their four grandchildren.

Natives Of Lonate Pozzolo, Italy Celebrate 50 Years Of Marriage

Maria Arbini became the bride of Louis Bottarini April 7, 1920, at Sts. Peter and Paul Church in San Francisco. Both were born in Lonate Pozzolo, Italy, a small town in northern Italy, near the Swiss border but met for the first time in San Anselmo.

In 1910 Mr. Bottarini left his home town, immigrating to the United States to work on his brother's ranch in Oakdale. Three years later he moved to San Anselmo, boarding with a couple, whose niece, Maria, came from Italy in 1920 to live with them. Two months after they met, the couple were married.

They made their home in San Anselmo for six months, moving in October of 1920 to the home in which they still live on Mariposa Road in San Rafael.

Mr. Bottarini was employed by the street department of the City of San Rafael.

The couple's children are Mrs. John McCarthy of Corte Madera, who has a son, Bruce, 12, and a daughter, Vivian, 16; and Anthony J. Bottarini of San Rafael, who has two daughters, Christina, 8, and Cathy Ann, 6 years old.

The Bottarinis were honored at a reception celebrating their 50th anniversary Sunday at Carpenters' Hall in San Rafael, hosted by their daughter and her husband and their son and his wife.

Betsy E. Green To Be Bride Of Ronald Rick

Mrs. Eleanor Green of Belvedere is announcing the engagement of her daughter Betsy Ellen to Ronald Paul Rick of San Francisco.

Betsy is the daughter of Malcolm Green of Boston and the sister of Edward and Diane Rick. She was graduated from Dana Hall School in Wellesley, Mass., and Occidental College in Los Angeles.

Ronald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lenard Rick of Milford, Conn. He is a graduate of the Paier School of Art and is with the design firm of Jerry Berman and Associates of San Francisco.

A Sept. 12 wedding is planned by the couple.

BETSY GREEN

John Michael Puccinelli To Wed Barbara d'Alessio

Mr. and Mae. Wagner d'Aliesio of Ross have announced the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Jean d'Alessio, to John Michael Puccinelli, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Puccinelli of San Francisco.

The sister of Robert and John d'Alessio of Ross, Barbara is a junior at San Jose State College. She was graduted from Redwood High School and attended the University of Pacific.

John, who has a brother, Michael, is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John Marsh of San Francisco. He was graduated from St. Ignatius High School and attends the University of Pacific school of pharmacy.

The couple plan to be married next year.

Children Of Welfare Mothers Often Fend For Themselves

By CRAIG A. PALMER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Nearly 15 per cent of working welfare mothers let their children fend for themselves while they are on the job, says a new government study.

The survey of Aid to Families with Dependent Children was the government's first nationwide analysis of the nation's largest, most controversial welfare program since 1967. It was prepared by the Health, Education and Welfare department's National Center for Social Statistics.

The 1969 study found that more than 6 in 10 welfare mothers were not employable because they were not able to work, lacked job skills or had fulltime household duties. Of the 20 per cent considered "in the labor force," 14.5 per cent were working and the others were looking for work.

Most mothers who worked or were enrolled in work training had their children cared for privately, usually by relatives. But in 33,400 welfare families, the children looked after themselves while their mothers worked or trained for jobs.

Day care facilities were used by only 5 per cent of the mothers with children under age 3; 11 per cent with children 3 to 5; and 3 per cent with children 6 to 14. President Nixon's welfare reform proposal would establish a program of day care facilities for children of working mothers.

In the 1,630,400 families sampled, 92 per cent had mothers in the home but only 18 per cent had fathers living with the children. Most of the fathers were gone because of divorce, separation or desertion.

The study said 31 per cent of the children in these families were born out of wedlock.

The typical welfare family lived in cities with only one in seven in rural areas, had three children and one adult, and was not a long term case.

Among all families in the 50 states and Washington, D.C., 49.2 per cent were white; 46.2 per cent Negro and 1.3 per cent American Indian.

The government was unable to answer whether many families left the South to get higher welfare benefits in northern cities.

"There was evidence of outmigration from the South by AFDC mothers — considerably more than from any other region, but their reasons for moving were not ascertainable from study date," the report said.

Latest government statistics show nearly 1.8 million families with 7 million persons receiving monthly AFDC payments averaging $177.20 per family and $45.45 per individual.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Pupils Praise Their Teachers' Warmth, Originality, Fairness

DEAR HELEN:

I wrote this for a special teacher, and when you print it I'll put it on his bulletin board so he'll know.

WHAT IS A FAVORITE TEACHER?

He is a good guy who doesn't have any pets. He's a guy who listens to corny jokes and lets you decorate his bulletin boards. On the first day of school he puts a drawing that you made (instead of listening) on the door. He's that guy with a grin from ear to ear.

He's the one who finally gives you detention after putting up with your gum-chewing zillions of times, but it isn't bad.

He wants you to understand fractions and what the word "contagious" means. He's the guy who says "It's 'isn't', not 'aint.' "

He's the man who lets you play softball with him and other older people. He understands that girls like that kind of stuff, too. He's the guy who lets you get an extra drink on hot days.

He's the one who asked you the answer when you don't know, but doesn't make you feel stupid, and then he explains it so anyone would know.

He's the one who makes you sit with a boy when you're standing on the bus on the way from a school trip. And you don't like boys! He is the one who is proud of his wife and little girl — and also proud of his kids at school. I surely hope he'll be a seventh grade teacher next year. SIXTH GRADE KAY

DEAR HELEN:

I'm not too well at expressing my feelings, but I'll try.

There's this certain student teacher (I'll call her P.B.) who just taught us for eight weeks. She was the most wonderful, warm, friendly teacher I have ever had. The subject was art. She not only put her knowledge into her job, but most of all, her personality. She made us feel as though we could always improve and always learn, and we learned how to accept criticism, too.

She would joke around while explaining something, to make the project more interesting. It was never, "Do this or else."

She became a friend to everyone, especially me. Even while she had a semester break, she gave up her time to come back and help the seniors finish their projects.

It's certainly true that if you put a little kindness into your job, you'll make life worth living for someone else. — C.C.

DEAR HELEN:

We also have a best-loved teacher at our school, and surprise, surprise, she's a nun. I should say The Nun, because she's the best. She is outspoken, original and honest, plus strict and fearless. She can be the bouncer if you don't watch out. She's very well educated, not only in book-learning, but in people.

She is determined to give each student the best chance he can have. She demands obedience and respect. She makes us do things over until we get them right, and we love her for it. It's a rare and beautiful teacher who can gain real admiration and love by being tough! — A SENIOR

DEAR READERS:

And it's a rare and beautiful day when I can devote a whole youth-written column in praise of adults. May there be more such days! — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

FIFTY YEARS of marriage are recalled by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bottarini of San Rafael. In the foreground of a family tree of photographs presented to them by their children is the couple's wedding picture, taken April 7, 1920 in San Francisco. The family is traced in photographs including those of their four grandchildren.

Natives Of Lonate Pozzolo, Italy Celebrate 50 Years Of Marriage

Maria Arbini became the bride of Louis Bottarini April 7, 1920, at Sts. Peter and Paul Church in San Francisco. Both were born in Lonate Pozzolo, Italy, a small town in northern Italy, near the Swiss border but met for the first time in San Anselmo.

In 1910 Mr. Bottarini left his home town, immigrating to the United States to work on his brother's ranch in Oakdale. Three years later he moved to San Anselmo, boarding with a couple, whose niece, Maria, came from Italy in 1920 to live with them. Two months after they met, the couple were married.

They made their home in San Anselmo for six months, moving in October of 1920 to the home in which they still live on Mariposa Road in San Rafael.

Mr. Bottarini was employed by the street department of the City of San Rafael.

The couple's children are Mrs. John McCarthy of Corte Madera, who has a son, Bruce, 12, and a daughter, Vivian, 16; and Anthony J. Bottarini of San Rafael, who has two daughters, Christina, 8, and Cathy Ann, 6 years old.

The Bottarinis were honored at a reception celebrating their 50th anniversary Sunday at Carpenters' Hall in San Rafael, hosted by their daughter and her husband and their son and his wife.

Betsy E. Green To Be Bride Of Ronald Rick

Mrs. Eleanor Green of Belvedere is announcing the engagement of her daughter Betsy Ellen to Ronald Paul Rick of San Francisco.

Betsy is the daughter of Malcolm Green of Boston and the sister of Edward and Diane Rick. She was graduated from Dana Hall School in Wellesley, Mass., and Occidental College in Los Angeles.

Ronald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lenard Rick of Milford, Conn. He is a graduate of the Paier School of Art and is with the design firm of Jerry Berman and Associates of San Francisco.

A Sept. 12 wedding is planned by the couple.

BETSY GREEN

John Michael Puccinelli To Wed Barbara d'Alessio

Mr. and Mae. Wagner d'Alessio of Ross have announced the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Jean d'Alessio, to John Michael Puccinelli, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Puccinelli of San Francisco.

The sister of Robert and John d'Alessio of Ross, Barbara is a junior at San Jose State College. She was graduated from Redwood High School and attended the University of Pacific.

John, who has a brother, Michael, is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John Marsh of San Francisco. He was graduated from St. Ignatius High School and attends the University of Pacific school of pharmacy.

The couple plan to be married next year.

'Bridges Of Understanding' Is Theme for Inter-Faith Luncheon

The sixth annual Inter-Faith luncheon, with the theme "Bridges of Understanding," will be held Wednesday at the Petaluma Veterans Memorial.

Persons interested in developing a better understanding of others' beliefs are invited to the session which will open with an introductory welcome by the Rev. T. Hall Bisset of the Church of the Oaks in Cotati.

The theme will be interpreted by four well versed theologians including Rabbi Bernard W. Kimmel of San Francisco, affiliated with the B'Nai Israel Congregation of Petaluma; Robert Olmstead, teacher; The Rev. James E. Coffee of Oakland, a leader in ecumenical affairs of the area; and the Rev. Larry Caroland of STl Vincente de Paul Catholic Church in Petaluma.

The Chansonettes of Petaluma, a vocal group under the direction of Henry Schoenlein, will present musical interludes and the Petaluma Parent Co-Operative Nursery parents will supervise child care.

Members of the steering committee are Mmes. Ruth Scott, United Methodist Church; Marion Peters and Laura Frati, First Presbyterian Church; Mary Kogan and Theresa Vondrak, St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Cotati; Glee Harrison, Penngrove Community Church; Cecille Herzel and Ann Barlas, B'Nai Israel; Ocie Beams, Tomales Presbyterian Church; Renati Bohn, Elim Lutheran Church; Anna Breedlove and Edward Horstman, United Church of Christ; Emma Jones, Faith Presbyterian Church, Rohnert Park; Patrick Handyside and Gloria Altenreuther, St. James Catholic Church; Cornelius Larson and Shirley Gulick, St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church; Norma Woelbing, St. John's Lutheran Church; and Melvin Hein, St. John's Episcopal Church.

THE FIRST of two evening programs focusing on the problems of local drug use and its increasing influence will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the gymnasium of St. Raphael's School, sponsored by the St. Raphael's Mothers' Guild.

Speakers after the film, "Drugs and the Nervous System", is shown will be Dr. Elmer Weden, Lt. G. Albert Howenstein and Dr. Gerald Hill.

The second program is scheduled for April 20.

THE ANNUAL donor luncheon of the Marin Chapter of Hadassah will be Tuesday at 11:30 a.m. at Trader Vivs' restaurant in San Francisco.

A buffet luncheon will be served in the Turf and Terrace clubs for the more than 500 expected guests.

SEW SIMPLE

Alter For Comfort And Fit

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE,

Your column has been a great help to me; hope you can give me an answer to my problem of fitting slacks. When I make pants for my daughter they fit fine until she has them on for a few hours, then they stretch out of shape as though they were sizes too large.

Secondly, my own pants pull at the crotch when I sit down or go up and down the steps. These stretch out in some materials, and yet in others they will always be uncomfortable. I have reached the point of dreading to make any more slacks for anyone.

MRS. B. R.

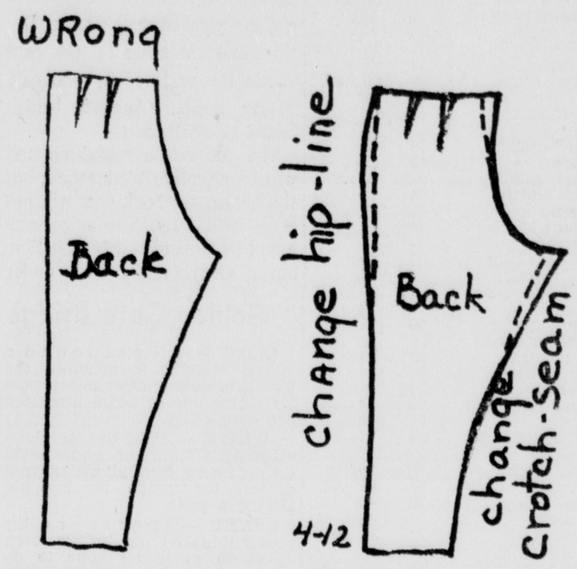
DEAR MRS. B. R.,

Your problem with your daughter's slacks sounds like the fabric wasn't firm enough to keep its shape. Unless you are working with a closely woven cotton, it is best to underline the slacks to retain their shape.

As to your problem in fitting, it is difficult to analyze without seeing your figure, however I am guessing that there is not enough width at the crotch for your particular figure. This is usually the cause of pants pulling down at the back.

Try another pair and make this adjustment, extending the crotch seam a little wider, tapering this extra width gradually into the in-seam of the leg. If you wear a girdle with slacks, this also makes a rounder figure and the same alteration is suggested.

Pants are never easy to fit. If you want to wear them, you must take the time to learn to work out a pattern that's right for you, and then use it for all your pants.



I'm always reminded of the designer who humorously said, "If a pants pattern has to be altered, the woman shouldn't be wearing pants!" However, I know they are a way of life today, and if your figure isn't perfect, you can always wear a tunic top which disguises the most amazing things.

MRS. L. M. HARRISON, Le Mars, Iowa, wins the Tailor Trix pressing board this week for her suggestion:

"When a blanket needed a new binding, I couldn't find a packaged binding to match. I happened to be cutting out a dacron and cotton print dress with the same colors so decided to make my own binding for the blanket. It turned out so beautifully I wondered why no one had used a print binding before. It was so easy to do and didn't cost a cent, and is actually prettier than it was when it was new."

DEAR EUNICE,

You have referred to putting a zipper in by hand, and somehow I have misplaced the directions. I am working with a silk material and feel the zipper should not be machine stitched. Could you please give us more information?

MISS J. D.

DEAR MISS J. D.:

The custom touch to any garment is the amount of hand finishing you will find. Beautifully made garments in fine fabrics are usually enhanced by the hand-stitched zipper, however, if you are giving your garment extra hard wear, these stitches will not be satisfactory.

In most cases, every step for the zipper is the same until the very last machine stitching. This is done with buttonhole twist (a silk thread), or if this isn't available, use a double thread to match your fabric.

The stitches should be about one-fourth inch apart. Take a tiny back stitch from right side of garment and be sure not to pull the thread too tight. It should actually remain visible and look like a tiny French knot.

After the hand stitches are completed, turn garment to inside. Folding the top layer of fabric back, machine stitch the garment fabric to the zipper tape; it won't show from the right side and will add a little extra strength to your closing.

DEAR EUNICE,

I wish you could clear something up for me that has me utterly confused. I made a coat and dress from some new knit fabric that was labeled Dacron polyester. It turned out so beautifully that I would like to make something else for summer from this same fabric, but the polyesters I have seen don't have the name "Dacron" on the end of the bolt. Is there more than one type of polyester?

MRS. R. E. K.

DEARS MRS. R. E. K.,

This has been confusing to many women. Perhaps the information I got from the Man-Made Fiber Producers will clear this up for you.

Polyester is a generic name for a man made fiber. Most polyesters can be machine washed and put into the machine dryer if you are sure to remove it as soon as the tumbling cycle is completed. It very seldom needs any pressing, never with a hot iron. It is one of the most practical of all fibers because of its easy care, resistance to stretching and shrinking, wrinkle-resistance, etc.

The name "Dacron" is a fiber trademark. You may also find names such as "Trevira, Avlin, Chemstrand, Encron, Fortrel," and many others which are all trade names for polyester. The properties of all of these are practically the same, depending on the weight of fabric, design and any other factors that would affect the price. These explain the vast price difference between types of polyesters.

Jill Lane To Be A Bride

A June wedding is planned by Jill Linda Lane and Grant Tanner, both of Santa Barbara.

The future bride is the daughter of James Russell Lane Jr. of San Francisco and Mrs. Benson Lane of San Rafael. She is the sister of Jann Patricia and Jody Lane. Mr. and Mrs. James Russell Lane of San Francisco are her local grandparents. Jill was graduated from Terra Linda High School and College of Marin. She is active in Girl Scouts and is employed at Santa Barbara General Hospital.

Grant is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Tanner of Corte Madera and the brother of Robert Tanner. His local grandmother is Mrs. Hazel Hendrick of San Rafael. He was graduated from San Rafael Military Academy, College of Marin and Sonoma State College and is a graduated student in philosophy at the University of California at Santa Barbara.

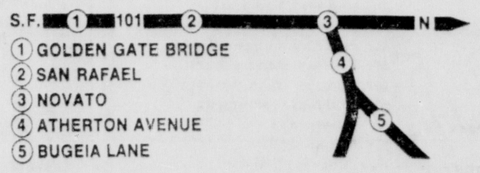
BAHIA BEGINS TODAY

In Novato-Marin County. A new, totally planned water-side community with water-front townhouses and off-water homes designed by the nationally famous architect, Warren Callister. Tree crowded ridges protect a harbor of sailing lagoons, projecting peninsulas, quaint inlets, and channel passages open year round to San Pablo Bay. Bahia is a yachtsmen's dream! Choose from five waterfront townhouse plans and three off water home plans starting at $33,000. Today is only the beginning. Soon Bahia will have a boat marina, recreational club house, interconnected green belts and parks, even a sailing school. By freeway, take 101 to Novato. Right turn at Atherton Avenue. By sea, sail to San Pablo Bay and head up the Petaluma River to Bahia Harbor.



World Champion Water Skiier, Mike Suyderhoud, will perform in Bahia Harbor with The Water Skiiers of Marin at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, April 12.

ON THE AGENDA

'Bridges Of Understanding' Is Theme for Inter-Faith Luncheon

The sixth annual Inter-Faith luncheon, with the theme "Bridges of Understanding," will be held Wednesday at the Petaluma Veterans Memorial.

Persons interested in developing a better understanding of others' beliefs are invited to the session which will open with an introductory welcome by the Rev. T. Hall Bisset of the Church of the Oaks in Cotati.

The theme will be interpreted by four well versed theologians including Rabbi Bernard W. Kimmel of San Francisco, affiliated with the B'Nai Israel Congregation of Petaluma; Robert Olmstead, teacher; The Rev. James E. Coffee of Oakland, a leader in ecumenical affairs of the area; and the Rev. Larry Caroland of STI Vincente de Paul Catholic Church in Petaluma.

The Chansonettes of Petaluma, a vocal group under the direction of Henry Schoenlein, will present musical interludes and the Petaluma Parent Co-Operative Nursery parents will supervise child care.

Members of the steering committee are Mmes. Ruth Scott, United Methodist Church; Marion Peters and Laura Frati, First Presbyterian Church; Mary Kogan and Theresa Vondrak, St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Cotati; Glee Harrison, Penngrove Community Church; Cecille Herzel and Ann Barlas, B'Nai Israel; Ocie Beams, Tomales Presbyterian Church; Renati Bohn, Elim Lutheran Church; Anna Breedlove and Edward Horstman, United Church of Christ; Emma Jones, Faith Presbyterian Church, Rohnert Park; Patrick Handyside and Gloria Altenreuther, St. James Catholic Church; Cornelius Larson and Shirley Gulick, St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church; Norma Woelbing, St. John's Lutheran Church; and Melvin Hein, St. John's Episcopal Church.

THE FIRST of two evening programs focusing on the problems of local drug use and its increasing influence will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the gymnasium of St. Raphael's School, sponsored by the St. Raphael's Mothers' Guild.

Speakers after the film, "Drugs and the Nervous System", is shown will be Dr. Elmer Weden, Lt. G. Albert Howenstein and Dr. Gerald Hill.

The second program is scheduled for April 20.

THE ANNUAL donor luncheon of the Marin Chapter of Hadassah will be Tuesday at 11:30 a.m. at Trader Vivs' restaurant in San Francisco.

"A Deed to Fit the Dream" will be the theme of the day with proceeds being donated to the Hadassah Medical Organization.

Mrs. Alfred Perlin, chairman, is being assisted by Mmes. Fred Wellen, Donald Herzon, Clare Harris, Richard Wagner, William Walsh and Sol Langsam.

WELCOME WAGON Club will have a "Fun Day at the Races" Tuesday. A chartered bus will leave the Corte Madera Shopping Center at 10 a.m. taking members, their guests and new residents of Marin County to Golden Gate Fields.

Reservations chairman is Mrs. W. D. Juenger. Proceeds will benefit the Trainable Mentally Retarded program in Marin.

THE 12 guild of the Boyd Marin Museum of Science are sponsoring "A day at the Races" Tuesday to benefit the museum.

Golden Gate Field's Turf Club will be the setting for a buffet luncheon at noon prior to the races.

HIGH SCHOOL Seniors and junior-college graduates who are interested in sororities may contact Mrs. Peter Skaer, 105 Jordon Av., San Anselmo of the Marin Panhellenic Association.

THE FOURTH annual "Day At the Races" to benefit Marin Association for Mental Health will be held at the Albany Race Tracks on Friday.

Mrs. Alvin S. Haag is chairman and reservations chairmen are Mmes. Robert Burk, Larry Mischkind, Richard Forbes, Lawrence Keilman and Walker Geddes in San Rafael and Greenbrae; Ronald A. Becker, Gerald J. Albert and J. Paul Silvestri Jr., Tiburon and Belvedere; Walter Speelman, Hamilton Air Force Base; and Anthony Wiechers, Harry Flachs, Arthur Lindauer, James Dodd and Chester MacPhee of the Marin Country Club Estates in Novato.

Tickets are also available at the Marin Association for Mental Health in San Rafael.

Five buses have been chartered for the day. They will leave from Greenbrae, Hamilton Air Force Base and the Marin County Country Club at 10:45 a.m.

A buffet luncheon will be served in the Turf and Terrace clubs for the more than 500 expected guests.

Jill Lane To Be A Bride

A June wedding is planned by Jill Linda Lane and Grant Tanner, both of Santa Barbara.

The future bride is the daughter of James Russell Lane Jr. of San Francisco and Mrs. Benson Lane of San Rafael. She is the sister of Jann Patricia and Jody Lane. Mr. and Mrs. James Russell Lane of San Francisco are her local grandparents. Jill was graduated from Terra Linda High School and College of Marin. She is active in Girl Scouts and is employed at Santa Barbara General Hospital.

Grant is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Tanner of Corte Madera and the brother of Robert Tanner. His local grandmother is Mrs. Hazel Hendrick of San Rafael. He was graduated from San Rafael Military Academy, College of Marin and Sonoma State College and is a graduated student in philosophy at the University of California at Santa Barbara.

SEW SIMPLE

Alter For Comfort And Fit

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE,

Your column has been a great help to me; hope you can give me an answer to my problem of fitting slacks. When I make pants for my daughter they fit fine until she has them on for a few hours, then they stretch out of shape as though they were sizes too large.

Secondly, my own pants pull at the crotch when I sit down or go up and down the steps. These stretch out in some materials, and yet in others they will always be uncomfortable. I have reached the point of dreading to make any more slacks for anyone.

MRS. B. R.

DEAR MRS. B. R.,

Your problem with your daughter's slacks sounds like the fabric wasn't firm enough to keep its shape. Unless you are working with a closely woven cotton, it is best to underline the slacks to retain their shape.

As to your problem in fitting, it is difficult to analyze without seeing your figure, however I am guessing that there is not enough width at the crotch for your particular figure. This is usually the cause of pants pulling down at the back.

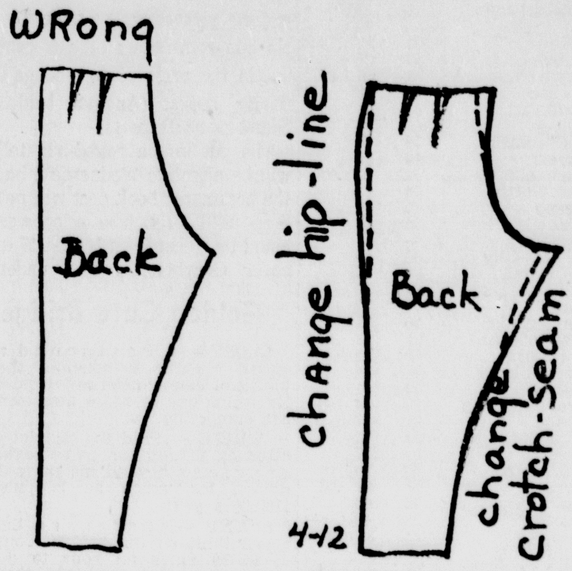
Try another pair and make this adjustment, extending the crotch seam a little wider, tapering this extra width gradually into the in-seam of the leg. If you wear a girdle with slacks, this also makes a rounder figure and the same alteration is suggested.

Pants are never easy to fit. If you want to wear them, you must take the time to learn to work out a pattern that's right for you, and then use it for all your pants.

I'm always reminded of the designer who humorously said, "If a pants pattern has to be altered, the woman shouldn't be wearing pants!" However, I know they are a way of life today, and if your figure isn't perfect, you can always wear a tunic top which disguises the most amazing things.

MRS. L. M. HARRISON, Le Mars, Iowa, wins the Tailor Trix pressing board this week for her suggestion:

"When a blanket needed a new binding, I couldn't find a packaged binding to match. I happened to be cutting out a dacron and cotton print dress with the same colors so decided to make my own binding for the blanket. It turned out so beautifully I wondered why no one had used a print binding before. It was so easy to do and didn't cost a cent, and is actually prettier than it was when it was new."



DEAR EUNICE,

You have referred to putting a zipper in by hand, and somehow I have misplaced the directions. I am working with a silk material and feel the zipper should not be machine stitched. Could you please give us more information?

MISS J. D.

DEAR MISS J. D.:

The custom touch to any garment is the amount of hand finishing you will find. Beautifully made garments in fine fabrics are usually enhanced by the hand-stitched zipper, however, if you are giving your garment extra hard wear, these stitches will not be satisfactory.

In most cases, every step for the zipper is the same until the very last machine stitching. This is done with buttonhole twist (a silk thread), or if this isn't available, use a double thread to match your fabric.

The stitches should be about one-fourth inch apart. Take a tiny back stitch from right side of garment and be sure not to pull the thread too tight. It should actually remain visible and look like a tiny French knot.

After the hand stitches are completed, turn garment to inside. Folding the top layer of fabric back, machine stitch the garment fabric to the zipper tape; it won't show from the right side and will add a little extra strength to your closing.

DEAR EUNICE,

I wish you could clear something up for me that has me utterly confused. I made a coat and dress from some new knit fabric that was labeled Dacron polyester. It turned out so beautifully that I would like to make something else for summer from this same fabric, but the polyesters I have seen don't have the name "Dacron" on the end of the bolt. Is there more than one type of polyester?

MRS. R. E. K.

DEARS MRS. R. E. K.,

This has been confusing to many women. Perhaps the information I got from the Man-Made Fiber Producers will clear this up for you.

Polyester is a generic name for a man made fiber. Most polyesters can be machine washed and put into the machine dryer if you are sure to remove it as soon as the tumbling cycle is completed. It very seldom needs any pressing, never with a hot iron. It is one of the most practical of all fibers because of its easy care, resistance to stretching and shrinking, wrinkle-resistance, etc.

The name "Dacron" is a fiber trademark. You may also find names such as "Trevira, Avlin, Chemstrand, Encron, Fortrel," and many others which are all trade names for polyester. The properties of all of these are practically the same, depending on the weight of fabric, design and any other factors that would affect the price. These explain the vast price difference between types of polyesters.

Sausalito School Funds Unfrozen

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The state Board of Education yesterday unfroze $32,996 in federal funds for the Sausalito School District, but said the Marin County superintendent of schools should keep an eye on the program which the money funds.

The money was held up a month ago when a board member said he wanted more information about its use because of Sausalito's "rather severe problems."

The board was told yesterday that 10 teaching aides will be hired with the money to help provide compensatory education in mathematics and reading.

Joseph Amato, assistant superintendent for Sausalito, said today the state board approved the money and asked that County Schools Superintendent Virgil S. Hollis "provide guidance" for the project, and submit a progress report a year from now.

Amato minimized the stipulation, saying that Sausalito is a direct county services district and is under the county office's guidance anyway.

Supt. Phillip W. Schneider, who attended yesterday's meeting in Sacramento but did not speak, was quoted as saying after the meeting, "I don't give a damn as long as they release the money. The rules are there. What can Hollis do?"

Neither Schneider nor Hollis could be reached for comment this morning.

The money was frozen March 13 when state board member Gene Ragle of Roseville asked for a report on qualifications the district uses in hiring the aides. The board was assured yesterday that aides will be carefully screened before being hired.

Smokestack Smog Sleuths Proposed

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A new antipollution requiring installation of monitoring devices on smoke stack should apply to industry now operating as well as new or expanding plants, a committee of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District recommended yesterday.

The monitoring devices would not be required for all industry but only plants suspected of approaching legal emission limits.

The committee thus went further than the district staff which had recommended that the regulation apply first to new and expanding industry and later to currently operating plants.

The district's ad hoc committee on instrumentation, however, did leave intact a proposal made by chairman Joseph D. Coons at the last meeting of the group that continuous monitoring of emissions not be made mandatory in the event violations were detected.

Dr. Milton Feldstein, director of district technical services, had argued at the last session that continuous monitoring was the sole means of assuring compliance.

The committee's proposals, which resulted from tough air quality standards laid down by the state last fall, will now go to the district's technical committee, which will meet at 1:30 p.m. April 29 in the district offices.

The ad hoc group also received a staff report on the cost to industry of purchasing monitoring equipment, ranging upward from $25,000 per stack. Feldstein, who submitted the report, said field tests of the equipment would be made.

An industry representative had expressed fears at the last meeting that the costs would overburden smaller plants.

Machine Looted

Burglars pried open a vending machine at the Las Gallinas Laundromat, 716 Adrian Way, Santa Venetia, Wednesday and stole between $2 and $4, sheriff's deputies said yesterday.

Ex-College Board Member Facing Divorce Suit

The wife of Thomas A. Skornia, former member of the Marin Junior College District board, has filed a petition in Marin Superior Court asking that their 13-year marriage be dissolved.

Mrs. Joan Skornia cited "irreconcilable differences" as grounds under the new California divorce law.

The Skornias were married twice, according to the petition, once in 1956 in Wisconsin and again in 1958 in Illinois. They separated on Feb. 26.

The couple, whose family home is in Ross, has two daughters, Jill Elizabeth, 3, and Kim Catherine, 1. Mrs. Skornia asked custody of the children and support for them and herself.

Skornia, an attorney who practices in San Francisco, has been active in Democratic politics and served as a college trustee from 1966 to 1968.

Golden Gate Commuter Bus Toll Cut To A Dime; Fare To Drop

Commuter bus tolls on the Golden Gate Bridge were cut to a dime yesterday, assuring Marin-bus commuters of a 95-cent cut in the price of Greyhound's 20-ride books. (Another bridge board story, Page 1).

The cut in the round-trip toll will be effective Wednesday, but the commuter book cost will not drop until July. The price was hiked by 90 cents on March 15 to cover Greyhound's cost under the December increase of tolls for all buses from 26 cents to $2.

The state Public Utilities Commission approved the cost hike on condition that any subsequent toll cut be passed on to the commuter — but only after Greyhound had recouped the full cost of the higher bridge tolls.

A total of 79 days elapsed between imposition of higher tolls and the PUC approval of higher fares.

Golden Gate Bridge District Board Also:

CLOSED — Postponed a closed meeting to consider the hiring of a new attorney, a post for which one or more directors are competing.

WHITE — Paid the district's attorney $11,510 for extra legal services beyond his normal duties, for which he is paid $16,000 a year.

SPEED — Increased the speed limit on the bridge from 45 to 50 miles an hour to do away with the confusion that causes traffic to congest on the north approach, where the speed limit changes from 55 to 45 miles an hour.

ROPES — Invited the New York engineering firm of Ammann and Whitney to submit a proposal, at no cost to the district, to perform engineering services to repair the San Francisco approach and replace suspender cables. The firm recommended in January that $7,090,000 be spent for new ropes.

MARATHON — Granted permission to Golden Gate Marathon runners to use the east sidewalk in a Memorial Day race from Tiburon to San Francisco.

MANAGER — Authorized Luehring to interview bus transportation experts, and submit the names and qualifications of three or more to directors for approval. He previously estimated the annual salary for the new post will be at least $25,000.

STUDY — Approved a $5,500 contract with the traffic engineering firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co. to estimate how commuters would use a system that offered ferry and bus transit as well as freeways.

COMUTE BOOKS — Approved sale of commute books on the 26th day of each month, instead of five days before the beginning of the month.

BIKES — Referred to committee a suggestion that the bicycle path and bridge be open from 4:30 p.m. to sunset on Fridays and days before holidays.

BART — Received report from Luehring that the long-range transit plan being drawn for the district by Kaiser Engineers would consider Marin bus transit to Richmond to connect with repid transit trains.

SUMMER — Voted $25,000 to hire up to 25 youths in the 1970 summer hire program, which gives work experience to poor youths from San Francisco and Marin.

WALDO — Authorized repayment of about $5.9 million to the state to repay a loan made in the 1940's to build the second Waldo Tunnel. The district owes about $6.3 million with interest, due in 1971, but the state has offered to discount the debt in order to get the needed cash sooner.

TRAFFIC — Received a report from Luehring that traffic during March increased 5.3 per cent over the same month last year, but that revenue increased 20.64 per cent, apparently because of higher commute tolls. Commute book sales decreased 19.85 per cent in the year from last March. Bicycle traffic totaled 2,040 in March, with revenue at $203.

LAMPS — Voted to buy $12,000 worth of sodium lamps from General Electric Co., sole manufacturer.

SEDAN — Voted to buy a sedan through the state for $2,464.

CAR POOL — Received a report from Luehring that more car pools were being formed because of a San Francisco radio station's one-day car pool drive next Thursday.

CITIZENS — Announced the citizens' advisory panel on the long-range transit study will meet at 8 p.m. on April 30 at the College of Marin.

WHEN SOCKS SWING, SMALL CARS TO FLY?

The Golden Gate Bridge, a hairy drive in a little car when the gales blow, soon may sport windsocks to help motorists drive more safely.

Gen. Mrg. Dale W. Luehring cited successful use of windsocks on European superhighways as a model for their installation on the bridge.

The primary problem would be "one of aesthetics and the acceptability of the public," he conceded in a report on the proposal to bridge district directors. The proposal, to show the direction and velocity of the wind, was made by a motorist, he said.

The proposal was referred to committee for study.

Sausalito School Funds Unfrozen

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The state Board of Education yesterday unfroze $32,996 in federal funds for the Sausalito School District, but said the Marin County superintendent of schools should keep an eye on the program which the money funds.

The money was held up a month ago when a board member said he wanted more information about its use because of Sausalito's "rather severe problems."

The board was told yesterday that 10 teaching aides will be hired with the money to help provide compensatory education in mathematics and reading.

Joseph Amato, assistant superintendent for Sausalito, said today the state board approved the money and asked that County Schools Superintendent Virgil S. Hollis "provide guidance" for the project, and submit a progress report a year from now.

Amato minimized the stipulation, saying that Sausalito is a direct county services district and is under the county office's guidance anyway.

Supt. Phillip W. Schneider, who attended yesterday's meeting in Sacramento but did not speak, was quoted as saying after the meeting, "I don't give a damn as long as they release the money. The rules are there. What can Hollis do?"

Neither Schneider nor Hollis could be reached for comment this morning.

The money was frozen March 13 when state board member Gene Ragle of Roseville asked for a report on qualifications the district uses in hiring the aides. The board was assured yesterday that aides will be carefully screened before being hired.

Smokestack Smog Sleuths Proposed

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A new antipollution requiring installation of monitoring devices on smoke stack should apply to industry now operating as well as new or expanding plants, a committee of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District recommended yesterday.

The monitoring devices would not be required for all industry but only plants suspected of approaching legal emission limits.

The committee thus went further than the district staff which had recommended that the regulation apply first to new and expanding industry and later to currently operating plants.

The district's ad hoc committee on instrumentation, however, did leave intact a proposal made by chairman Joseph D. Coons at the last meeting of the group that continuous monitoring of emissions not be made mandatory in the event violations were detected.

Dr. Milton Feldstein, director of district technical services, had argued at the last session that continuous monitoring was the sole means of assuring compliance.

The committee's proposals, which resulted from tough air quality standards laid down by the state last fall, will now go to the district's technical committee, which will meet at 1:30 p.m. April 29 in the district offices.

The ad hoc group also received a staff report on the cost to industry of purchasing monitoring equipment, ranging upward from $25,000 per stack. Feldstein, who submitted the report, said field tests of the equipment would be made.

An industry representative had expressed fears at the last meeting that the costs would overburden smaller plants.

Machine Looted

Burglars pried open a vending machine at the Las Gallinas Laundromat, 716 Adrian Way, Santa Venetia, Wednesday and stole between $2 and $4, sheriff's deputies said yesterday.

Ex-College Board Member Facing Divorce Suit

The wife of Thomas A. Skornia, former member of the Marin Junior College District board, has filed a petition in Marin Superior Court asking that their 13-year marriage be dissolved.

Mrs. Joan Skornia cited "irreconcilable differences" as grounds under the new California divorce law.

The Skornias were married twice, according to the petition, once in 1956 in Wisconsin and again in 1958 in Illinois. They separated on Feb. 26.

The couple, whose family home is in Ross, has two daughters, Jill Elizabeth, 3, and Kim Catherine, 1. Mrs. Skornia asked custody of the children and support for them and herself.

Skornia, an attorney who practices in San Francisco, has been active in Democratic politics and served as a college trustee from 1966 to 1968.

Golden Gate Commuter Bus Toll Cut To A Dime; Fare To Drop

Commuter bus tolls on the Golden Gate Bridge were cut to a dime yesterday, assuring Marin bus commuters of a 95-cent cut in the price of Greyhound's 20-ride books. (Another bridge board story, Page 1).

The cut in the round-trip toll will be effective Wednesday, but the commuter book cost will not drop until July. The price was hiked by 90 cents on March 15 to cover Greyhound's cost under the December increase of tolls for all buses from 26 cents to $2.

The state Public Utilities Commission approved the cost hike on condition that any subsequent toll cut be passed on to the commuter — but only after Greyhound had recouped the full cost of the higher bridge tolls.

A total of 79 days elapsed between imposition of higher tolls and the PUC approval of higher fares.

Golden Gate Bridge District Board Also:

CLOSED — Postponed a closed meeting to consider the hiring of a new attorney, a post for which one or more directors are competing.

WHITE — Paid the district's attorney $11,510 for extra legal services beyond his normal duties, for which he is paid $16,000 a year.

SPEED — Increased the speed limit on the bridge from 45 to 50 miles an hour to do away with the confusion that causes traffic to congest on the north approach, where the speed limit changes from 55 to 45 miles an hour.

ROPES — Invited the New York engineering firm of Ammann and Whitney to submit a proposal, at no cost to the district, to perform engineering services to repair the San Francisco approach and replace suspender cables. The firm recommended in January that $7,090,000 be spent for new ropes.

MARATHON — Granted permission to Golden Gate Marathon runners to use the east sidewalk in a Memorial Day race from Tiburon to San Francisco.

MANAGER — Authorized Luehring to interview bus transportation experts, and submit the names and qualifications of three or more to directors for approval. He previously estimated the annual salary for the new post will be at least $25,000.

STUDY — Approved a $5,500 contract with the traffic engineering firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co. to estimate how commuters would use a system that offered ferry and bus transit as well as freeways.

COMUTE BOOKS — Approved sale of commute books on the 26th day of each month, instead of five days before the beginning of the month.

BIKES — Referred to committee a suggestion that the bicycle path and bridge be open from 4:30 p.m. to sunset on Fridays and days before holidays.

BART — Received report from Luehring that the long-range transit plan being drawn for the district by Kaiser Engineers would consider Marin bus transit to Richmond to connect with repid transit trains.

SUMMER — Voted $25,000 to hire up to 25 youths in the 1970 summer hire program, which gives work experience to poor youths from San Francisco and Marin.

WALDO — Authorized repayment of about $5.9 million to the state to repay a loan made in the 1940's to build the second Waldo Tunnel. The district owes about $6.3 million with interest, due in 1971, but the state has offered to discount the debt in order to get the needed cash sooner.

TRAFFIC — Received a report from Luehring that traffic during March increased 5.3 per cent over the same month last year, but that revenue increased 20.64 per cent, apparently because of higher commute tolls. Commute book sales decreased 19.85 per cent in the year from last March. Bicycle traffic totaled 2,040 in March, with revenue at $203.

LAMPS — Voted to buy $12,000 worth of sodium lamps from General Electric Co., sole manufacturer.

SEDAN — Voted to buy a sedan through the state for $2,464.

CAR POOL — Received a report from Luehring that more car pools were being formed because of a San Francisco radio station's one-day car pool drive next Thursday.

CITIZENS — Announced the citizens' advisory panel on the long-range transit study will meet at 8 p.m. on April 30 at the College of Marin.

WHEN SOCKS SWING, SMALL CARS TO FLY?

The Golden Gate Bridge, a hairy drive in a little car when the gales blow, soon may sport windsocks to help motorists drive more safely.

Gen. Mrg. Dale W. Luehring cited successful use of windsocks on European superhighways as a model for their installation on the bridge.

The primary problem would be "one of aesthetics and the acceptability of the public," he conceded in a report on the proposal to bridge district directors. The proposal, to show the direction and velocity of the wind, was made by a motorist, he said.

The proposal was referred to committee for study.

SMALL INVESTOR

Evidence of achievement by U.I.I. Distributors can be seen from Coast-to-Coast!

A business revolution has taken place, proving the "Little Fellow" can emerge a "Mighty Giant" in the U.I.I. money-making route system.

The Questions: Do you have a serviceable car? 6-10 hours free time a week? $1,500 to invest which, according to an authoritative source, triples in value the day you start in the vending business? Can grow to $1,000 a month income with this small cash start. Success isn't automatic . . . you have to work for it!

Whe you do this with U.I.I you'll never suffer from competition. No selling or soliciting . . . just a service function.

ATTENTION
SMALL INVESTOR

Evidence of achievement in U.I.I. Distributors can be seen from Coast-to-Coast!

A business revolution has taken place, proving the "Little Fellow" can emerge a "Mighty Giant" in the U.I.I. money-making route system.

The Questions: Do you have a serviceable car? 6-10 hours free time a week? $1,500 to invest which, according to an authoritative source, triples in value the day you start in the vending business? Can grow to $1,000 a month income with this small cash start. Success isn't automatic . . . you have to work for it!

Whe you do this with U.I.I you'll never suffer from competition. No selling or soliciting . . . just a service function.

Methodist Actors Will Present Play

"P u b l i c a n and Sinner," a short play, will be given at the 11 a.m. service at the Methodist Church of Mill Valley.

It is being presented by the Methodist Actors Serving the Church, a group that tours California and Nevada performing religious plays.

Trespassers Routed From Burial Crypt

Two Los Angeles youths who had set up housekeeping in a crypt in the Fernwood cemetery in Tamalpais Valley have been routed out after deputy sheriffs discovered their cozy nest.

The deputies reported yesterday that on Wednesday they discovered that a pink blanket hand been hung over the door to the crypt and upon entering they found sleeping bags n e a t l y placed on slabs.

Other comforts of home including candles, food, cooking equipment and canteens were lying about.

The longhaired and bearded occupants were not home, however, but were found a few minutes later at a sheriff's substation where they had gone to report the theft of a wallet.

Richard Clyde Wilmers, 17, and Lewis Juneau Carlson, 18, were then arrested, and Wilmers was taken to Juvenile Hall and Carlson to jail. Carlson was released later in the day after pleading guilty in Marin Municipal Court to trespassing. He was sentenced to the time he had spent in jail.

Wilmers was put on a plane for Los Angeles by juvenile officers.

The missing wallet was found in a sleeping bag by the deputies.

Ross Students Win Contest

A Ross School student who spelled "intelligable" correctly, has won first place in the county-wide eighth grade spelling bee.

Lynn Gutstadt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gutstadt of Box 667, Ross, will compete with other county winners for the state title April 24 in Sacramento.

Vivian Straus of Tomales Bay School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Strauss of Marshall, was second.

ORDINANCE NO. 977

AN ORDINANCE CALLING A SPECIAL MUNICIPAL BOND ELECTION IN THE CITY OF SAN RAFAEL FOR THE PURPOSE OF SUBMITTING TO THE ELECTORS OF SAID CITY THE MEASURES OF INCURRING A BONDED INDEBTEDNESS OF SAID CITY FOR THE ACQUISITION, CONSTRUCTION AND COMPLETION OF THE FOLLOWING MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS, AND EACH OF THEM, TO WIT: (B) SEWER SYSTEM IMPROVEMENTS, (C) COMMUNITY RECREATION CENTER AND (D) MAIN FIRE STATION; DECLARING THE ESTIMATED COST OF SAID MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS, AND EACH OF THEM, THE AMOUNT OF THE PRINCIPAL OF SAID INDEBTEDNESS TO BE INCURRED THEREFOR, AND THE MAXIMUM RATE OF INTEREST TO BE PAID THEREON MAKING PROVISION FOR THE LEVY AND COLLECTION OF TAXES; FIXING THE DATE OF SAID ELECTION, THE MANNER OF HOLDING THE SAME, PROVIDING FOR NOTICE THEREOF, AND CONSOLIDATING SAID SPECIAL MUNICIPAL BOND ELECTION WITH THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA DIRECT PRIMARY ELECTION TO BE HELD ON JUNE 2, 1970.

WHEREAS, the Council of the City of San Rafael by resolution duly passed and adopted at a meeting of the Council duly and regularly held, by affirmative vote of more than two-thirds of all its members, did determine that the public interest and necessity demand the acquisition, construction and completion of the municipal improvements, and each of them, hereinafter mentioned, and did further determine that the cost of said proposed municipal improvements, and each of them, will be too great to be paid out of the ordinary annual income and revenue of said municipality and that each of said municipal improvements will require an expenditure greater than the amount allowed therefor by the annual tax levy, and will require the incurring of a bonded indebtedness therefor, which resolution was duly entered on the minutes of said meeting of the Council, and is now on file and of record in the Clerk's office of said City; NOW ,THEREFORE,

THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SAN RAFAEL DO ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS

Section 1. A special municipal bond election shall be and is hereby ordered and will be held in the City of San Rafael (hereinafter called "the City") on Tuesday, June 2, 1970, at which election shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the City the question of incurring a bonded indebtedness of the City for the objects and purposes set forth in the following measures, and each of them, to wit:

CITY OF SAN RAFAEL MEASURES

MEASURE (B): (Sewer System Improvements)	Shall the City of San Rafael incur a bonded indebtedness in the principal amount of $1,105,000 for the acquisition, construction and completion of the following municipal improvement, to wit: Sewer system improvements comprising reconstruction or replacement of existing sewage collection, trunk and outfall lines to improve and increase the capacity of the sanitary sewer system, including pipes, connections, manholes, equipment, lands, easements, rights-of-way and other works, property or structures necessary or convenient for sewer system improvements for the City of San Rafael?	YES NO
MEASURE (C): (Community Recreation Center)	Shall the City of San Rafael incur a bonded indebtedness in the principal amount of $560,000 for the acquisition, construction and completion of the following municipal improvement, to wit: Community recreation center, including land acquisition, construction of building complex, site preparation, building support, landscaping, off-street parking facilities, other site developments and other works, property or structures necessary or convenient for a community recreation center for the City of San Rafael?	YES NO
MEASURE (D): (Main Fire Station)	Shall the City of San Rafael incur a bonded indebtedness in the principal amount of $625,000 for the acquisition, construction and completion of the following municipal improvement, to wit: Main fire station, including land acquisition, construction of building complex, site preparation, building support, other site improvements and other works, property or structures necessary or convenient for a main fire station for the City of San Rafael?	YES NO

The estimated cost of the municipal improvement as set forth in Measure (B) (Sewer System Improvements) is the sum of $1,105,000 and the amount of the indebtedness proposed to be incurred for said municipal improvement is the sum of $1,105,000.

The estimated cost of the municipal improvement as set forth in Measure (C) (Community Recreation Center) is the sum of $560,000 and the amount of the indebtedness proposed to be incurred for said municipal improvement is the sum of $560,000.

The estimated cost of the municipal improvement as set forth in Measure (D) (Main Fire Station) is the sum of $625,000 and the amount of the indebtedness proposed to be incurred for said municipal improvement is the sum of $625,000.

The estimated cost hereinabove stated of each such municipal improvement includes legal and all other fees incidental to or connected with the authorization, issuance and sale of the bonds evidencing the indebtedness proposed to be incurred for such municipal improvement and the costs of printing said bonds and all other costs and expenses incidental to or connected with the authorization, issuance and sale of said bonds.

Section 2. The Council does hereby submit to the qualified electors of the City at said special municipal bond election said measures, and each of them, set forth in Section 1 of this ordinance, and designates and refers to said measures as the measures to be set forth on the ballots hereinafter prescribed for use at said election.

(a) Said special municipal bond election shall be held and conducted, and the votes thereof canvassed, and the returns thereof made, and the result thereof ascertained and determined, as herein provided; and in all particulars not prescribed by this ordinance, said election shall be held as provided by law.

(b)All persons qualified to vote at municipal elections in the City upon the date of the election herein provided for shall be qualified to vote upon the measures submitted at said special municipal bond election.

(c) The polls at the polling places hereinafter designated shall be opened at 7:00 o'clock A.M. of said day of election and shall be kept open continuously thereafter until 8:00 o'clock P.M. of said day of election, when the polls shall be closed (except as provided in Section 14436 of the Elections Code), and the election officers shall thereupon proceed to canvass the ballots cast thereat.

(d) Said special municipal bond election hereby called shall be and is hereby consolidated with the State of California Direct Primary Election to be held in the City on June 2, 1970, all as required by and pursuant to law; and the election precincts, polling places and officers of election within the City for said special municipal bond election hereby called shall be the same as those selected and designated by the Board of Supervisors of Marin County for said primary election and set forth or to be set forth in the notice of election officers and polling places for said primary election published or to be published by the County Clerk of said County, as required by law, to which notice reference is hereby specifically made for a designation of the precincts, polling places, and election officers of the special municipal bond election hereby called. Only qualified voters of the City shall be permitted to vote at said special municipal bond election. The Board of Supervisors of said County is authorized to canvass, or cause to be canvassed, the returns of said special municipal bond election with respect to the votes cast in the City and to certify the results to the Council.

(e) On the ballots to be used at said primary election and said special municipal bond election hereby consolidated therewith, in addition to all other matters required by law to be printed thereon, shall appear the measures, and each of them, set forth in Section 1 hereof. Each voter may vote on any or all of said measures. Each voter to vote for any measure hereby submitted and for incurring said bonded indebtedness shall stamp a cross (+) in the blank space opposite the word "YES" on the ballot to the right of said measure, and to vote against any measure and against incurring said indebtedness shall stamp a cross (+) in the blank space opposite the word "NO" on the ballot to the right of said measure, except that if and to the extent that Votomatic ballot cards are used at said elections, each voter to vote for any measure hereby submitted and for incurring said bonded indebtedness shall punch the ballot card in the hole after the word "YES" to the right of said measure, and to vote against any measure and against incurring said indebtedness shall punch the ballot card in the hole after the word "NO" to the right of said measure. On absent voter ballots the cross (+) may be marked with pen or pencil, except that if and to the extent that data vote ballot cards are provided for absent voters, each absent voter shall punch the ballot card in the hole after the word "YES" to the right of each measure or in the hole after the word "NO" to the right of each measure. Absent voter ballots setting forth said measures, and each of them shall be issued to qualified electors residing within the City entitled thereto, in the manner provided by law, and such absent voter ballots shall likewise be canvassed, or caused to be canvassed, by the Board of Supervisors of said County.

(f) At the next regular meeting of the Council occurring after the returns of said special municipal bond election have been canvassed, or caused to be canvassed, by the Board of Supervisors of said County, and the certification of the results thereof to the Council, or at a special meeting called thereafter for such purpose, the Council shall cause to be spread upon its minutes a statement of the results of said special municipal bond election as ascertained by said canvass.

Section 3. The Council proposes to issue and sell bonds of the City for the objects and purposes, but not exceeding the amount, specified in said respective measures if two thirds of the qualified electors voting on each separate measure at said special municipal bond election shall vote in favor of each of said measures; provided, however, that the votes cast for and against each of said respective measures shall be counted separately and, when two-thirds of the qualified electors voting on any one of said measures vote in favor thereof, such measure shall be deemed adopted and bonds of the City in the aggregate amount specified in the measure or measures which carried by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the qualified electors of the City voting on said measure or measures at said election shall thereby be authorized to be issued and sold for the objects and purposes specified in said measure or measures which received such affirmative two-thirds vote.

Said bonds shall be negotiable in form and of the character known as serial, and shall bear interest at a rate not to exceed seven percent (7) per annum, payable semiannually (except that interest for the first year after the date of said bonds may be made payable at or before the end of said year). Provision is hereby made for the payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds as follows: At the time of making the general tax levy after incurring the bonded indebtedness, and annually thereafter until the bonds are paid or until there is a sum in the treasury set apart for that purpose sufficient to meet all payments of principal and interest on the bonds as they become due, the Council shall levy and collect a tax sufficient to pay the interest on the bonds and such part of the principal as will become due before the proceeds of a tax levied at the next general tax levy will be available; provided, however, that if said bonds are authorized to be issued at said election, and it is expected that all or any part of said bonds will be sold at such time that the principal of or interest on such bonds will become due before the proceeds of a tax levied after such sale would be available to pay such principal or interest, the Council, at the time of fixing the annual tax levy, may levy a tax in an amount clearly sufficient to pay that portion of the principal of and interest on said bonds which it is expected will become due before the proceeds of the next succeeding tax levy will be available. If the earliest maturity of the bonds is more than one year after the date of issuance, the Council shall levy and collect annually a tax sufficient to pay the interest as it falls due and to constitute a sinking fund for the payment of the principal on or before maturity. Such taxes shall be levied and collected as other City taxes and shall be in addition to all other taxes and shall be used only for payment of the bonds and the interest thereon.

Section 4. The City Clerk of the City is hereby directed (a) to publish this ordinance once in full in the Independent-Journal, which is a newspaper of general circulation published in the City, at least three days before its adoption, and (b), upon the passage and adoption of this ordinance, to publish the same once a day for at least seven (7) days in the Independent-Journal, which is a newspaper of general circulation published at least six (6) days a week in the City, and such publication shall constitute notice of said election. No other notice of the election hereby called need be given.

Section 5. This ordinance shall be forthwith entered upon the minutes of the Council and in the Ordinance Book of the City. This ordinance, being an ordinance calling and ordering an election, shall take effect from and after its final passage and approval.

It is being presented by the Methodist Actors Serving the Church, a group that tours California and Nevada performing religious plays.

Trespassers Routed From Burial Crypt

Two Los Angeles youths who had set up housekeeping in a crypt in the Fernwood cemetery in Tamalpais Valley have been routed out after deputy sheriffs discovered their cozy nest.

The deputies reported yesterday that on Wednesday they discovered that a pink blanket hand been hung over the door to the crypt and upon entering they found sleeping bags neatly placed on slabs.

Other comforts of home including candles, food, cooking equipment and canteens were lying about.

The longhaired and bearded occupants were not home, however, but were found a few minutes later at a sheriff's substation where they had gone to report the theft of a wallet.

Richard Clyde Wilmers, 17, and Lewis Juneau Carlson, 18, were then arrested, and Wilmers was taken to Juvenile Hall and Carlson to jail. Carlson was released later in the day after pleading guilty in Marin Municipal Court to trespassing. He was sentenced to the time he had spent in jail.

Wilmers was put on a plane for Los Angeles by juvenile officers.

The missing wallet was found in a sleeping bag by the deputies.

Ross Students Win Contest

A Ross School student who spelled "intelligable" correctly, has won first place in the county-wide eighth grade spelling bee.

Lynn Gutstadt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gutstadt of Box 667, Ross, will compete with other county winners for the state title April 24 in Sacramento.

Vivian Straus of Tomales Bay School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Strauss of Marshall, was second.

AN ORDINANCE CALLING A SPECIAL MUNICIPAL BOND ELECTION IN THE CITY OF SAN RAFAEL FOR THE PURPOSE OF SUBMITTING TO THE ELECTORS OF SAID CITY THE MEASURES OF INCURRING A BONDED INDEBTEDNESS OF SAID CITY FOR THE ACQUISITION, CONSTRUCTION AND COMPLETION OF THE FOLLOWING MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS, AND EACH OF THEM, TO WIT: (B) SEWER SYSTEM IMPROVEMENTS, (C) COMMUNITY RECREATION CENTER AND (D) MAIN FIRE STATION; DECLARING THE ESTIMATED COST OF SAID MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS, AND EACH OF THEM, THE AMOUNT OF THE PRINCIPAL OF SAID INDEBTEDNESS TO BE INCURRED THEREFOR, AND THE MAXIMUM RATE OF INTEREST TO BE PAID THEREON MAKING PROVISION FOR THE LEVY AND COLLECTION OF TAXES; FIXING THE DATE OF SAID ELECTION, THE MANNER OF HOLDING THE SAME, PROVIDING FOR NOTICE THEREOF, AND CONSOLIDATING SAID SPECIAL MUNICIPAL BOND ELECTION WITH THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA DIRECT PRIMARY ELECTION TO BE HELD ON JUNE 2, 1970.

WHEREAS, the Council of the City of San Rafael by resolution duly passed and adopted at a meeting of the Council duly and regularly held, by affirmative vote of more than two-thirds of all its members, did determine that the public interest and necessity demand the acquisition, construction and completion of the municipal improvements, and each of them, hereinafter mentioned, and did further determine that the cost of said proposed municipal improvements, and each of them, will be too great to be paid out of the ordinary annual income and revenue of said municipality and that each of said municipal improvements will require an expenditure greater than the amount allowed therefor by the annual tax levy, and will require the incurring of a bonded indebtedness therefor, which resolution was duly entered on the minutes of said meeting of the Council, and is now on file and of record in the Clerk's office of said City; NOW ,THEREFORE,

THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SAN RAFAEL DO ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS

Section 1. A special municipal bond election shall be and is hereby ordered and will be held in the City of San Rafael (hereinafter called "the City") on Tuesday, June 2, 1970, at which election shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the City the question of incurring a bonded indebtedness of the City for the objects and purposes set forth in the following measures, and each of them, to wit:

CITY OF SAN RAFAEL MEASURES

MEASURE (B): (Sewer System Improvements)	Shall the City of San Rafael incur a bonded indebtedness in the principal amount of $1,105,000 for the acquisition, construction and completion of the following municipal improvement, to wit: Sewer system improvements comprising reconstruction or replacement of existing sewage collection, trunk and outfall lines to improve and increase the capacity of the sanitary sewer system, including pipes, connections, manholes, equipment, lands, easements, rights-of-way and other works, property or structures necessary or convenient for sewer system improvements for the City of San Rafael?	YES NO
MEASURE (C): (Community Recreation Center)	Shall the City of San Rafael incur a bonded indebtedness in the principal amount of $560,000 for the acquisition, construction and completion of the following municipal improvement, to wit: Community recreation center, including land acquisition, construction of building complex, site preparation, building support, landscaping, off-street parking facilities, other site developments and other works, property or structures necessary or convenient for a community recreation center for the City of San Rafael?	YES NO
MEASURE (D): (Main Fire Station)	Shall the City of San Rafael incur a bonded indebtedness in the principal amount of $625,000 for the acquisition, construction and completion of the following municipal improvement, to wit: Main fire station, including land acquisition, construction of building complex, site preparation, building support, other site improvements and other works, property or structures necessary or convenient for a main fire station for the City of San Rafael?	YES NO

The estimated cost of the municipal improvement as set forth in Measure (B) (Sewer System Improvements) is the sum of $1,105,000 and the amount of the indebtedness proposed to be incurred for said municipal improvement is the sum of $1,105,000.

The estimated cost of the municipal improvement as set forth in Measure (C) (Community Recreation Center) is the sum of $560,000 and the amount of the indebtedness proposed to be incurred for said municipal improvement is the sum of $560,000.

The estimated cost of the municipal improvement as set forth in Measure (D) (Main Fire Station) is the sum of $625,000 and the amount of the indebtedness proposed to be incurred for said municipal improvement is the sum of $625,000.

The estimated cost hereinabove stated of each such municipal improvement includes legal and all other fees incidental to or connected with the authorization, issuance and sale of the bonds evidencing the indebtedness proposed to be incurred for such municipal improvement and the costs of printing said bonds and all other costs and expenses incidental to or connected with the authorization, issuance and sale of said bonds.

Section 2. The Council does hereby submit to the qualified electors of the City at said special municipal bond election said measures, and each of them, set forth in Section 1 of this ordinance, and designates and refers to said measures as the measures to be set forth on the ballots hereinafter prescribed for use at said election.

(a) Said special municipal bond election shall be held and conducted, and the votes thereof canvassed, and the returns thereof made, and the result thereof ascertained and determined, as herein provided; and in all particulars not prescribed by this ordinance, said election shall be held as provided by law.

(b) All persons qualified to vote at municipal elections in the City upon the date of the election herein provided for shall be qualified to vote upon the measures submitted at said special municipal bond election.

(c) The polls at the polling places hereinafter designated shall be opened at 7:00 o'clock A.M. of said day of election and shall be kept open continuously thereafter until 8:00 o'clock P.M. of said day of election, when the polls shall be closed (except as provided in Section 14436 of the Elections Code), and the election officers shall thereupon proceed to canvass the ballots cast thereat.

(d) Said special municipal bond election hereby called shall be and is hereby consolidated with the State of California Direct Primary Election to be held in the City on June 2, 1970, all as required by and pursuant to law; and the election precincts, polling places and officers of election within the City for said special municipal bond election hereby called shall be the same as those selected and designated by the Board of Supervisors of Marin County for said primary election and set forth or to be set forth in the notice of election officers and polling places for said primary election published or to be published by the County Clerk of said County, as required by law, to which notice reference is hereby specifically made for a designation of the precincts, polling places, and election officers of the special municipal bond election hereby called. Only qualified voters of the City shall be permitted to vote at said special municipal bond election. The Board of Supervisors of said County is authorized to canvass, or cause to be canvassed, the returns of said special municipal bond election with respect to the votes cast in the City and to certify the results to the Council.

(e) On the ballots to be used at said primary election and said special municipal bond election hereby consolidated therewith, in addition to all other matters required by law to be printed thereon, shall appear the measures, and each of them, set forth in Section 1 hereof. Each voter may vote on any or all of said measures. Each voter to vote for any measure hereby submitted and for incurring said bonded indebtedness shall stamp a cross (+) in the blank space opposite the word "YES" on the ballot to the right of said measure, and to vote against any measure and against incurring said indebtedness shall stamp a cross (+) in the blank space opposite the word "NO" on the ballot to the right of said measure, except that if and to the extent that Votomatic ballot cards are used at said elections, each voter to vote for any measure hereby submitted and for incurring said bonded indebtedness shall punch the ballot card in the hole after the word "YES" to the right of said measure, and to vote against any measure and against incurring said indebtedness shall punch the ballot card in the hole after the word "NO" to the right of said measure. On absent voter ballots the cross (+) may be marked with pen or pencil, except that if and to the extent that data vote ballot cards are provided for absent voters, each absent voter shall punch the ballot card in the hole after the word "YES" to the right of each measure or in the hole after the word "NO" to the right of each measure. Absent voter ballots setting forth said measures, and each of them shall be issued to qualified electors residing within the City entitled thereto, in the manner provided by law, and such absent voter ballots shall likewise be canvassed, or caused to be canvassed, by the Board of Supervisors of said County.

(f) At the next regular meeting of the Council occurring after the returns of said special municipal bond election have been canvassed, or caused to be canvassed, by the Board of Supervisors of said County, and the certification of the results thereof to the Council, or at a special meeting called thereafter for such purpose, the Council shall cause to be spread upon its minutes a statement of the results of said special municipal bond election as ascertained by said canvass.

Section 3. The Council proposes to issue and sell bonds of the City for the objects and purposes, but not exceeding the amount, specified in said respective measures if two thirds of the qualified electors voting on each separate measure at said special municipal bond election shall vote in favor of each of said measures; provided, however, that the votes cast for and against each of said respective measures shall be counted separately and, when two-thirds of the qualified electors voting on any one of said measures vote in favor thereof, such measure shall be deemed adopted and bonds of the City in the aggregate amount specified in the measure or measures which carried by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the qualified electors of the City voting on said measure or measures at said election shall thereby be authorized to be issued and sold for the objects and purposes specified in said measure or measures which received such affirmative two-thirds vote.

Said bonds shall be negotiable in form and of the character known as serial, and shall bear interest at a rate not to exceed seven percent (7) per annum, payable semiannually (except that interest for the first year after the date of said bonds may be made payable at or before the end of said year). Provision is hereby made for the payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds as follows: At the time of making the general tax levy after incurring the bonded indebtedness, and annually thereafter until the bonds are paid or until there is a sum in the treasury set apart for that purpose sufficient to meet all payments of principal and interest on the bonds as they become due, the Council shall levy and collect a tax sufficient to pay the interest on the bonds and such part of the principal as will become due before the proceeds of a tax levied at the next general tax levy will be available; provided, however, that if said bonds are authorized to be issued at said election, and it is expected that all or any part of said bonds will be sold at such time that the principal of or interest on such bonds will become due before the proceeds of a tax levied after such sale would be available to pay such principal or interest, the Council, at the time of fixing the annual tax levy, may levy a tax in an amount clearly sufficient to pay that portion of the principal of and interest on said bonds which it is expected will become due before the proceeds of the next succeeding tax levy will be available. If the earliest maturity of the bonds is more than one year after the date of issuance, the Council shall levy and collect annually a tax sufficient to pay the interest as it falls due and to constitute a sinking fund for the payment of the principal on or before maturity. Such taxes shall be levied and collected as other City taxes and shall be in addition to all other taxes and shall be used only for payment of the bonds and the interest thereon.

Section 4. The City Clerk of the City is hereby directed (a) to publish this ordinance once in full in the Independent-Journal, which is a newspaper of general circulation published in the City, at least three days before its adoption, and (b), upon the passage and adoption of this ordinance, to publish the same once a day for at least seven (7) days in the Independent-Journal, which is a newspaper of general circulation published at least six (6) days a week in the City, and such publication shall constitute notice of said election. No other notice of the election hereby called need be given.

Section 5. This ordinance shall be forthwith entered upon the minutes of the Council and in the Ordinance Book of the City. This ordinance, being an ordinance calling and ordering an election, shall take effect from and after its final passage and approval.

Fund Offer To Black Collegians

The Marin City Council Thursday night urged black students who attend the College of Marin and are in need of financial aid to contact the council which has funds available, according to Rev. Samuel L. Banks Jr., chairman.

Applications should be made before May 15, Banks said, and will be forwarded to the college for final selection.

The Marin City Council also:

VACANCIES—Invited Marin City organizations not represented on the council to submit names of persons who would be interested in filling vacancies on the council.

CONFIDENCE—Gave a vote of confidence to two administrators at Martin Luther King School and a community worker for the Sausalito School District: King principal, Sidney F. Walton Jr.; vice-principal James T. Toliver Jr., and community worker Gabe Jackson.

PLAN—Scheduled a public hearing on formation of a new master plan for Marin City for April 23 at 8 p.m. at the Manzanita Center.

ADJOURNMENT—Adjourned until its next regular meeting April 23 8 p.m. at the Manzanita Center.

Bel Marin Keys Faces Tax Hike For Dredging

The Bel Marin Keys Community Service District board have decided to hold a tax rate increase election, probably in August, secretary Betty Zoeller reported yesterday.

The board Thursday night did not set any amount of money needed nor the tax rate necessary to raise it, she said.

The community services district board is now looking for someone to survey the lagoons and estimate the dredging needed and cost of it, she said.

The voters approved a tax rate increase from 63 cents to $1.25 per $100 assessed valuation in August 1968. Of that money, $20,000 per year goes into the dredging fund, she said.

"However, $20,000 will not keep up with the dredging necessary each year," she said.

Transit Decline

HELSINKI (UPI)—The Helsinki (population 530,000) Traffic Department reports its trolleys and buses carried 126.8 million passengers in 1969, a decrease of more than 7 million from 1968.

THREE AGAINST A PRINCE

Cambodia Shifting Its Neutrality?

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Prince Norodom Sihanouk, who was ousted as Cambodian chief of state recently, has announced from his part-time home in exile in Peking that he plans to return to Cambodia—possibly with the aid of North Vietnamese troops.

The triumvirate who replaced him in Phnom Penh, Provisional President Cheng Heng, Vice Premier Siswath Sirik Matak and Defense Minister Gen. Lon Nol, have announced that if Sihanouk tries to return he will be tried for treason.

Sihanouk was ousted while he was in Moscow, after having interrupted a vacation in France to try and get Soviet and Chinese Communist leaders to urge North Vietnam to get its troops out of Cambodia.

His trip to Moscow was preceded by a week of unrest and demonstrations in which thousands of Cambodians attacked Viet Cong and North Vietnamese embassies and sacked them, throwing their secret files to the streets.

In addition, the Cambodians invaded Vietnamese neighborhoods in Phnom Penh and burned Vietnamese residences and stores.

While the Communist world has been busy denouncing the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency for allegedly inspiring the coup that ousted Sihanouk, and the prince has been cozy with Communist neighbors lately, his political career of nearly 30 years has been erratic.

Sihanouk succeeded to the throne in 1941 as an avowed anti-Communist, eight years before Cambodia was granted independence from France.

During the early '50s when Vietnamese Communists were fighting the French, forces from both sides encroached on Cambodian territory. At the conclusion of the Geneva conference in 1954, the adversaries agreed to withdraw their forces.

In 1955, Sihanouk abdicated and his father, the former king, Norodom Suramarit, came to the throne. Sihanouk then led his Socialist People's Communist party in an election and became prime minister later that year. His first act was to secede completely from the French Union and declare a neutral foreign policy.

In 1960, Sihanouk became head of state again when his father died, but he did not resume the title of king.

In the early '60s, Cambodia's relations with neighboring Thailand and South Vietnam deteriorated as a result of border disputes and incidents. Those countries accused Cambodia of secret Communist activities.

In 1963, Sihanouk accused the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency of fostering rebellion in his country, and later that year renounced all American economic, military and cultural aid.

Although he broke relations with the United States in 1965, Sihanouk expressed misgivings about Communist China, which he claimed was being drawn into Southeast Asian affairs by American policy. Also in 1965, he issued a stern warning to Cambodian Communists to stop campaigning against his government.

An American declaration at the end of 1965 that U.S. troops had the right to make incursions into Cambodia in pursuit of Communist forces using Cambodia to launch attacks against South Vietnam brought a reply from Sihanouk that Cambodia had the right to make counterincursions.

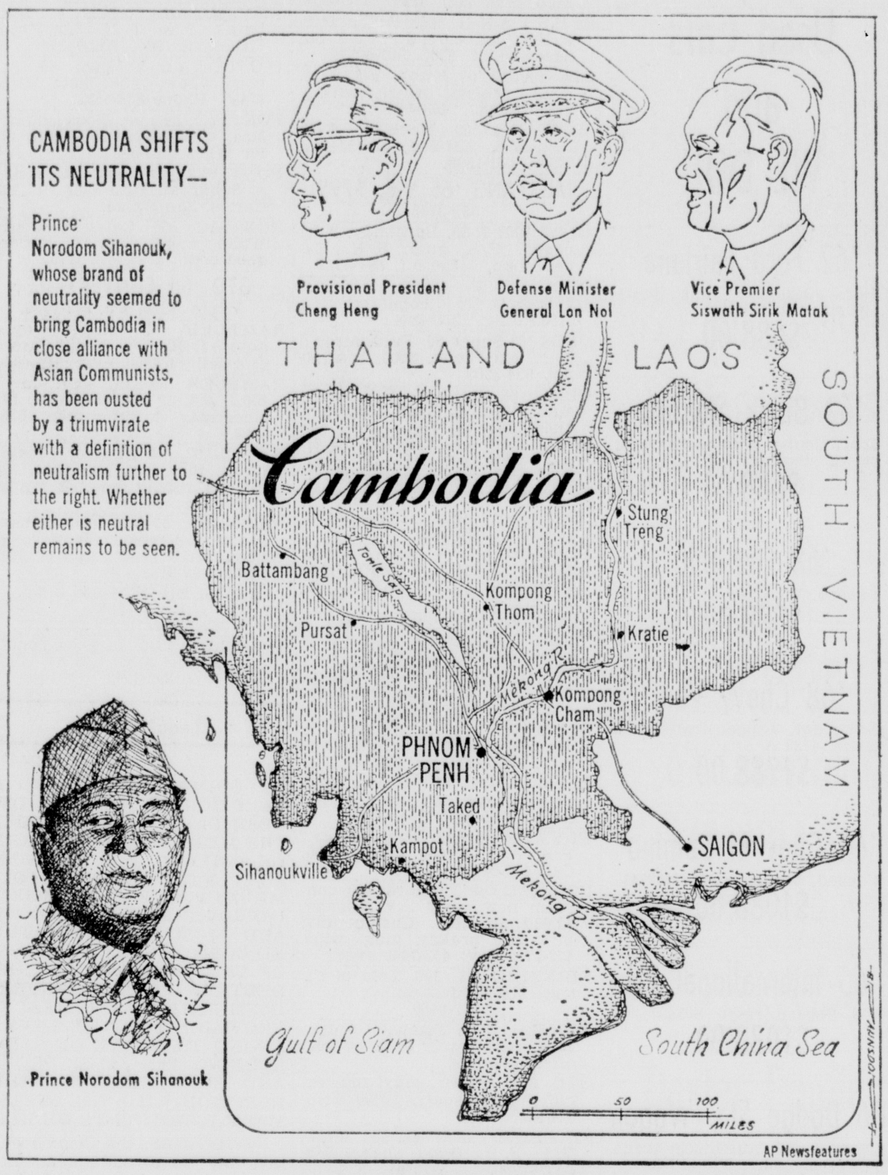
At the same time, however, the prince proposed increasing the supervisory role of the International Control Commission, which was charged with guaranteeing Cambodian neutrality under the Geneva agreement.

The United States said it was ready to consider the proposal, but the possibility was exploded in the bombing of a Cambodian border village while an ICC team was visiting in August of 1966.

But it was unlikely that the ICC role would have been increased anyway, since Communist countries opposed it. Cambodian newspapers speculated at the time that the opposition might have hindered North Vietnamese and Viet Cong movement in Cambodia.

In 1966, Sihanouk stepped down again, announcing his support for Gen. Lon Nol as premier. But when Lon Nol's Cabinet proved too rightist for Sianouk's tastes, he formed what he called a counter-government to watch and criticize Lon Nol's government.

Lon Nol headed the government reluctantly until April of 1966, when he resigned. Later in 1966, Sihanouk, who had appointed a Cabinet of his own, began accusing the Cambodian Communists of conspiring with North Vietnamese and Chinese Communists to subvert his regime.



Los Robles Map Due For Novato

A tentative development of Los Robles subdivision Unit 1 will be considered by the Novato Planning Commission at 8 p.m. Monday in the Novato Community House.

Atlantic and Pacific Building Corp. has submitted the map for 84 lots on 37 acres west of Los Robles Drive.

The commission will also consider a tentative map of Marin Golf and Country Club Estates Unit 6 of 28 lots on 21 acres south of Alameda de La Loma.

Other agenda items include an amendment to the San Marin master plan changing from single family to planned residential, an area adjacent to Highway 101 south of San Marin Drive, and a use permit for Albert Tresch for a self-service car wash in the Tresch Triange between South Novato Boulevard and Center Road.

Attorney Sued Over Car Crash

San Rafael attorney Gary T. Giacomini has been sued for more than $500,000 in Marin Superior Court by a 35-year-old Lafayette man who suffered serious injuries in an auto accident in which he and Giacomini were involved last October.

Robert Elwood Green claimed in the suit filed Thursday that Giacomini's negligence had caused the crash at the intersection of Moraga Road and St. Mary's Road in Contra Costa county. Green told police that Giacomini did not have his car lights on. Green's attorney said that Giacomini was cited for failing to stop at the intersection.

Green, who suffered a back injury, asked medical expenses, compensation for loss of earnings and costs of the suit in addition to the $500,000.

Beret General Effigy Burning

BERKELEY (UPI) — About 700 persons marched to the University of California's Naval ROTC headquarters Thursday and burned an effigy of an Army Green Beret general.

Some 24 helmeted university police stood by with their riot sticks at the ready as the students marched to Callaghan Hall which houses Naval ROTC.

The march was sponsored by Campus Students for a Democratic Society and the Student Union.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Abnormal Laughter Is A Clue To Dangerous Tumor In Brain

AN INDIVIDUAL who giggles or breaks into convulsive laughter at the wrong time may have sustained a stroke, have epilepsy, or a brain tumor.

These people cannot help themselves. The medical literature contains many examples of inappropriate hilarity, including some victims who laughed until exhausted. Death from violent laughter also has been recorded.

A 20-year-old man, botherered along this line, consulted a group of neurologists. For more than a year he had been laughing at things that were not funny and then he suddenly developed headaches and muscle weakness. The latter symptoms suggested a brain lesion.

WHEN ASKED WHY he chuckled at the slightest provocation, he answered, "I don't want to laugh." A brain tumor was removed, and he recovered.

Certain centers in the brain, when stimulated or irritated by a tumor or hemorrhage, precipitate laughter. In such instances, the individual is not amused even though the facial muscles express joy or delight. He is forced to contend with a reflex process over which he has no control.

Another example of abnormal laughter was related by a neurological surgeon who was removing a brain tumor. His patient was under a local anesthetic, and every time the surgeon swabbed a certain part of the brain, the patient would laugh, whistle, and make obscene remarks. When the mechanical stimulus was stopped, the man became quiet.

ANOTHER MAN had a bout of uncontrollable laughter while attending the funeral of his mother. He had three more such episodes and died shortly thereafter of a stroke.

When laughter occurs as a manifestation of epilepsy, the victim chuckles, grunts, or guffaws instead of having a blackout or convulsion. In some instances, the bout of mirth is a prelude (aura) to an epileptic fit. Some cackle; others smile or have a laughing or weeping jag.

PROGNOSIS IN UREMIA

S. H. J. writes: Is uremia always fatal?

REPLY

No. In uremia, the kidneys fail to function for a number of reasons. If the causative factors can be corrected or eliminated, the structures start working again. If not, the outcome is serious. The artificial kidney has been helpful in tiding over certain patients until the cause of reversible uremia can be corrected or the person can wait until a donor kidney becomes available for transplant.

ADHESIONS

S. E. writes: Is an adhesion the same as a bowel obstruction?

REPLY

No, but obstruction may be due to adhesions of the bowel. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this abnormality.

E AND THE HEART

M. B. H. writes: What is your opinion regarding the value of vitamin E for heart patients?

REPLY

Vitamin E is recommended by some medicos, but in my opinion, there is not enough objective proof of its value.

MUMPS IN THE ADULT

H. T. writes: Should an adult man take any special precautions if he develops mumps?

REPLY

He ought to follow the advice of his physician and be an invalid until the swelling subsides.

Fund Offer To Black Collegians

The Marin City Council Thursday night urged black students who attend the College of Marin and are in need of financial aid to contact the council which has funds available, according to Rev. Samuel L. Banks Jr., chairman.

Applications should be made before May 15, Banks said, and will be forwarded to the college for final selection.

The Marin City Council also:

VACANCIES—Invited Marin City organizations not represented on the council to submit names of persons who would be interested in filling vacancies on the council.

CONFIDENCE—Gave a vote of confidence to two administrators at Martin Luther King School and a community worker for the Sausalito School District: King principal, Sidney F. Walton Jr.; vice-principal James T. Toliver Jr., and community worker Gabe Jackson.

PLAN—Scheduled a public hearing on formation of a new master plan for Marin City for April 23 at 8 p.m. at the Manzanita Center.

ADJOURNMENT—Adjourned until its next regular meeting April 23 8 p.m. at the Manzanita Center.

Bel Marin Keys Faces Tax Hike For Dredging

The Bel Marin Keys Community Service District board have decided to hold a tax rate increase election, probably in August, secretary Betty Zoeller reported yesterday.

The board Thursday night did not set any amount of money needed nor the tax rate necessary to raise it, she said.

The community services district board is now looking for someone to survey the lagoons and estimate the dredging needed and cost of it, she said.

The voters approved a tax rate increase from 63 cents to $1.25 per $100 assessed valuation in August 1968. Of that money, $20,000 per year goes into the dredging fund, she said.

"However, $20,000 will not keep up with the dredging necessary each year," she said.

Transit Decline

HELSINKI (UPI)—The Helsinki (population 530,000) Traffic Department reports its trolleys and buses carried 126.8 million passengers in 1969, a decrease of more than 7 million from 1968.

THREE AGAINST A PRINCE

Cambodia Shifting Its Neutrality?

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Prince Norodom Sihanouk, who was ousted as Cambodian chief of state recently, has announced from his part-time home in exile in Peking that he plans to return to Cambodia—possibly with the aid of North Vietnamese troops.

The triumvirate who replaced him in Phnom Penh, Provisional President Cheng Heng, Vice Premier Siswath Sirik Matak and Defense Minister Gen. Lon Nol, have announced that if Sihanouk tries to return he will be tried for treason.

Sihanouk was ousted while he was in Moscow, after having interrupted a vacation in France to try and get Soviet and Chinese Communist leaders to urge North Vietnam to get its troops out of Cambodia.

His trip to Moscow was preceded by a week of unrest and demonstrations in which thousands of Cambodians attacked Viet Cong and North Vietnamese embassies and sacked them, throwing their secret files to the streets.

In addition, the Cambodians invaded Vietnamese neighborhoods in Phnom Penh and burned Vietnamese residences and stores.

While the Communist world has been busy denouncing the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency for allegedly inspiring the coup that ousted Sihanouk, and the prince has been cozy with Communist neighbors lately, his political career of nearly 30 years has been erratic.

Sihanouk succeeded to the throne in 1941 as an avowed anti-Communist, eight years before Cambodia was granted independence from France.

During the early '50s when Vietnamese Communists were fighting the French, forces from both sides encroached on Cambodian territory. At the conclusion of the Geneva conference in 1954, the adversaries agreed to withdraw their forces.

In 1955, Sihanouk abdicated and his father, the former king, Norodom Suramarit, came to the throne. Sihanouk then led his Socialist People's Communist party in an election and became prime minister later that year. His first act was to secede completely from the French Union and declare a neutral foreign policy.

In 1960, Sihanouk became head of state again when his father died, but he did not resume the title of king.

In the early '60s, Cambodia's relations with neighboring Thailand and South Vietnam deteriorated as a result of border disputes and incidents. Those countries accused Cambodia of secret Communist activities.

In 1963, Sihanouk accused the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency of fostering rebellion in his country, and later that year renounced all American economic, military and cultural aid.

Although he broke relations with the United States in 1965, Sihanouk expressed misgivings about Communist China, which he claimed was being drawn into Southeast Asian affairs by American policy. Also in 1965, he issued a stern warning to Cambodian Communists to stop campaigning against his government.

An American declaration at the end of 1965 that U.S. troops had the right to make incursions into Cambodia in pursuit of Communist forces using Cambodia to launch attacks against South Vietnam brought a reply from Sihanouk that Cambodia had the right to make counterincursions.

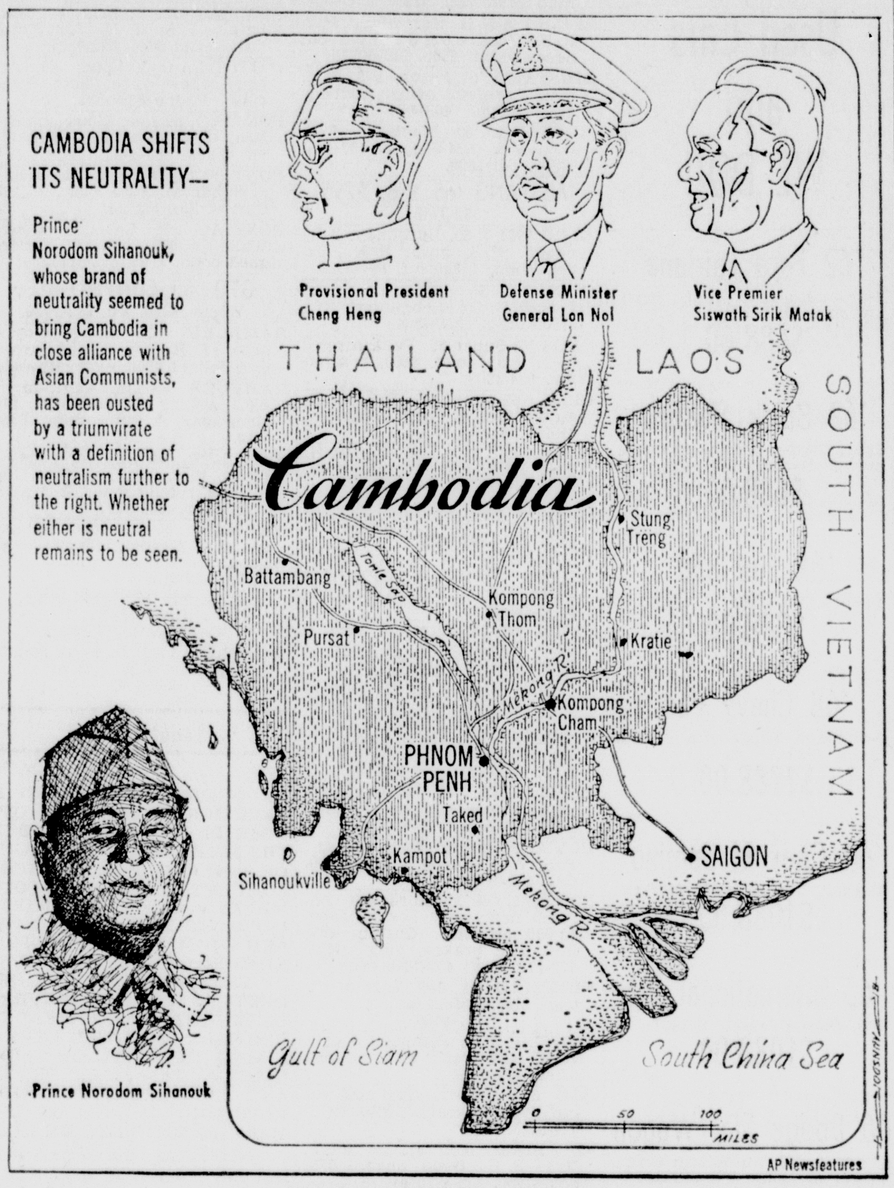
At the same time, however, the prince proposed increasing the supervisory role of the International Control Commission, which was charged with guaranteeing Cambodian neutrality under the Geneva agreement.

The United States said it was ready to consider the proposal, but the possibility was exploded in the bombing of a Cambodian border village while an ICC team was visiting in August of 1966.

But it was unlikely that the ICC role would have been increased anyway, since Communist countries opposed it. Cambodian newspapers speculated at the time that the opposition might have hindered North Vietnamese and Viet Cong movement in Cambodia.

In 1966, Sihanouk stepped down again, announcing his support for Gen. Lon Nol as premier. But when Lon Nol's Cabinet proved too rightist for Sianouk's tastes, he formed what he called a counter-government to watch and criticize Lon Nol's government.

Lon Nol headed the government reluctantly until April of 1966, when he resigned. Later in 1966, Sihanouk, who had appointed a Cabinet of his own, began accusing the Cambodian Communists of conspiring with North Vietnamese and Chinese Communists to subvert his regime.



Los Robles Map Due For Novato

A tentative development of Los Robles subdivision Unit 1 will be considered by the Novato Planning Commission at 8 p.m. Monday in the Novato Community House.

Atlantic and Pacific Building Corp. has submitted the map for 84 lots on 37 acres west of Los Robles Drive.

The commission will also consider a tentative map of Marin Golf and Country Club Estates Unit 6 of 28 lots on 21 acres south of Alameda de La Loma.

Other agenda items include an amendment to the San Marin master plan changing from single family to planned residential, an area adjacent to Highway 101 south of San Marin Drive, and a use permit for Albert Tresch for a self-service car wash in the Tresch Triange between South Novato Boulevard and Center Road.

Attorney Sued Over Car Crash

San Rafael attorney Gary T. Giacomini has been sued for more than $500,000 in Marin Superior Court by a 35-year-old Lafayette man who suffered serious injuries in an auto accident in which he and Giacomini were involved last October.

Robert Elwood Green claimed in the suit filed Thursday that Giacomini's negligence had caused the crash at the intersection of Moraga Road and St. Mary's Road in Contra Costa county. Green told police that Giacomini did not have his car lights on. Green's attorney said that Giacomini was cited for failing to stop at the intersection.

Green, who suffered a back injury, asked medical expenses, compensation for loss of earnings and costs of the suit in addition to the $500,000.

Beret General Effigy Burning

BERKELEY (UPI) — About 700 persons marched to the University of California's Naval ROTC headquarters Thursday and burned an effigy of an Army Green Beret general.

Some 24 helmeted university police stood by with their riot sticks at the ready as the students marched to Callaghan Hall which houses Naval ROTC.

The march was sponsored by Campus Students for a Democratic Society and the Student Union.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Abnormal Laughter Is A Clue To Dangerous Tumor In Brain

AN INDIVIDUAL who giggles or breaks into convulsive laughter at the wrong time may have sustained a stroke, have epilepsy, or a brain tumor.

These people cannot help themselves. The medical literature contains many examples of inappropriate hilarity, including some victims who laughed until exhausted. Death from violent laughter also has been recorded.

A 20-year-old man, botherered along this line, consulted a group of neurologists. For more than a year he had been laughing at things that were not funny and then he suddenly developed headaches and muscle weakness. The latter symptoms suggested a brain lesion.

WHEN ASKED WHY he chuckled at the slightest provocation, he answered, "I don't want to laugh." A brain tumor was removed, and he recovered.

Certain centers in the brain, when stimulated or irritated by a tumor or hemorrhage, precipitate laughter. In such instances, the individual is not amused even though the facial muscles express joy or delight. He is forced to contend with a reflex process over which he has no control.

Another example of abnormal laughter was related by a neurological surgeon who was removing a brain tumor. His patient was under a local anesthetic, and every time the surgeon swabbed a certain part of the brain, the patient would laugh, whistle, and make obscene remarks. When the mechanical stimulus was stopped, the man became quiet.

ANOTHER MAN had a bout of uncontrollable laughter while attending the funeral of his mother. He had three more such episodes and died shortly thereafter of a stroke.

When laughter occurs as a manifestation of epilepsy, the victim chuckles, grunts, or guffaws instead of having a blackout or convulsion. In some instances, the bout of mirth is a prelude (aura) to an epileptic fit. Some cackle; others smile or have a laughing or weeping jag.

PROGNOSIS IN UREMIA

S. H. J. writes: Is uremia always fatal?

REPLY

No. In uremia, the kidneys fail to function for a number of reasons. If the causative factors can be corrected or eliminated, the structures start working again. If not, the outcome is serious. The artificial kidney has been helpful in tiding over certain patients until the cause of reversible uremia can be corrected or the person can wait until a donor kidney becomes available for transplant.

ADHESIONS

S. E. writes: Is an adhesion the same as a bowel obstruction?

REPLY

No, but obstruction may be due to adhesions of the bowel. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this abnormality.

E AND THE HEART

M. B. H. writes: What is your opinion regarding the value of vitamin E for heart patients?

REPLY

Vitamin E is recommended by some medicos, but in my opinion, there is not enough objective proof of its value.

MUMPS IN THE ADULT

H. T. writes: Should an adult man take any special precautions if he develops mumps?

REPLY

He ought to follow the advice of his physician and be an invalid until the swelling subsides.

Today's Health Hint—Fatigue is nature's warning sign that you need more rest.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

19 EDITORIAL PAGE San Rafael, Calif. Saturday, April 11, 1970

The Editor's Notebook

Warm Sun Turns Thoughts To Recreational Needs

The spell of summery weather turns one's thoughts to the out-of-doors.

Because Marin is mostly bounded by water—ocean, bay and river—thoughts of the out-of-doors lead directly to thoughts of water-oriented recreation.

"Water, water everywhere, but not a drop to drink," runs the ancient lament of the castaway.

In Marin it could rightly be parodied, "Water, water everywhere, but no a drop clean enough to enjoy."

THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT tells us that because of pollution, some areas of our shoreline are not safe for swimming, nor should we eat seafood taken from them.

Even in areas that are not posted by the health department, the odor or the appearance of the water gives its own health hazard warning.

In the decades since World War II, Marin has built many sewage treatment plants and the amount of untreated effluent flowing into the bay along our shores has declined. But there still remains a long way to go.

ASIDE FROM POLLUTION, there is the problem of public access.

After decades of talk, the county finally purchased McNear's Beach, insuring that his strip of bayshore recreational area will be open for public use and enjoyment in perpetuity.

Development is continuing on Paradise Park, which the county acquired as surplus from the old Tiburon Naval Net Depot. It's over-use on warm weather week ends demonstrates how inadequate it is.

As soon as facilities are ready, McNear's will suffer from over-use because it, too, is inadequate. The county must act to expand its holdings to include the China Camp area.

Likewise, Paradise Park should be expanded.

All-in-all, far too little of Marin's bay shore is available for public park use.

CONSERVATION-MINDED students of Petaluma High School have advocated establishment of a public park at Neal's Island, adjacent to the point where San Antonio Creek joins the Petaluma River. An adequate park site there would presumably require land in both Marin and Sonoma counties.

The young people's proposal deserves attention and support. It is sound. A public park along the shores of the Petaluma River will be a must in years to come.

THE VAST REACHES of ocean front which will be incorporated in the Point Reyes National Seashore when it is finally put together must not be allowed to lull us into thinking future needs are already provided for.

Take a look at Stinson Beach State Park on a sunny week end. It looks almost as crowded as Cony Island.

To relieve the pressure, the surplus military land on the Marin side of the Golden Gate must continue to be sought for parks use as it becomes available. The Marin Headlands park concept must be pressed. The beaches within the headlands are relatively small and scattered, but they will be desparately needed in time to come.

SOMETIMES IT SEEMS as if conservationists of yesteryear spent more time fighting FOR things than do their present day counterparts. Sometimes it seems today's conservationists are so busy fighting against some threatened development that they have no tie left for acquisition and development of much-needed additional recreation areas.

Sensitive Hands

A raccoon's hands are too similar to our own to be called something else. Paws or feet do not do justice to their usefulness. Raccoons use their hands to pick up food, catch frogs and crayfish, climb trees and hang onto their sleeping perch, among other things.

When they eat from a dish, they do not look at the food. Instead, they keep their heads up, eyes and ears alert for danger, and feel for the food and pick it up with their hands. We have read that in their natural hunting ground in the bed of shallow streams, raccoons follow the same procedure, using their sensitive hands to feel for and catch their meals.

Raccoons are some of the most nocturnal of Marin's mammals, seldom venturing out in the daylight. For such creatures, the development of a keen sense of touch to help them feel their way about in the dark is very important.

Smog Hurts Distant Trees

Ponderosa and Jeffery pine trees in San Bernardino National Forest are showing damage from smog generated in Los Angeles, 60 miles away.

About half the trees showed some damage, 15 per cent were severely damaged, and 3 per cent were killed by the smog.

It has been known the Los Angeles' smog was damaging trees for a long time, but the effects are much more widespread than previously thought.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to "Operation Car Pool," which will try Thursday to prove that by sensible sharing-the-ride, traffic congestion and air pollution can be reduced on the Marin-San Francisco route.

BRICKBATS to whoever is responsible for the upkeep of the federal property at Third and D streets, location of the Mission Branch of the San Rafael Post Office. It is quite awhile since the building was remodeled; when are the grounds to be landscaped and made attractive?

BOUQUET to the Marin Mental Health Foundation — now recruiting for memberships — for its consistent efforts on behalf of the mentally disturbed of all ages in Marin.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

An American couple, visiting Paris for the first time, hit it off beautifully with the attractive French girl who had been appointed their guide, and on their last afternoon together, showed her some family photographs. She showed particular interest in a snapshot taken of husband and wife with their two strapping sons in front of the White House in Washington. "What handsome boys," approved the guide finally, "and what a beautiful home you have!"

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Children Enjoy Visit To College

Our third graders had a wonderful experience last week at the College of Marin. The college had put out the welcome mat to third graders throughout the county and we happily took advantage of the unusual opportunity of exposing the boys and girls to the fascination of "physics magic".

We wish to give special thanks to Mr. R. L. Petersen who, with great understanding and appreciation of third graders, demonstrated various concepts.

May we add that the whole atmosphere of the campus as our little people walked from the bus to the lab, in the lab, and on our return trek, was warm and friendly.

Being Awakened Is Hardly Humane

In response to Mr. (Donald J.) Corcoran's "silent majority" complaint against the Humane Society, as one of the "silent majority" and a dog lover — if Mr. Corcoran lived on Redwood Avenue and had to be awakened several nights in a week to some dog barking at 2 and 3 in the morning and then listen to the owner yelling for it to come home as though it were high noon he might decide that it was anything but "humane" for hard working people to be denied an undisturbed night's sleep.

We keep our dog in the house, also, and I am reaching a point where I wish they would let the dogs alone and impound the owners.

Observance Date Not Significant

I was surprised, but not shocked, to find a letter in your paper (April 8) announcing that April 22 is not only Earth Day, but also Lenin's birthday . . .

I feel it is only fair to warn people that the date on which any event takes place has no political bearing. I know this is true because I was born on Adolf Hitler's birthday (April 20), but I have never considered myself to be involved in any unusual way with his actions. My birthday does not make me a Nazi.

Don't Put Blame On Humane Society

I read the letter in the I-J by Donald Corcoran on April 6, and I was disturbed to hear again that someone had put down the Humane Society without first getting the facts. Well, I know for a fact that the Humane Society's emergency line is answered by an answering service, not a Humane Society employee. The answering service could not possibly tell him about animals that were picked up that day. If you want that information the Humane Society I'm sure would be glad to help you during regular office hours.

In previous letters other people have put down the Humane Society for putting animals to sleep. I would like to know what you would do with about 1,500 animals coming in a month. It's not the fault of the Humane Society, it's you, the people who have a litter of puppies or kittens or who let unspayed animals run loose. I think it's high time Marinites wake up and do something about this terrible surplus of animals and not blame the Humane Society for their mistakes.

Receives Paper In Wheelchair

I have been reading with great interest the letters concerning the boys who deliver your newspapers. Certainly therefore I should write about Randy, the boy who brings mine.

I am unable to walk and confined to a wheelchair, so he has to bring the paper direct to me. I try to make it as easy as possible. My apartment is on the ground floor, and I am either at the door to take it from him, or leave the door open so he can put it inside. Nevertheless, it is extra work for him, and he is always courteous, smiling, and to my great joy, neatly dressed. So thank you Randy for bringing me the news.

LINES ON LIVING

We Must Dare To Fail Lest We Fail To Dare

By RABBI HAIM KEMELMAN

We do not always glow in success. Success is never a straight ladder reaching upward. The reality of human achievement is closer to Amos B. Alcott's truth: "We mount to heaven mostly on the ruins of our cherished schemes, finding our failures were successes."

A writer once catalogued Abraham Lincoln's reverses, and they were many. He ran for the legislature in Illinois and was badly swamped. He engaged in business, filed, and waited 17 years of his life to pay the debts of a worthless partner. He fell in love with a beautiful young lady to whom he became engaged, but she later died. He married a woman who was a constant drag and burden to him. Upon entering politics again, he was badly defeated for Congress. He failed to get an appointment to the U.S. Land Office. He failed dismally in his bid for the U.S. Senate. In 1856 he became a candidate for the vice presidency and was defeated. In 1858 he was defeated again by Douglas.

THE CROSSROADS of destiny and of man are mysterious. Were Lincoln to succeed in his business enterprise or in any other of the local offices that he pursued, would he not have lived a quiet successful life as a businessman or politician, coming at last to rest somewhere in a local cemetery, nameless to the world and unknown to generations? And would not the course of history of the United States and the world be far different today?

No one can tell for sure. One thing is certain. The star of Lincoln the man didn't shoot up straight in a glowing heaven. He never failed to dare even if it meant daring to fail. In his biblical eloquence he would have probably paraphrased Josh Billings' aphorism, agreeing with its contents that "it ain't no disgrace for a man to fail; but to lay there and grunt, is."

PERHAPS ONE of the follies of our time is the equation of convenience and ease with conscience and grace. Modern life has been made so relatively easy and comfortable for many of us that we are often tempted to avoid pain at all cost, detour suffering and by-pass grief. Well, if the day ever comes, when we fully succeed in our shortcutting, all human experience will become computerized and pilled to death, turning half-human and half-chemical formula.

Man must never die for lack of a pill but neither must he live to depend on it as a crutch. Human experience — joy as well as travail — intensive living, even tension, makes for extensive life.

Ingathering Of World Jewry At Heart Of Israel's Policies

JERUSALEM — With the intensity, the drive, the passion of a people who have suffered so much through the centuries, the Jews of Israel are working to weld together a nation that will last into the dateless future. To even the most casual visitor the fierce impact of this drive is like a blow between the eyes.

While survival comes first after three wars — 1948, '56, '67 — it's far more than survival. The goals for decades ahead are as soberly and carefully drawn as though the current conflict, the war of attrition pursued by Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser, were an irritant no more important than a brief spell of bad weather.

THE ARITHMETIC of the world's jewry, the ingathering of the Diaspora, is the base of the long-term goal. The specialist in this arithmetic is a cabinet minister with a unique title. Shimon Peres, one of the ablest men in the Israeli government, now is minister of absorption.

In Peres' arithmetic there are roughly 14 million Jews in the world today. Israel has gathered in 2½ million of this total. With a scattering in many countries, the balance is divided principally between the United States and the Soviet Union — about 6½ million in the former, 3½ million in the latter.

The bold planning of the minister of absorption envisages a population for Israel of 10 million.

BUT HOW CAN this be a country so small? Peres replied that the old Israel, prior to the territories taken from Egypt, Syria and Jordan in the six-day war of 1967, was about three-fourths the size of Belgium, which today supports a population of nearly 10 million.

The answer for Israel is high technology and industry based on that technology. "We will not make shirts," Peres says. "We will make airplanes and electronics products that will compete successfully in the markets of the world."

Israel today is producing a comparatively small transport plane adopted to the needs of developing countries and other more advanced aircraft are in various stages of production.

In 1970 the goal is to absorb 60,000 immigrants. The cost to the Israel government is $34,000 a family for transportation and housing. Add to this another $10,000 of capital investment to provide a job for the immigrant.

Most of that must come from outside Israel—from Jews and non-Jews who believe in Israel's future. By far the largest share is from the sale of Israeli bonds in the United States and from the United Jewish Appeal.

THE SOVIET UNION is refusing to let Jews emigrate to Israel and this has stirred a hostility almost as deep as that engendered by the Russian weapons put into Egyptian hands.

What if by some miracle Soviet policy should suddenly change and a million and a half Jews be permitted to depart for Israel? "We could absorb them," Peres says.

A record was set in 1949-50 when 250,000 Jews settled in the new nation that had just won its independence after the war of 1948. Another 150,000 followed in the next year and a half. The population tripled in 20 years.

Profound changes are already taking place, indicating the shift to advanced industry and technology. While citrus exports are still an important currency earner, only 9 per cent of the work force is today on the land in what was once largely an agricultural country.

IRS Deductions About Your Wife May Not Save You Tax Dollars

WASHINGTON—One of the paradoxes of the American tax system is that it's easier for a man to deduct a strange lady from a business trip than it is to deduct his own wife. The IRS authorities will believe that a strange lady could easily be of value to a businessman in the capacity of a secretary or what have you, but they're very skeptical that a wife could serve any useful function.

Not long ago, the Research Institute of America put out a helpful guide for husbands wanting to deduct their wives from business trips they took together.

HERE ARE SOME of the suggestions made. The examples are mine.

1—During a trip, keep a record of all the services your wife performed that could be described as necessary rather than merely helpful. One test: if your wife stayed home, would you have needed to bring someone else along?

Example: Mrs. Plumbell's justification; "My husband, George Plumbell, would never have made it without bringing me along. If I hadn't been in the room to receive the long distance call from Californian I wouldn't have been able to get George off the golf course, and he might have lost the Worthington Crushed Papaya account. George's friends and associates told me many times during the convention that if I hadn't come along he would have certainly brought somebody else with him."

2—If possible, show what business resulted from your wife having accompanied you, for "nothing succeeds like success."

Example: "If it hadn't been for my wife, Myra, I would never have been able to unload those faulty mussel valves on the Bureau of Off Limits Drilling. The purchasing agent was so busy pinching my wife under the table that he signed the order without reading the specifications. Myra was black and blue for a week."

3—Keep any letters from customers received before or after a business trip showing that your wife's presence was desire or appreciated.

Example: "Dear Archie: It was great seeing Priscilla at the knife sharpener's convention last week. She was really a sight for sore eyes and when she danced on the table, topless, at 3 o'clock in the morning, she made the convention. All the wives are still talking about it.

"I also wanted to tell you how much we enjoyed the snake dance she led through the Hilton Hotel in the early hours of the morning.

"Here is your share of the damage. We prorated it between Priscilla, Marge Bernheim and Hilda Marton who seemed to have the best time of all the women. I hope you'll bring Priscilla next year. People are already inquiring if she'll be there."

4—Photographs of your wife with customers or other business associates (and of course their wives) may be helpful, as well as shots of her at their factories or other places of business.

Example: "Dear Sir: Enclosed please find a selection of photos taken at our medical convention which I am enclosing with my tax return. The lady dealing the cards at our cabana in Nassau is my wife. The other three gin players are Mrs. Selma Rosenkrantz, wife of the vice president of the Do or Die Surgical Supply Co., Mrs. Frederick Piltdown, whose husband is president of the First National Blood Bank of Terre Haute, and Mrs. Jennifer Cook, wife of the executive director of Medicare Transplant Mutual Fund.

"The second photo is of my wife visiting the first aid room at the Paradise Island Gambling Casino and the third photo shows her swimming in the ocean with some of the leading neurosurgeons from all over the country."

These are only a few of the tips that are offered to justify your wife going with you on a business trip. If you find it too much bother, the best thing to do is leave your wife at home and take someone with you whom the internal revenue people trust.

DAILY Independent Journal Est. 1861
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

19 EDITORIAL PAGE San Rafael, Calif. Saturday, April 11, 1970

The Editor's Notebook

Warm Sun Turns Thoughts To Recreational Needs

The spell of summery weather turns one's thoughts to the out-of-doors.

Because Marin is mostly bounded by water—ocean, bay and river—thoughts of the out-of-doors lead directly to thoughts of water-oriented recreation.

"Water, water everywhere, but not a drop to drink," runs the ancient lament of the castaway.

In Marin it could rightly be parodied, "Water, water everywhere, but no a drop clean enough to enjoy."

THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT tells us that because of pollution, some areas of our shoreline are not safe for swimming, nor should we eat seafood taken from them.

Even in areas that are not posted by the health department, the odor or the appearance of the water gives its own health hazard warning.

In the decades since World War II, Marin has built many sewage treatment plants and the amount of untreated effluent flowing into the bay along our shores has declined. But there still remains a long way to go.

ASIDE FROM POLLUTION, there is the problem of public access.

After decades of talk, the county finally purchased McNear's Beach, insuring that his strip of bayshore recreational area will be open for public use and enjoyment in perpetuity.

Development is continuing on Paradise Park, which the county acquired as surplus from the old Tiburon Naval Net Depot. It's over-use on warm weather week ends demonstrates how inadequate it is.

As soon as facilities are ready, McNear's will suffer from over-use because it, too, is inadequate. The county must act to expand its holdings to include the China Camp area.

Likewise, Paradise Park should be expanded.

All-in-all, far too little of Marin's bay shore is available for public park use.

CONSERVATION-MINDED students of Petaluma High School have advocated establishment of a public park at Neal's Island, adjacent to the point where San Antonio Creek joins the Petaluma River. An adequate park site there would presumably require land in both Marin and Sonoma counties.

The young people's proposal deserves attention and support. It is sound. A public park along the shores of the Petaluma River will be a must in years to come.

THE VAST REACHES of ocean front which will be incorporated in the Point Reyes National Seashore when it is finally put together must not be allowed to lull us into thinking future needs are already provided for.

Take a look at Stinson Beach State Park on a sunny week end. It looks almost as crowded as Cony Island.

To relieve the pressure, the surplus military land on the Marin side of the Golden Gate must continue to be sought for parks use as it becomes available. The Marin Headlands park concept must be pressed. The beaches within the headlands are relatively small and scattered, but they will be desparately needed in time to come.

SOMETIMES IT SEEMS as if conservationists of yesteryear spent more time fighting FOR things than do their present day counterparts. Sometimes it seems today's conservationists are so busy fighting against some threatened development that they have no tie left for acquisition and development of much-needed additional recreation areas.

Sensitive Hands

A raccoon's hands are too similar to our own to be called something else. Paws or feet do not do justice to their usefulness. Raccoons use their hands to pick up food, catch frogs and crayfish, climb trees and hang onto their sleeping perch, among other things.

When they eat from a dish, they do not look at the food. Instead, they keep their heads up, eyes and ears alert for danger, and feel for the food and pick it up with their hands. We have read that in their natural hunting ground in the bed of shallow streams, raccoons follow the same procedure, using their sensitive hands to feel for and catch their meals.

Raccoons are some of the most nocturnal of Marin's mammals, seldom venturing out in the daylight. For such creatures, the development of a keen sense of touch to help them feel their way about in the dark is very important.

Smog Hurts Distant Trees

Ponderosa and Jeffery pine trees in San Bernardino National Forest are showing damage from smog generated in Los Angeles, 60 miles away.

About half the trees showed some damage, 15 per cent were severely damaged, and 3 per cent were killed by the smog.

It has been known the Los Angeles' smog was damaging trees for a long time, but the effects are much more widespread than previously thought.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to "Operation Car Pool," which will try Thursday to prove that by sensible sharing-the-ride, traffic congestion and air pollution can be reduced on the Marin-San Francisco route.

BRICKBATS to whoever is responsible for the upkeep of the federal property at Third and D streets, location of the Mission Branch of the San Rafael Post Office. It is quite awhile since the building was remodeled; when are the grounds to be landscaped and made attractive?

BOUQUET to the Marin Mental Health Foundation — now recruiting for memberships — for its consistent efforts on behalf of the mentally disturbed of all ages in Marin.

Daniel D. Phillips of the First Baptist Church of Petaluma has been named Northern California's outstanding Baptist layman for 1969.

The award was made at the 42nd annual meeting of the California Association of Regular Baptist Churches at El Monte. The presentation was made by Rev. Kenneth Ohrstrom, pastor of the Petaluma church.

Ohrstrom said Phillips had shown interest in home missions since the 1930s and since 1942 had been associated with various boards such as the Fellowship of Baptists for Home Missions.

In the 1930s and 1940s, he traveled the country attending board meetings and helping to supervise the activities of more than 300 home missionaries.

Phillips has long been active in the First Baptist Church congregation and has been elected an honorary life deacon. He and his wife, Mary, live at 47 La Cresta Drive, Petaluma.

Drop In Number Of Presbyterians

ATLANTA (UPI)—The number of Presbyterians and the number of Presbyterian churches in the United States declined during 1969 for the first time in more than 100 years, church spokesmen said this week.

The church clerk's office said there were 34 fewer churches at the end of 1969 than there were a year earlier, and there had been a net loss of 4,256 communicants.

"This is the first year in our memory when the Presbyterian Church, U.S., has failed to show some gain in membership," said Dr. J. Sherrard Rice, Secretary of Christian witness of the Board of National Ministries.

Rice attributed the decline in churches to mergers made over the past year. He said that in the southern area only the synods of Florida, Georgia and South Carolina gained in members.

Rice said a decline in members had been predicted, but he added the figures still come "as a shock."

Church figures showed the decline to be the first for the church since its origin in 1861.

Keys To St. Peter's For Commercial Film

LONDON (UPI)—The Bible says ask and ye shall recieve. Stanley Abrams asked for and got the keys to St. Peter's.

The Vatican had never allowed a commercial movie maker inside St. Peter's Basilica to film its history, based solely on fact.

Before Stanley Abrams came along, nobody had asked.

Abrams is the producer of "Upon this Rock", a 90-minute feature length color movie filmed almost entirely inside Roman Catholicism's most famous church.

With Pope Paul VI's direct permission, actors were allowed to use St. Peter's in a professional capacity for the first time. Never before had a feature length film been made inside the Basilica.

"The Vatican asked only that the script stick to the truth—to historical fact," Abrams said in London during a private screening of the film. "The whole thing, from beginning to end, is fact."

It took 40 days and 40 nights of filming to recount the construction and the glory of St. Peter's through the words of history and the eyes of men and women who shared its fame.

Orson Welles plays Michelangelo, Dame Edith Evans is Queen Christina of Sweden, Dirk Bogarde is Bonnie Prince Charlie and Sir Ralph Richardson stars as narrator and King James III.

"Strangely enough, the Vatican told me it was the first time anybody had asked to do a feature film with actors on the true history of St. Peter's," Abrams said.

The New York-born producer said Pope Paul's only request was that the film show the Basilica "as a living church, not just a tourist attraction. The film includes five minutes of the pontiff's 1969 Christmas Mass.

Shooting outdoor scenes during the day and working inside the Basilica from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. so as not to disturb daytime routine, the "Upon This Rock" crew took 75,000 feet of color film—enough for 12 hours of viewing.

Abrams submitted the script, authored by Emmy-winning writer Harry Rasky, and the names of the cast to the Pontifical Commission for Social Communications last August. Approval was given two months later with two conditions.

—The film will be translated into all the world's significant languages.

—It will be made available in 16mm form as well as the contemporary 35mm version so countries with less modern projection systems can screen it.

Even the Russians have asked for a copy, Abrams said.

Abrams was inspired to film the history of St. Peter's after reading several architectural books on the engineering feats involved in its construction.

Circuit Session Is Under Way

Terry West of San Rafael was one of the guest speakers last night at the opening of the semi-annual circuit assembly of the Jehovah's Witnesses in Richmond. The session concludes tomorrow.

Editor Makes Church History A 'Hep' Affair

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

Assign a newspaper editor to teach a Sunday School class in church history, and what do you get?

If the editor is David Stolberg, you get a catchy collection of tabloid headlines which make great events of Christian history sound remarkably contemporary.

Stolberg is managing editor of the Washington Daily News. But his experiment in teaching church history through breezy headlines originated in Denver, Colo., while he was an editor of the Rocky Mountain News.

His class consisted of 25 high school students, and they approached the subject of church history with an unwavering conviction that it would be deadly dull.

"I figured I had to find some way to make history hep," Stolberg explains.

He enlisted the help of his newspaper colleagues, including regular headline writers and print shop workers. They collaborated enthusiastically in producing one hand-set headline each week, to be superimposed on the regular front page of the Rocky Mountain News. The circulation of this "special edition" was limited to members of Stolberg's class at St. Michael's Episcopal Church in Denver.

Each headline followed the newspaper's customary front-page format —an overline in small type, followed by two lines of very large capital letters.

The first one dealt with the "birthday of the church" —the day of pentecost on which the apostles of Christ were filled with the Holy Spirit. It read:

50 Days After Cross Incident
12 APOSTLES HIT BY FIRE TALK IN FOREIGN TONGUES

A classroom discussion of the persecution of Christians in Nero's Rome was enlivened by a headline with a strikingly contemporary sound:

Jailed and Tortured
CHRISTIANS DEFY GOVT., REFUSE LOYALTY PLEDGE

Another headline sounds as though it might have been published at the time of the recent Vatican Council:

GERMAN LIBERALS SEEK COMMON LANGUAGE MASS

It actually introduced a discussion of the Council of Trent in the mid-16th Century.

A certain sauciness is expected of a good tabloid headline, and Stolberg's treatment of Martin Luther's break with the Catholic Church meets the requirement:

MONK LUTHER DEFIES ROME'S HEAVEN SALES

The English counter-reformation is succinctly reported:

BLOODY MARY BURNS ARCHBISHOP CRANMER

Some of the headlines are obviously just for fun. For example, when Oliver Cromwell, the dour dictotor of puritan England, forbade the celebration of what he called a j"popish holiday," the headline shrieked:

SCROOGE CROMWELL OUTLAWS CHRISTMAS

My personal favorite deals with the first bishop of America's Episcopal Church Samuel Seabury, who got tired of waiting for English bishops to consecrate him and went to Scotland, where he found a warmer response. The headline went:

THE ENGLISH MAKE SAM PANT TOO LONG

The idea isn't copyrighted, Stolberg says, and any Sunday School teacher who wants to borrow it has his blessing.

IN STAID OLD ENGLAND

Church's Anti-Gaiter Brigade Is Winning

By PETER J. SHAW

LONDON (UPI)—It was once fashionable to pooh-pooh a long winded Anglican Bishop as "just all gas and gaiters."

The gas lingers but the gaiters are going.

Church of England traditional dress for bishops, deans and archdeacons calls for the wearing of gaiters: a black cloth leg covering, buttoned up the side, that reaches from the instep to the knee.

Gaiters are fast disappearing from clerical calves since Dr. Michael Ramsey became Archbishop of Canterbury in 1961. Even he wears gaiters only on formal and ceremonial occasions.

This quiet erosion of tradition has set Britons to writing the editor of the Times. It has yet to attain the status of national catastrophe but it is competing heavily for space with the sighting of 1970's first cuckoo.

Gaiters were considered mandatory when, before 1961, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher was Archbishop of Canterbury.

Dr. Fisher, a former school headmaster and strict traditionalist, once rebuked for "improper dress" -bishop who deigned not to don his gaiters in the 1950s.

"Naughty man!" Dr. Fisher told the offending bishop, who nonetheless went on to become the present Archbishop of Wales.

Gaiters have been shunned by all but a handful of Anglican dignitaries on grounds they are old fashioned, uncomfortable and unfair to those not blessed with handsome calves.

Informality has been the hallmark of Dr. Ramsey's reign.

A spokesman for the Church House, Anglican headquarters in London, could recall only three churchmen who still wear gaiters regularly: The Bishop of Leicester, the Dean of Gloucester and the Archdeacon of Oxford.

The latter, Carlye Witton-Davies, touched off the letter flow when he wore his knee breeches and gaiters last month to a consecration in Westminister Abbey. A Times reporter, ever alert, noted he stood out like a sore gaiter among his long trousered fellows.

"I was very glad to be wearing them, too," the Archdeacon replied. "It's a bit draughty in Westminister Abbey. I haven't much sympathy with what I call the antigaiter brigade. What's wrong with wearing traditional dress, at least on ceremonial occasions?"

Plenty, according to some subsequent letters. "You record that the Archdeacon of Oxford attended Westminister Abbey in breeches and gaiters," the Vicar of St. Helen's parish in Lancashire wrote. "You did not say if he tied his horse to a parking meter outside."

Inquired a curious member of the Reform Club:

"What of the rural deans? There used to be a rumor they were entitled to wear gaiters on just one leg."

(Said the Church House spokesman: "That's a new one on me.")

The present Archbishop of Wales, Glyn Cambrensis, weighed in with:

"I suppose in a way the disappearance of gaiters symbolizes a social change in the history of the Church in Britain..."

The Archbishop recalled his 1950s tiff with Dr. Fisher, saying that he explained to his leader: "I have the support of the Bishop of Birmingham!"

To which Dr. Fisher had replied:

"But he's always a rebel."

The 'Devil' To Get His Due In England

LONDON, London Express — A survey into people who seem to be "possessed by demons" is to be carried out by the Institute of Religion and Medicine.

The institute is one of the leading forums for the discussion of topics related to medicine and religion whose past presidents include Sir Arthur Porrit. the present governor general of New Zealand.

The institute is appealing to doctors to send in reports if they have had personal experience of someone who was apparently possessed by a demon or who was "cured" by exorcism.

A spokesman for the institute said: "When the idea was first suggested we thought there wasn't much in it, but a lot of our doctor members said they had come across this sort of thing when they were abroad.

"We would be interested to hear from psychiatrists who have expierience of someone who seemed to be evil rather than ill.

"Some people who work in hospitals say they have met this sort of thing, though others dismiss it as nonsense."

The institute which has 1,200 members, 500 of them doctors, hopes to have collected the information ins ix months and a report will then be compiled with the help of the Bishop of Durham.

GUEST SPEAKER—Dr. G. W. Anderson, member of the University of Edinburgh Divinity School faculty, will be guest speaker Friday at a 9:30 a.m. convocation at Broadus Chapel on the Golden Gate Theological Seminary campus at Strawberry. He will speak on "The Concept of the People of God in the Old Testament."

Guest Artist Will Sing At Service

MARIN TARS WIN BATTLE, LOSE WAR

Old Sourpuss Smiles At Masters

By HUBERT MIZELL

AUGUSTA, GA. (AP) — Bert Yancey, an admitted "sourpuss" who busted out of West Point because of nerves, now wants to be known as the nice guy who won the Masters.

"I'm capable of two more good rounds," Yancey said Friday. "Somebody else had better shoot better to beat me, because I don't think I'll turn in any bad rounds."

A confident-talking, grinning Yancey shot a steady 70 to match mild-mannered veteran Gene Littler at five-under par 139 at the halfway stop in the 34th Masters golf tournament at Augusta National Club.

Contenders popped up from California, South Africa and even Japan, but Yancey withstood the pressure on a course "I dearly love to play."

Billy Casper stormed in with 68 to trail by a stroke at 140. The Bonita, Calif., star was locked with young Bob Lunn of Sacramento, Calif., who had a second round 70.

Gary Player, the muscular South African who is trying to allow talk of threats on his life fade away, used sensational iron play to shoot 68 and bulleted into contention at 142, three behind the Yancey-Littler tandem.

Takaaki Kono of Yokahoma blazed in with 68 for 143.

And then there's Tommy Aaron—the man who died and was reborn.

Aaron, the first-day leader at 68, collapsed early with two bogeys and a double bogey. The slim Georgian fought back, however, to par the next five holes and shot a sharp 34 on the back nine to stand alongside Player at 142.

Yancey has been a major tournament frontrunner before, but he has yet to win. The Tallahassee, Fla., product blew a four-shot lead on the final day of the 1968 U.S. Open at Rochester, N.Y., when Lee Trevino zipped past him to instant stardom.

The blond, who finished his collegiate career at Florida State after a nervous breakdown as a military academy cadet, was the No. 1 man for three days in the 1967 Masters. He finished third, four strokes behind Gay Brewer when outshot 67-73 on Sunday.

In addition to his ideas of winning this time, Yancey would enjoy ridding himself of habits that earned the nickname "The Fog." A few people—Yancey calls them "semi-friends"—claimed he was dense and distant.

"I admit it, I was a sourpuss," he said. "My agent got me out of it. He told me to throw away that damn sun visor and smile a lot."

Yancey grinned as he rammed in consecutive birdie putts on 11, 12 and 13 to rocket into the lead Friday. The three holes "around the bend" are considered the toughest stretch on the rolling, 7,000-yard layout.

While leaders said greens were softer and putted better Friday, the major reason for high scores was still an inability of approach shots to die near the cups. Some, like Arnold Palmer and Player, said the fairway grass was high and rugged to contend with and little said the fairway grass was high and rugged to contend with and little Japanese Kono said the greens were the fastest he has seen in his life.

Dave Hill, last year's No. 2 money winner, slipped quietly into contention with a 70 for a one-under 143 total. He is tied with Kono, who has 75-68. It was the 5-foot-6, 144-pound Kono who made history's only eagle on the 345-yard 17th hole, holing out his approach iron in his Masters debut last April.

Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City, a 46-year-old former U.S. Amateur champion who threatened three times to win the Masters in the 1950s, fired a 71 for a 145, low among the nonpros. Current U.S. Amateur king Steve Melnyk of Jacksonville, Fla., had 76 for 149. The only other amateur to survive the 36-hole cut was Vinnie Giles of Richmond, Va., with 78-72--150.

Baseball's Classic Under-The-Rug Sweep

To some of us, the commissioner of all baseball had two choices — he had either to suspend Denny McLain for life; or legalize gambling.

His decision is one of the classic under-the-rug sweeps of history. Even for baseball, it is a monumental equivocation, in fact, even for Alice in Wonderland. The verdict first, the trial afterward.

The times call for compassion, he had said. The times apparently call for carte blanche. Denny McLain got the kind of "punishment" you would expect for a curfew violation.

It's not that I think the punishment is too lenient. It think it's too severe. Clearly, the commissioner of all baseball does not consider buying into a bookmaking establishment any more serious than missing the bunt sign. I had an uncle who went to jail for it once, but in baseball, it's apparently considered a legitimate outside activity — like posting for deodorant ads.

Lawyer Finds For Defendant

I think this is what comes of putting a lawyer in as czar of baseball. Naturally, a good lawyer is never going to find for the plaintiff, or the state, or the government. He's going to find tor the defendant.

Under the adversary system of law, society is armed only with a set of codes it cannot understand, ambiguous at best, incoherent at worst. Compound this with a crafty counselor who holds that under no circumstances should an individual be held accountable for his own actions, that the blame should be shifted to the guy who left his key in the car, to society, to chromosomes, or to the atomic bomb, and you can see that, to the legal mind, what Denny McLain did or did NOT do was, at most, trifling. The commissioner must really be irritated at Denny that he did not do something really serious so that the commissioner could really show his magnanimity.

Forgiveness May Succeed

Retribution is in disfavor anyway with social scientists. They point out that it has not wiped out crime in 5,000 years, and it may be forgiveness will succeed where punishment didn't.

They have a point there. Retribution has never deterred the 2 per cent of the population who turn to crime. Of course, what we do NOT know is, how many of the remaining 98 per cent would have joined them had they not feared retribution?

But, with the word "felony" fading out of the lexicography, baseball may have to substitute a statute titled "misdemeanor throwing-of-games" and note that it is punishable by being sent to your room or being forced to pick up the locker room towels for a week.

I find it interesting that Denny McLain's team-

Tam Tops Swim League

Tamalpais High School swimming team swept past San Rafael, 66 - 29 yesterday to take over sole possession of first place in the Marin County Athletic league standings. The Indians, led by double winners Tom Anderson and Lowry McFerrin, had no trouble in running their league record to eight wins against one loss.

Terra linda, which had shared top spot with Tam, was upset by Redwood, 51 - 44, falling into a second place tie with the Novato Hornets, who demolished Marin Catholic, 72 - 20. Both teams are now 7 and 2 won-lost.

It was not all gloom for Terra Linda as its freshman phenom Rick Demont swam the fastest 400-yeard freestyle in the school's history and third fastest ever in the county with a time of 4:08. Redwood's Paul Cane was the only double winner of the meet, winning the 200 individual medley and the 100 breast.

Novato's Steve Cermak and Roger Rechsteiner posted double wins for the Hornets, who won every event except the 200 free and the 100 fly. Marin Catholic's Clint McDuffie took first in those.

In the day's other meet, Drake beat San Marin, 55 - 39.

PREP BASEBALL

Redwood Wins On Piro Homer

Jerry Piro's home run with Roger Smith aboard in the bottom of the sixth inning gave Redwood High School a 6 - 5 victory over Terra Linda yesterday in a Marin County Athletic League baseball game at Albert Park, San Rafael.

Smith, who had doubled to the base of the left field fence with two out, pitched the entire game for the Giants, striking out 12 batters.

Redwood, now 2 and 0, won-lost shares the first week lead in the MCAL with the San Marin Mustangs of Novato, who scored an unearned run in the last inning to defeat Marin Catholic, 9 - 8, at Kentfield.

San Marin's Dennis Bueler, who came in to relieve pitcher Wade Gomes in the sixth and got credit for the victory, walked to open the seventh and went to second on Marty Larsen's bunt single. Then Ken Gnoss, who went three for four and has six hits in two games, rapped a ground ball that was thrown away, allowing Bueler to score.

HOT HITTER

Hot-hitting catcher Jack Burnam got two hits and two runs batted in for the Mustangs. Gnoss, whose two RBI gave him eight in two games, was on base five times.

Marin Catholic catcher Rick Fox belted a two-run homer in the first.

Tamalpais' Paul Kime, a third baseman-turned-pitcher, celebrated his 18th birthday by pitching a shutout and hitting a grand slam homer to lead the Indians to a 10 to 0 win over hapless San Rafael.

Kime, making only his second start as a pitcher, limited the Bulldogs to two singles in dealing them their second straight shutout. In addition to his homer, he stroked a double, and collected five RBI.

The Indians gave him tremendous support, turning in three double plays.

Suyderhoud Ski Show Tomorrow

In conjunction of the opening of the sales office at the Bahia Subdivision in Novato, San Anselmo's Mike Suyderhoud, world champion water skier, will give a free demonstration of his talents tomorrow at 1:30 p.m.

Suyderhoud will be performing with the Water Skiers of Marin at Bahia Harbor, in trick and barefoot skiing and ski jumping, in which he holds the world record, 162 feet.

Ron Goodrich of San Rafael will do some kite flying and bare foot skiing, while Sharon Boivie of Novato will do a water ballet.

Bahia Harbor can be reached by taking Hightwy 101 to Novato, turning on Atherton Avenue, left on Bugia Lane, to the harbor.

Angry Ron Hunt On A Rampage

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Veteran infielder Ron Hunt is miffed because he's not in the starting lineup, but the San Francisco Giants can be thankful he's taking his anger out on the opposition.

For the third straight game, Hunt connected as a pinch-batter Friday night, doubling and scoring the winning run on Bobby Bonds' eighth-inning single for a 4-3 victory over the previously unbeaten Cincinnati Reds.

The Giants, now 3-1, sent Gaylord Perry, 0-1, against Jim Merritt, 1-0, in a nationally televised game today. The series concludes Sunday with a "600 Day" doubleheader, honoring Willie Mays and his 600 major league home runs.

"I like the Giants' organization and I'm happy to be contributing," says Hunt, "but if I don't play now, I probably never will."

Manager Clyde King becomes ruffled at the daily questioning concerning Hunt's status, saying: "Ron is doing a great job—he's making a big contribution and we're winning."

Wednesday night, Hunt singled and scored the winning run in the eighth inning in a 5-4 victory over Houston. Thursday, his single triggered a five-run eighth in a 7-4 triumph over the Astros.

Hunt's second base job presently is the property of Tito Fuentes, who is one-for-15 as a batter, but has been flawless afield, including a part in two double plays Friday night.

Singles by rookies Bernie Carbo and Dave Concepcion, starter Ray Washburn's sacrifice fly and Bob Tolan's run-scoring double gave the Reds a 2-0 lead in the second.

Ken Henderson's single, Dick Dietz' double and Fuentes' run-scoring grounder made it 2-1 in the bottom of the second and the Giants went ahead in the fifth on Henderson's two-out, two-run single.

The Reds, who placed their first batter on base in seven straight innings, chased Robertson in the eighth on Pete Rose's single and Carbo's two-out, 410-foot triple for the tie.

Reliever Frank Linzy, 1-0, retired four of the last five batters for the victory after the Giants scored the go-ahead run off reliever Wayne Granger, 0-1, in the bottom of the eighth.

Old Sourpuss Smiles At Masters

By HUBERT MIZELL

AUGUSTA, GA. (AP) — Bert Yancey, an admitted "sourpuss" who busted out of West Point because of nerves, now wants to be known as the nice guy who won the Masters.

"I'm capable of two more good rounds," Yancey said Friday. "Somebody else had better shoot better to beat me, because I don't think I'll turn in any bad rounds."

A confident-talking, grinning Yancey shot a steady 70 to match mild-mannered veteran Gene Littler at five-under par 139 at the halfway stop in the 34th Masters golf tournament at Augusta National Club.

Contenders popped up from California, South Africa and even Japan, but Yancey withstood the pressure on a course "I dearly love to play."

Billy Casper stormed in with 68 to trail by a stroke at 140. The Bonita, Calif., star was locked with young Bob Lunn of Sacramento, Calif., who had a second round 70.

Gary Player, the muscular South African who is trying to allow talk of threats on his life fade away, used sensational iron play to shoot 68 and bulleted into contention at 142, three behind the Yancey-Littler tandem.

Takaaki Kono of Yokahoma blazed in with 68 for 143.

And then there's Tommy Aaron—the man who died and was reborn.

Aaron, the first-day leader at 68, collapsed early with two bogeys and a double bogey. The slim Georgian fought back, however, to par the next five holes and shot a sharp 34 on the back nine to stand alongside Player at 142.

Yancey has been a major tournament frontrunner before, but he has yet to win. The Tallahassee, Fla., product blew a four-shot lead on the final day of the 1968 U.S. Open at Rochester, N.Y., when Lee Trevino zipped past him to instant stardom.

The blond, who finished his collegiate career at Florida State after a nervous breakdown as a military academy cadet, was the No. 1 man for three days in the 1967 Masters. He finished third, four strokes behind Gay Brewer when outshot 67-73 on Sunday.

In addition to his ideas of winning this time, Yancey would enjoy ridding himself of habits that earned the nickname "The Fog." A few people—Yancey calls them "semi-friends"—claimed he was dense and distant.

"I admit it, I was a sourpuss," he said. "My agent got me out of it. He told me to throw away that damn sun visor and smile a lot."

Yancey grinned as he rammed in consecutive birdie putts on 11, 12 and 13 to rocket into the lead Friday. The three holes "around the bend" are considered the toughest stretch on the rolling, 7,000-yard layout.

While leaders said greens were softer and putted better Friday, the major reason for high scores was still an inability of approach shots to die near the cups. Some, like Arnold Palmer and Player, said the fairway grass was high and rugged to contend with and little said the fairway grass was high and rugged to contend with and little Japanese Kono said the greens were the fastest he has seen in his life.

Dave Hill, last year's No. 2 money winner, slipped quietly into contention with a 70 for a one-under 143 total. He is tied with Kono, who has 75-68. It was the 5-foot-6, 144-pound Kono who made history's only eagle on the 345-yard 17th hole, holing out his approach iron in his Masters debut last April.

Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City, a 46-year-old former U.S. Amateur champion who threatened three times to win the Masters in the 1950s, fired a 71 for a 145, low among the nonpros. Current U.S. Amateur king Steve Melnyk of Jacksonville, Fla., had 76 for 149. The only other amateur to survive the 36-hole cut was Vinnie Giles of Richmond, Va., with 78-72--150.

Baseball's Classic

Under-The-Rug Sweep

To some of us, the commissioner of all baseball had two choices — he had either to suspend Denny McLain for life; or legalize gambling.

His decision is one of the classic under-the-rug sweeps of history. Even for baseball, it is a monumental equivocation, in fact, even for Alice in Wonderland. The verdict first, the trial afterward.

The times call for compassion, he had said. The times apparently call for carte blanche. Denny McLain got the kind of "punishment" you would expect for a curfew violation.

It's not that I think the punishment is too lenient. It think it's too severe. Clearly, the commissioner of all baseball does not consider buying into a bookmaking establishment any more serious than missing the bunt sign. I had an uncle who went to jail for it once, but in baseball, it's apparently considered a legitimate outside activity — like posting for deodorant ads.

Lawyer Finds For Defendant

I think this is what comes of putting a lawyer in as czar of baseball. Naturally, a good lawyer is never going to find for the plaintiff, or the state, or the government. He's going to find for the defendant.

Under the adversary system of law, society is armed only with a set of codes it cannot understand, ambiguous at best, incoherent at worst. Compound this with a crafty counselor who holds that under no circumstances should an individual be held accountable for his own actions, that the blame should be shifted to the guy who left his key in the car, to society, to chromosomes, or to the atomic bomb, and you can see that, to the legal mind, what Denny McLain did or did NOT do was, at most, trifling. The commissioner must really be irritated at Denny that he did not do something really serious so that the commissioner could really show his magnanimity.

Forgiveness May Succeed

Retribution is in disfavor anyway with social scientists. They point out that it has not wiped out crime in 5,000 years, and it may be forgiveness will succeed where punishment didn't.

They have a point there. Retribution has never deterred the 2 per cent of the population who turn to crime. Of course, what we do NOT know is, how many of the remaining 98 per cent would have joined them had they not feared retribution?

But, with the word "felony" fading out of the lexicography, baseball may have to substitute a statute titled "misdemeanor throwing-of-games" and note that it is punishable by being sent to your room or being forced to pick up the locker room towels for a week.

I find it interesting that Denny McLain's team-

Tam Tops Swim League

Tamalpais High School swimming team swept past San Rafael, 66 - 29 yesterday to take over sole possession of first place in the Marin County Athletic league standings. The Indians, led by double winners Tom Anderson and Lowry McFerrin, had no trouble in running their league record to eight wins against one loss.

Terra linda, which had shared top spot with Tam, was upset by Redwood, 51 - 44, falling into a second place tie with the Novato Hornets, who demolished Marin Catholic, 72 - 20. Both teams are now 7 and 2 won-lost.

It was not all gloom for Terra Linda as its freshman phenom Rick Demont swam the fastest 400-yeard freestyle in the school's history and third fastest ever in the county with a time of 4:08. Redwood's Paul Cane was the only double winner of the meet, winning the 200 individual medley and the 100 breast.

Novato's Steve Cermak and Roger Rechsteiner posted double wins for the Hornets, who won every event except the 200 free and the 100 fly. Marin Catholic's Clint McDuffie took first in those.

In the day's other meet, Drake beat San Marin, 55 - 39.

PREP BASEBALL

Redwood Wins On Piro Homer

Jerry Piro's home run with Roger Smith aboard in the bottom of the sixth inning gave Redwood High School a 6 - 5 victory over Terra Linda yesterday in a Marin County Athletic League baseball game at Albert Park, San Rafael.

Smith, who had doubled to the base of the left field fence with two out, pitched the entire game for the Giants, striking out 12 batters.

Redwood, now 2 and 0, won-lost shares the first week lead in the MCAL with the San Marin Mustangs of Novato, who scored an unearned run in the last inning to defeat Marin Catholic, 9 - 8, at Kentfield.

San Marin's Dennis Bueler, who came in to relieve pitcher Wade Gomes in the sixth and got credit for the victory, walked to open the seventh and went to second on Marty Larsen's bunt single. Then Ken Gnoss, who went three for four and has six hits in two games, rapped a ground ball that was thrown away, allowing Bueler to score.

HOT HITTER

Hot-hitting catcher Jack Burnam got two hits and two runs batted in for the Mustangs. Gnoss, whose two RBI gave him eight in two games, was on base five times.

Marin Catholic catcher Rick Fox belted a two-run homer in the first.

Tamalpais' Paul Kime, a third baseman-turned-pitcher, celebrated his 18th birthday by pitching a shutout and hitting a grand slam homer to lead the Indians to a 10 to 0 win over hapless San Rafael.

Kime, making only his second start as a pitcher, limited the Bulldogs to two singles in dealing them their second straight shutout. In addition to his homer, he stroked a double, and collected five RBI.

The Indians gave him tremendous support, turning in three double plays.

Suyderhoud Ski Show Tomorrow

In conjunction of the opening of the sales office at the Bahia Subdivision in Novato, San Anselmo's Mike Suyderhoud, world champion water skier, will give a free demonstration of his talents tomorrow at 1:30 p.m.

Suyderhoud will be performing with the Water Skiers of Marin at Bahia Harbor, in trick and barefoot skiing and ski jumping, in which he holds the world record, 162 feet.

Ron Goodrich of San Rafael will do some kite flying and bare foot skiing, while Sharon Boivie of Novato will do a water ballet.

Bahia Harbor can be reached by taking Hightwy 101 to Novato, turning on Atherton Avenue, left on Bugia Lane, to the harbor.

Angry Ron Hunt On A Rampage

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Veteran infielder Ron Hunt is miffed because he's not in the starting lineup, but the San Francisco Giants can be thankful he's taking his anger out on the opposition.

For the third straight game, Hunt connected as a pinch-batter Friday night, doubling and scoring the winning run on Bobby Bonds' eighth-inning single for a 4-3 victory over the previously unbeaten Cincinnati Reds.

The Giants, now 3-1, sent Gaylord Perry, 0-1, against Jim Merritt, 1-0, in a nationally televised game today. The series concludes Sunday with a "600 Day" doubleheader, honoring Willie Mays and his 600 major league home runs.

"I like the Giants' organization and I'm happy to be contributing," says Hunt, "but if I don't play now, I probably never will."

Manager Clyde King becomes ruffled at the daily questioning concerning Hunt's status, saying: "Ron is doing a great job—he's making a big contribution and we're winning."

Wednesday night, Hunt singled and scored the winning run in the eighth inning in a 5-4 victory over Houston. Thursday, his single triggered a five-run eighth in a 7-4 triumph over the Astros.

Hunt's second base job presently is the property of Tito Fuentes, who is one-for-15 as a batter, but has been flawless afield, including a part in two double plays Friday night.

Singles by rookies Bernie Carbo and Dave Concepcion, starter Ray Washburn's sacrifice fly and Bob Tolan's run-scoring double gave the Reds a 2-0 lead in the second.

Ken Henderson's single, Dick Dietz' double and Fuentes' run-scoring grounder made it 2-1 in the bottom of the second and the Giants went ahead in the fifth on Henderson's two-out, two-run single.

The Reds, who placed their first batter on base in seven straight innings, chased Robertson in the eighth on Pete Rose's single and Carbo's two-out, 410-foot triple for the tie.

Reliever Frank Linzy, 1-0, retired four of the last five batters for the victory after the Giants scored the go-ahead run off reliever Wayne Granger, 0-1, in the bottom of the eighth.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Orbiting Aaron, Braves Spoil Houston Opener

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Astronaut Robert F. Overmyer now trails Hammerin' Hank Aaron by a mere 555 in the matter of sending baseballs into orbit.

The Houston Astros didn't want to be like the 23 other major league teams and have an earthling throw out the first ball, so they cooked up something special for their home opener Friday night.

Overmyer pressed a button that fired a small model rocket, which shot a baseball 180 feet into the air. Then a small parachute opened and lowered the ball to the playing field. Overmyer pinch hit for moonwalker Neal Armstrong, who was called to Cape Kennedy for the Apollo 13 flight preparations.

Unfortunately for the Astros, Atlanta's Aaron batted for himself with the bases loaded in the third inning and slammed a Tom Griffin pitch into the left field seats for his 556th career homer and 13th grand slam. Gil Hodges is the all-time National League leader with 14 grand slams.

That launched the Braves to a 5-0 victory as lefty George Stone hurled a six-hitter.

Elsewhere in the N.L. St. Louis beat Hodges' New York Mets 7-3, the Chicago Cubs nipped Montreal 2-1, Philadelphia blanked Pittsburgh 2-0, San Diego trounced Los Angeles 7-2 and San Francisco edged Cincinnati 4-3.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

In the American League, it was California 11, Kansas City 7; Boston 4, Washington 1; the Chicago White Sox 5, Milwaukee 4; Baltimore 3, Detroit 2 in 10 innings.

Aaron's four RBI boosted his career total to 1,732, pulling him even with Honus Wagner for the ninth spot on the all-time list. He also took over 10th place in career hits with 2,963, passing Sam Crawford.

The Cardinals thrilled a record St. Louis opening game crowd of 47,568 by scoring all seven runs on six hits in the third inning and coasting past the Mets.

Singles by Lou Brock and Jose Cardenal and a walk to Richie Allen set things up and Joe Torre doubled the first two runs across. Leron Lee's bloop double made it 3-0 and the Cards continued their assault after Ray Sadecki replaced starter Jim McAndrew.

MISPLAYS FLY

Dal Maxvill hit a sacrifice fly, winning pitcher George Culver got a two-run triple when center fielder Tommie Agee misplayed his fly ball and Cardenal singled home the final run.

San Diego's triumph over the winless Dodgers was highlighted by Nate Colbert's two-run homer in a four-run first inning and the relief pitching of Dave Roberts, who retired the first 17 batters he faced.

The Padres jumped off quickly on Tommy Dean's single and Van Kelly's run-scoring double. Kelly came around on a passed ball and a wild pitch and Al Ferrara singled before Colbert drove a towering homer into the center field seats beyond the 400-foot sign.

DOUBLE PLAY

Roberts relieved Mike Corkins with a 5-2 lead and the bases loaded in the second and nailed Willie Davis on an inning-ending double play grounder. He retired everyone else until he walked Maury Wills with one out in the eighth and Davis singled for the only hit off Roberts. But Willie Crawford hit into a double play and Roberts set the Dodgers down in order in the ninth.

The Cubs were one out away from their third consecutive defeat when Ron Santo singled and Johnny Callison unloaded a two-run homer, ruining a fine performance by Montreal's Joe Sparma, who allowed only three hits over the first eight innings. It was the fourth straight setback for the winless Expos.

Woody Fryman held Pittsburgh hitless for 7 1-3 innings and finished with a four-hitter as the unbeaten Phillies rode Deron Johnson's two-run homer to their third straight win. Johnson connected in the fourth inning off Bob Veale, who allowed only three hits in seven innings.

Al Oliver's single to deep short spoiled Fryman's hitless skein and Bob Robertson followed with a solid single. The Pirates got two more hits in the ninth.

San Rafael, Tam Trackmen Waltz

Undefeated San Rafael and Tamalpais High Schools yesterday continued to roll over weeker opponents on their way to a dual meet show down April 24 that will probably decide the 1970 Marin County Athletic League track and field champion.

San Rafael was awesome in a 101½ - 25½ whitewash of Novato, while Tam held off Terra Linda, 74-53.

Bob Peterson was a triple winner for San Rafael, taking the 100 and 220 yard dashes and the long jump.

Tam had three double winners, Glenn Shockley, Bill Baker and Mike Arago, who erased his own school record in the two Mile with a time of 9:46.6.

San Marin had an easy day of it in winning over Drake, 74 - 49, and Redwood romped over Marin Catholic, 92-33 in the day's other meets.

Sprinter Rich Tierney won the 100 and 220 for Drake, while Redwood had two double winners, Tom Estudillo and Pat Dorinson.

Joe Clark of the Redwood B's was a triple winner, taking honors in both hurdles events and the long jump.

mates are as shocked by the pusillanimity of Denny's wrist slap as the Watch & Ward Society. Presumably, a couple of them have had occasion to throw a character in a pinstripe suit out the door a few times for waving a fistful of bills under their noses and suggesting they drop a few fly balls or walk a few guys with the bases loaded.

Concerned About The Neighbors

Maybe a jury of his peers would be less lenient with a suspected player than a man who is more concerned that the neighbors find out than he is with the mischief itself.

I think some system of getting at the facts, and laying them before the public, would be better than the locked-door chamber confrontation with the emergence a few hours later with the announcement "Charlie says he didn't do it."

The trouble with compassion is, it cannot be retroactive. So, on the day Denny McLain takes the mound again, let's, at least, lay a wreath on the grave of Shoeless Joe Jackson and the rest of the Black Sox, re-admit their records to the book, and put them in the Hall of Fame. After all, all they did was go in partners with a bookie, too.

Petaluma, Sonoma Nines Win

Petaluma and Sonoma high schools continued to set the pace in their respective leagues yesterday as each club captured its third straight win.

Petaluma blasted Vallejo 15-2 behind the four-hit pitching of Walt Sweeney to remain atop the North Bay League I standings with a 3-0 won-lost mark.

Sweeney struck out four in posting his second win in as many league outings. Jim Crabb's triple and doubles by Kurt Jastrow and Sam Solis were the big blows in a 14-hit Petaluma attack.

Sonoma's Dan Briggs was a big man both on the mound and at the plate in leading the Dragons to a 6-2 win over Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park. Briggs tossed a six-hitter and struck out 11 men in pitching Sonoma to its third NBL-11 win in as many outings. The lefthander also tripled and singled in four trips to the plate, driving home a pair of runs.

Bill Weyl was two for four with two runs-batted-in for Sonoma.

In junior varisty action, Vallejo dumped Petaluma 10-3 and Rancho Cotate downed Sonoma 4-1.

SEARS POINT ACTION

Local Drivers In Stock Car 200-Miler Tomorrow

Craig Murray of San Rafael and Hugh Harn of Sonoma will be driving 1968 Camaros tomorrow when they shoot for gold and glory in the United States Auto Club's 200-mile late model stock car race at Sears Point International Raceway.

The local entrants will be in some pretty fast company as the field of 26 cars will feature such outstanding drivers as Indianapolis 500 veterans Roger McCluskey and Art Pollard and west coast standouts Scotty Cain, Marty Kinerk and Steve Froines.

Murray, 30, president of Sears Point Raceway, will be driving the same car Mark Donohue drove to the 1968 Trans-American sedan series championship.

McCluskey, the USAC national stock car champion from Tucson, Ariz., will be driving a 1970 Plymouth Superbird in the $40,000 race. Pollard, from Medford, Ore., will be in a 1969 Camaro; Cain will bring his 1969 Ford Torino to the demanding 2.5-mile, 11-turn, hilly Sears Point road circuit; Kinerk will drive a Plymouth and Froines a 1970 Torino Cobra.

Of the field of 26 drivers, 14 are from the midwest.

Gates will open at 9 a.m. for practice sessions. A motorcycle race will be held at 11:30 a.m. followed at 1 p.m. by the 80-lap stock car main event. Dare devil stunt car drivers will perform after the main event at approximately 4 p.m.

Admission is $6. per pperson. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

UCLA Lands Prep Phenom

SAN DIEGO (AP) — He's not as tall as Lew Alcindor and he doesn't have the nationwide fame Alcindor did when he came west from Power Memorial Academy in New York but Bill Walton may be a better basketball player.

"He's a better shot blocker at this stage than Alcindor was," exclaimed San Diego State Coach Dick Davis after watching Walton for two years in San Diego's Helix High School. Davis was among 150 colleges across the country bidding for the basketball services of Walton.

UCLA won.

The Bruins announced Friday that Walton, a 6-foot-11 high school superstar, was headed for Westwood. Walton said he made up his mind Friday, then called Wooden.

WOODEN 'PLEASED'

"He said he was pleased," Walton said of Wooden's reaction.

The 17-year-old redhead led Helix in suburban La Mesa to an undefeated season while averaging 29 points and hitting 78 per cent of his shots. He said he was relieved he has made his choice.

"It was getting kind of hectic, but I'm really satisfied with my choice. Mr. Wooden is a great person and a great coach. Being a great person is what makes him a great coach."

Walton, who plans to build up his 200-pound frame with a weight-lifting program, said he had reduced his choices to six --UCLA, Duke, University of Southern California, UC Berkeley, UC Santa Barbara and San Diego State.

"There was no single factor or catalyst; it was just the whole overall situation at UCLA," he said.

Bill said neither his parents nor his brother Bruce, captain of the UCLA freshman football team last year, influenced his decision.

Wooden has called Walton a "fine team player. I'm sure he could score more than he does."

"... We'd be interested in him if he were a 5-10 guard," says USC frosh coach Jim Hefner.

Walton, in the top 10 per cent of his senior class with a 3.5 grade point average, will join the U.S. national team next week in New York to prepare for the World Basketball Championships next month in Yugoslavia.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Orbiting Aaron, Braves Spoil Houston Opener

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Astronaut Robert F. Overmyer now trails Hammerin' Hank Aaron by a mere 555 in the matter of sending baseballs into orbit.

The Houston Astros didn't want to be like the 23 other major league teams and have an earthling throw out the first ball, so they cooked up something special for their home opener Friday night.

Overmyer pressed a button that fired a small model rocket, which shot a baseball 180 feet into the air. Then a small parachute opened and lowered the ball to the playing field. Overmyer pinch hit for moonwalker Neal Armstrong, who was called to Cape Kennedy for the Apollo 13 flight preparations.

Unfortunately for the Astros, Atlanta's Aaron batted for himself with the bases loaded in the third inning and slammed a Tom Griffin pitch into the left field seats for his 556th career homer and 13th grand slam. Gil Hodges is the all-time National League leader with 14 grand slams.

That launched the Braves to a 5-0 victory as lefty George Stone hurled a six-hitter.

Elsewhere in the N.L. St. Louis beat Hodges' New York Mets 7-3, the Chicago Cubs nipped Montreal 2-1, Philadelphia blanked Pittsburgh 2-0, San Diego trounced Los Angeles 7-2 and San Francisco edged Cincinnati 4-3.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

In the American League, it was California 11, Kansas City 7; Boston 4, Washington 1; the Chicago White Sox 5, Milwaukee 4; Baltimore 3, Detroit 2 in 10 innings.

Aaron's four RBI boosted his career total to 1,732, pulling him even with Honus Wagner for the ninth spot on the all-time list. He also took over 10th place in career hits with 2,963, passing Sam Crawford.

The Cardinals thrilled a record St. Louis opening game crowd of 47,568 by scoring all seven runs on six hits in the third inning and coasting past the Mets.

Singles by Lou Brock and Jose Cardenal and a walk to Richie Allen set things up and Joe Torre doubled the first two runs across. Leron Lee's bloop double made it 3-0 and the Cards continued their assault after Ray Sadecki replaced starter Jim McAndrew.

MISPLAYS FLY

Dal Maxvill hit a sacrifice fly, winning pitcher George Culver got a two-run triple when center fielder Tommie Agee misplayed his fly ball and Cardenal singled home the final run.

San Diego's triumph over the winless Dodgers was highlighted by Nate Colbert's two-run homer in a four-run first inning and the relief pitching of Dave Roberts, who retired the first 17 batters he faced.

The Padres jumped off quickly on Tommy Dean's single and Van Kelly's run-scoring double. Kelly came around on a passed ball and a wild pitch and Al Ferrara singled before Colbert drove a towering homer into the center field seats beyond the 400-foot sign.

DOUBLE PLAY

Roberts relieved Mike Corkins with a 5-2 lead and the bases loaded in the second and nailed Willie Davis on an inning-ending double play grounder. He retired everyone else until he walked Maury Wills with one out in the eighth and Davis singled for the only hit off Roberts. But Willie Crawford hit into a double play and Roberts set the Dodgers down in order in the ninth.

The Cubs were one out away from their third consecutive defeat when Ron Santo singled and Johnny Callison unloaded a two-run homer, ruining a fine performance by Montreal's Joe Sparma, who allowed only three hits over the first eight innings. It was the fourth straight setback for the winless Expos.

Woody Fryman held Pittsburgh hitless for 7 1-3 innings and finished with a four-hitter as the unbeaten Phillies rode Deron Johnson's two-run homer to their third straight win. Johnson connected in the fourth inning off Bob Veale, who allowed only three hits in seven innings.

Al Oliver's single to deep short spoiled Fryman's hitless skein and Bob Robertson followed with a solid single. The Pirates got two more hits in the ninth.

CURVY COURSE—Sears Point raceway is noted for its curves. Yes, indeedy. This course marshall added to the scenery last Saturday at the 150-mile race for Indianapolis cars. She'll probably be back at her station at Sears Point tomorrow for the United States Auto Club's 200-mile late model stock car race.

San Rafael, Tam Trackmen Waltz

Undefeated San Rafael and Tamalpais High Schools yesterday continued to roll over weeker opponents on their way to a dual meet show down April 24 that will probably decide the 1970 Marin County Athletic League track and field champion.

San Rafael was awesome in a 101½ - 25½ whitewash of Novato, while Tam held off Terra Linda, 74-53.

Bob Peterson was a triple winner for San Rafael, taking the 100 and 220 yard dashes and the long jump.

Tam had three double winners, Glenn Shockley, Bill Baker and Mike Arago, who erased his own school record in the two Mile with a time of 9:46.6.

San Marin had an easy day of it in winning over Drake, 74 - 49, and Redwood romped over Marin Catholic, 92-33 in the day's other meets.

Sprinter Rich Tierney won the 100 and 220 for Drake, while Redwood had two double winners, Tom Estudillo and Pat Dorinson.

Joe Clark of the Redwood B's was a triple winner, taking honors in both hurdles events and the long jump.

mates are as shocked by the pusillanimity of Denny's wrist slap as the Watch & Ward Society. Presumably, a couple of them have had occasion to throw a character in a pinstripe suit out the door a few times for waving a fistful of bills under their noses and suggesting they drop a few fly balls or walk a few guys with the bases loaded.

Concerned About The Neighbors

Maybe a jury of his peers would be less lenient with a suspected player than a man who is more concerned that the neighbors find out than he is with the mischief itself.

I think some system of getting at the facts, and laying them before the public, would be better than the locked-door chamber confrontation with the emergence a few hours later with the announcement "Charlie says he didn't do it."

The trouble with compassion is, it cannot be retroactive. So, on the day Denny McLain takes the mound again, let's, at least, lay a wreath on the grave of Shoeless Joe Jackson and the rest of the Black Sox, re-admit their records to the book, and put them in the Hall of Fame. After all, all they did was go in partners with a bookie, too.

Petaluma, Sonoma Nines Win

Petaluma and Sonoma high schools continued to set the pace in their respective leagues yesterday as each club captured its third straight win.

Petaluma blasted Vallejo 15-2 behind the four-hit pitching of Walt Sweeney to remain atop the North Bay League I standings with a 3-0 won-lost mark.

Sweeney struck out four in posting his second win in as many league outings. Jim Crabb's triple and doubles by Kurt Jastrow and Sam Solis were the big blows in a 14-hit Petaluma attack.

Sonoma's Dan Briggs was a big man both on the mound and at the plate in leading the Dragons to a 6-2 win over Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park. Briggs tossed a six-hitter and struck out 11 men in pithcing Sonoma to its third NBL-11 win in as many outings. The lefthander also tripled and singled in four trips to the plate, driving home a pair of runs.

Bill Weyl was two for four with two runs-batted-in for Sonoma.

In junior varisty action, Vallejo dumped Petaluma 10-3 and Rancho Cotate downed Sonoma 4-1.

SEARS POINT ACTION

Local Drivers In Stock Car 200-Miler Tomorrow

Craig Murray of San Rafael and Hugh Harn of Sonoma will be driving 1968 Camaros tomorrow when they shoot for gold and glory in the United States Auto Club's 200-mile late model stock car race at Sears Point International Raceway.

The local entrants will be in some pretty fast company as the field of 26 cars will feature such outstanding drivers as Indianapolis 500 veterans Roger McCluskey and Art Pollard and west coast standouts Scotty Cain, Marty Kinerk and Steve Froines.

Murray, 30, president of Sears Point Raceway, will be driving the same car Mark Donohue drove to the 1968 Trans-American sedan series championship.

McCluskey, the USAC national stock car champion from Tucson, Ariz., will be driving a 1970 Plymouth Superbird in the $40,000 race. Pollard, from Medford, Ore., will be in a 1969 Camaro; Cain will bring his 1969 Ford Torino to the demanding 2.5-mile, 11-turn, hilly Sears Point road circuit; Kinerk will drive a Plymouth and Froines a 1970 Torino Cobra.

Of the field of 26 drivers, 14 are from the midwest.

Gates will open at 9 a.m. for practice sessions. A motorcycle race will be held at 11:30 a.m. followed at 1 p.m. by the 80-lap stock car main event. Dare devil stunt car drivers will perform after the main event at approximately 4 p.m.

Admission is $6. per pperson. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

UCLA Lands Prep Phenom

SAN DIEGO (AP) — He's not as tall as Lew Alcindor and he doesn't have the nationwide fame Alcindor did when he came west from Power Memorial Academy in New York but Bill Walton may be a better basketball player.

"He's a better shot blocker at this stage than Alcindor was," exclaimed San Diego State Coach Dick Davis after watching Walton for two years in San Diego's Helix High School. Davis was among 150 colleges across the country bidding for the basketball services of Walton.

UCLA won.

The Bruins announced Friday that Walton, a 6-foot-11 high school superstar, was headed for Westwood. Walton said he made up his mind Friday, then called Wooden.

WOODEN 'PLEASED'

"He said he was pleased," Walton said of Wooden's reaction.

The 17-year-old redhead led Helix in suburban La Mesa to an undefeated season while averaging 29 points and hitting 78 per cent of his shots. He said he was relieved he has made his choice.

"It was getting kind of hectic, but I'm really satisfied with my choice. Mr. Wooden is a great person and a great coach. Being a great person is what makes him a great coach."

Walton, who plans to build up his 200-pound frame with a weight-lifting program, said he had reduced his choices to six --UCLA, Duke, University of Southern California, UC Berkeley, UC Santa Barbara and San Diego State.

"There was no single factor or catalyst; it was just the whole overall situation at UCLA," he said.

Bill said neither his parents nor his brother Bruce, captain of the UCLA freshman football team last year, influenced his decision.

Wooden has called Walton a "fine team player. I'm sure he could score more than he does."

"... We'd be interested in him if he were a 5-10 guard," says USC frosh coach Jim Hefner.

Walton, in the top 10 per cent of his senior class with a 3.5 grade point average, will join the U.S. national team next week in New York to prepare for the World Basketball Championships next month in Yugoslavia.

Today is Saturday, April 11, the 101st day of 1970 with 264 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and last quarter.

The morning star is Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1898 President William McKinley asked Congress to declare war on Spain.

In 1947 Jackie Robinson played for the Brooklyn Dodgers in an exhibition game against the New York Yankees. It was the first time a Negro had played in major league baseball.

In 1966 Guam-based U.S. B-52 bombers struck Vietnam for the first time.

In 1968 President Lyndon Johnson ordered 10,000 reservists to active duty and set a ceiling of 649,500 on U.S. troop strength in Vietnam.

A thought for the day: Gen. Douglas MacArthur said, "There is no substitute for victory."

Evangelist Sets Trio Of Talks

Wendell H. Wallace, who styles himself as a "black evangelist who tells it like it is" will speak two times this coming week in Marin County.

On Wednesday, Wallace speaks at 8 p.m. at the Corte Madera Recreation Center, and on Friday and Saturday at the Marin City Gynasium at 6 and 8 p.m. respectively.

His appearances are being sponsored by Interdenominational, Interracial Involved Christians (IIIC) whose director is Rev. Fred Small, pastor of the Marin City Church of God.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Key Play In Many Difficult Hands Is Leading Singleton

The key play in many difficult trump contracts is to begin by leading your singleton, particularly if that is in dummy's long suit. This usually gives the opponents a choice of defenses: if they lead trumps, you set up dummy's duit; and if they fail to lead trumps you crossruff.

NEEDS RUFFS

In today's hand, for example, you win the first trick with ehe ace of clubs, noting that you can easily win your won five trumps and the two side aces. The hand will be easy if you can ruff three clubs in the dummy.

You go down if you try to ruff the clubs at once. You can ruff a club in dummt, but then you cannot get to your hand. If you then lead a diamond from the dummy, the opponents will return a trump.

You solve your problem by leading a diamond at the second trick. If the opponents fail to return a trump, you can ruff three clubs in the dummy and get to your hand by ruffing diamonds.

UNPLEASANT CHOICE

One problem of the defenders is which of them should win the first diamond trick. If West steps up with the ace of diamonds, you can win his trump return in the dummy and lead the queen of diamonds through East. He will cover with the king, but you ruff and lead a trump to dummy to ruff another diamond. Now you draw trumps and get to dummy with the ace of spades to cash the rest of the diamonds.

TO FORCE KING

If West plays low on the first round of diamonds, you use the jack to force out the king. You win the trump return in dummy and ruff a low diamond, dropping the ace. Now the rest is easy.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1-no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:

♠ - Q J 10
H - 5 3
D - K 9 7 2
C - K 5 4 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 3-no-trumps.

Even if partner has the minimum count of 16 points, the partnership total will be 25 points with an extra tenspot and an extra nine. You also have two four-card suits, and one of them may well be a trick. If you bid only two notrump and partner passed, you would be sick. Bid three notrump to avoid this kind of sickness.

Six Graduate From Academy

Six Marin lawmen have been graduated from police academy training at Santa Rosa Junior College, four from the Marin County sheriff's department and two from the San Rafael police department.

Sheriff's deputies graduated recently are Joseph D. Dentoni, Elwood R. Love, James Spears Jr., and Gerald F. Tanner.

San Rafael officers are William H. Bertram and Woodrow C. Hoke.

Orbiting Aaron, Braves Spoil Houston Opener

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Astronaut Robert F. Overmyer now trails Hammerin' Hank Aaron by a mere 555 in the matter of sending baseballs into orbit.

The Houston Astros didn't want to be like the 23 other major league teams and have an earthling throw out the first ball, so they cooked up something special for their home opener Friday night.

Overmyer pressed a button that fired a small model rocket, which shot a baseball 180 feet into the air. Then a small parachute opened and lowered the ball to the playing field. Overmyer pinch hit for moonwalker Neal Armstrong, who was called to Cape Kennedy for the Apollo 13 flight preparations.

Unfortunately for the Astros, Atlanta's Aaron batted for himself with the bases loaded in the third inning and slammed a Tom Griffin pitch into the left field seats for his 556th career homer and 13th grand slam. Gil Hodges is the all-time National League leader with 14 grand slams.

That launched the Braves to a 5-0 victory as lefty George Stone hurled a six-hitter.

Elsewhere in the N.L. St. Louis beat Hodges' New York Mets 7-3, the Chicago Cubs nipped Montreal 2-1, Philadelphia blanked Pittsburgh 2-0, San Diego trounced Los Angeles 7-2 and San Francisco edged Cincinnati 4-3.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

In the American League, it was California 11, Kansas City 7; Boston 4, Washington 1; the Chicago White Sox 5, Milwaukee 4; Baltimore 3, Detroit 2 in 10 innings.

Aaron's four RBI boosted his career total to 1,732, pulling him even with Honus Wagner for the ninth spot on the all-time list. He also took over 10th place in career hits with 2,963, passing Sam Crawford.

The Cardinals thrilled a record St. Louis opening game crowd of 47,568 by scoring all seven runs on six hits in the third inning and coasting past the Mets.

Singles by Lou Brock and Jose Cardenal and a walk to Richie Allen set things up and Joe Torre doubled the first two runs across. Leron Lee's bloop double made it 3-0 and the Cards continued their assault after Ray Sadecki replaced starter Jim McAndrew.

MISPLAYS FLY

Dal Maxvill hit a sacrifice fly, winning pitcher George Culver got a two-run triple when center fielder Tommie Agee misplayed his fly ball and Cardenal singled home the final run.

San Diego's triumph over the winless Dodgers was highlighted by Nate Colbert's two-run homer in a four-run first inning and the relief pitching of Dave Roberts, who retired the first 17 batters he faced.

The Padres jumped off quickly on Tommy Dean's single and Van Kelly's run-scoring double. Kelly came around on a passed ball and a wild pitch and Al Ferrara singled before Colbert drove a towering homer into the center field seats beyond the 400-foot sign.

DOUBLE PLAY

Roberts relieved Mike Corkins with a 5-2 lead and the bases loaded in the second and nailed Willie Davis on an inning-ending double play grounder. He retired everyone else until he walked Maury Wills with one out in the eighth and Davis singled for the only hit off Roberts. But Willie Crawford hit into a double play and Roberts set the Dodgers down in order in the ninth.

The Cubs were one out away from their third consecutive defeat when Ron Santo singled and Johnny Callison unloaded a two-run homer, ruining a fine performance by Montreal's Joe Sparma, who allowed only three hits over the first eight innings. It was the fourth straight setback for the winless Expos.

Woody Fryman held Pittsburgh hitless for 7 1-3 innings and finished with a four-hitter as the unbeaten Phillies rode Deron Johnson's two-run homer to their third straight win. Johnson connected in the fourth inning off Bob Veale, who allowed only three hits in seven innings.

Al Oliver's single to deep short spoiled Fryman's hitless skein and Bob Robertson followed with a solid single. The Pirates got two more hits in the ninth.

San Rafael, Tam Trackmen Waltz

Undefeated San Rafael and Tamalpais High Schools yesterday continued to roll over weeker opponents on their way to a dual meet show down April 24 that will probably decide the 1970 Marin County Athletic League track and field champion.

San Rafael was awesome in a 101½ - 25½ whitewash of Novato, while Tam held off Terra Linda, 74-53.

Bob Peterson was a triple winner for San Rafael, taking the 100 and 220 yard dashes and the long jump.

Tam had three double winners, Glenn Shockley, Bill Baker and Mike Arago, who erased his own school record in the two Mile with a time of 9:46.6.

San Marin had an easy day of it in winning over Drake, 74 - 49, and Redwood romped over Marin Catholic, 92-33 in the day's other meets.

Sprinter Rich Tierney won the 100 and 220 for Drake, while Redwood had two double winners, Tom Estudillo and Pat Dorinson.

Joe Clark of the Redwood B's was a triple winner, taking honors in both hurdles events and the long jump.

mates are as shocked by the pusillanimity of Denny's wrist slap as the Watch & Ward Society. Presumably, a couple of them have had occasion to throw a character in a pinstripe suit out the door a few times for waving a fistful of bills under their noses and suggesting they drop a few fly balls or walk a few guys with the bases loaded.

Concerned About The Neighbors

Maybe a jury of his peers would be less lenient with a suspected player than a man who is more concerned that the neighbors find out than he is with the mischief itself.

I think some system of getting at the facts, and laying them before the public, would be better than the locked-door chamber confrontation with the emergence a few hours later with the announcement "Charlie says he didn't do it."

The trouble with compassion is, it cannot be retroactive. So, on the day Denny McLain takes the mound again, let's, at least, lay a wreath on the grave of Shoeless Joe Jackson and the rest of the Black Sox, re-admit their records to the book, and put them in the Hall of Fame. After all, all they did was go in partners with a bookie, too.

Petaluma, Sonoma Nines Win

Petaluma and Sonoma high schools continued to set the pace in their respective leagues yesterday as each club captured its third straight win.

Petaluma blasted Vallejo 15-2 behind the four-hit pitching of Walt Sweeney to remain atop the North Bay League I standings with a 3-0 won-lost mark.

Sweeney struck out four in posting his second win in as many league outings. Jim Crabb's triple and doubles by Kurt Jastrow and Sam Solis were the big blows in a 14-hit Petaluma attack.

Sonoma's Dan Briggs was a big man both on the mound and at the plate in leading the Dragons to a 6-2 win over Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park. Briggs tossed a six-hitter and struck out 11 men in pitching Sonoma to its third NBL-11 win in as many outings. The lefthander also tripled and singled in four trips to the plate, driving home a pair of runs.

Bill Weyl was two for four with two runs-batted-in for Sonoma.

In junior varisty action, Vallejo dumped Petaluma 10-3 and Rancho Cotate downed Sonoma 4-1.

SEARS POINT ACTION

Local Drivers In Stock Car 200-Miler Tomorrow

Craig Murray of San Rafael and Hugh Harn of Sonoma will be driving 1968 Camaros tomorrow when they shoot for gold and glory in the United States Auto Club's 200-mile late model stock car race at Sears Point International Raceway.

The local entrants will be in some pretty fast company as the field of 26 cars will feature such outstanding drivers as Indianapolis 500 veterans Roger McCluskey and Art Pollard and west coast standouts Scotty Cain, Marty Kinerk and Steve Froines.

Murray, 30, president of Sears Point Raceway, will be driving the same car Mark Donohue drove to the 1968 Trans-American sedan series championship.

McCluskey, the USAC national stock car champion from Tucson, Ariz., will be driving a 1970 Plymouth Superbird in the $40,000 race. Pollard, from Medford, Ore., will be in a 1969 Camaro; Cain will bring his 1969 Ford Torino to the demanding 2.5-mile, 11-turn, hilly Sears Point road circuit; Kinerk will drive a Plymouth and Froines a 1970 Torino Cobra.

Of the field of 26 drivers, 14 are from the midwest.

Gates will open at 9 a.m. for practice sessions. A motorcycle race will be held at 11:30 a.m. followed at 1 p.m. by the 80-lap stock car main event. Dare devil stunt car drivers will perform after the main event at approximately 4 p.m.

Admission is $6. per pperson. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

UCLA Lands Prep Phenom

SAN DIEGO (AP) — He's not as tall as Lew Alcindor and he doesn't have the nationwide fame Alcindor did when he came west from Power Memorial Academy in New York but Bill Walton may be a better basketball player.

"He's a better shot blocker at this stage than Alcindor was," exclaimed San Diego State Coach Dick Davis after watching Walton for two years in San Diego's Helix High School. Davis was among 150 colleges across the country bidding for the basketball services of Walton.

UCLA won.

The Bruins announced Friday that Walton, a 6-foot-11 high school superstar, was headed for Westwood. Walton said he made up his mind Friday, then called Wooden.

WOODEN 'PLEASED'

"He said he was pleased," Walton said of Wooden's reaction.

The 17-year-old redhead led Helix in suburban La Mesa to an undefeated season while averaging 29 points and hitting 78 per cent of his shots. He said he was relieved he has made his choice.

"It was getting kind of hectic, but I'm really satisfied with my choice. Mr. Wooden is a great person and a great coach. Being a great person is what makes him a great coach."

Walton, who plans to build up his 200-pound frame with a weight-lifting program, said he had reduced his choices to six —UCLA, Duke, University of Southern California, UC Berkeley, UC Santa Barbara and San Diego State.

"There was no single factor or catalyst; it was just the whole overall situation at UCLA," he said.

Bill said neither his parents nor his brother Bruce, captain of the UCLA freshman football team last year, influenced his decision.

Wooden has called Walton a "fine team player. I'm sure he could score more than he does."

"... We'd be interested in him if he were a 5-10 guard," says USC frosh coach Jim Hefner.

Walton, in the top 10 per cent of his senior class with a 3.5 grade point average, will join the U.S. national team next week in New York to prepare for the World Basketball Championships next month in Yugoslavia.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Orbiting Aaron, Braves Spoil Houston Opener

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Astronaut Robert F. Overmyer now trails Hammerin' Hank Aaron by a mere 555 in the matter of sending baseballs into orbit.

The Houston Astros didn't want to be like the 23 other major league teams and have an earthling throw out the first ball, so they cooked up something special for their home opener Friday night.

Overmyer pressed a button that fired a small model rocket, which shot a baseball 180 feet into the air. Then a small parachute opened and lowered the ball to the playing field. Overmyer pinch hit for moonwalker Neal Armstrong, who was called to Cape Kennedy for the Apollo 13 flight preparations.

Unfortunately for the Astros, Atlanta's Aaron batted for himself with the bases loaded in the third inning and slammed a Tom Griffin pitch into the left field seats for his 556th career homer and 13th grand slam. Gil Hodges is the all-time National League leader with 14 grand slams.

That launched the Braves to a 5-0 victory as lefty George Stone hurled a six-hitter.

Elsewhere in the N.L. St. Louis beat Hodges' New York Mets 7-3, the Chicago Cubs nipped Montreal 2-1, Philadelphia blanked Pittsburgh 2-0, San Diego trounced Los Angeles 7-2 and San Francisco edged Cincinnati 4-3.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

In the American League, it was California 11, Kansas City 7; Boston 4, Washington 1; the Chicago White Sox 5, Milwaukee 4; Baltimore 3, Detroit 2 in 10 innings.

Aaron's four RBI boosted his career total to 1,732, pulling him even with Honus Wagner for the ninth spot on the all-time list. He also took over 10th place in career hits with 2,963, passing Sam Crawford.

The Cardinals thrilled a record St. Louis opening game crowd of 47,568 by scoring all seven runs on six hits in the third inning and coasting past the Mets.

Singles by Lou Brock and Jose Cardenal and a walk to Richie Allen set things up and Joe Torre doubled the first two runs across. Leron Lee's bloop double made it 3-0 and the Cards continued their assault after Ray Sadecki replaced starter Jim McAndrew.

MISPLAYS FLY

Dal Maxvill hit a sacrifice fly, winning pitcher George Culver got a two-run triple when center fielder Tommie Agee misplayed his fly ball and Cardenal singled home the final run.

San Diego's triumph over the winless Dodgers was highlighted by Nate Colbert's two-run homer in a four-run first inning and the relief pitching of Dave Roberts, who retired the first 17 batters he faced.

The Padres jumped off quickly on Tommy Dean's single and Van Kelly's run-scoring double. Kelly came around on a passed ball and a wild pitch and Al Ferrara singled before Colbert drove a towering homer into the center field seats beyond the 400-foot sign.

DOUBLE PLAY

Roberts relieved Mike Corkins with a 5-2 lead and the bases loaded in the second and nailed Willie Davis on an inning-ending double play grounder. He retired everyone else until he walked Maury Wills with one out in the eighth and Davis singled for the only hit off Roberts. But Willie Crawford hit into a double play and Roberts set the Dodgers down in order in the ninth.

The Cubs were one out away from their third consecutive defeat when Ron Santo singled and Johnny Callison unloaded a two-run homer, ruining a fine performance by Montreal's Joe Sparma, who allowed only three hits over the first eight innings. It was the fourth straight setback for the winless Expos.

Woody Fryman held Pittsburgh hitless for 7 1-3 innings and finished with a four-hitter as the unbeaten Phillies rode Deron Johnson's two-run homer to their third straight win. Johnson connected in the fourth inning off Bob Veale, who allowed only three hits in seven innings.

Al Oliver's single to deep short spoiled Fryman's hitless skein and Bob Robertson followed with a solid single. The Pirates got two more hits in the ninth.

San Rafael, Tam Trackmen Waltz

Undefeated San Rafael and Tamalpais High Schools yesterday continued to roll over weeker opponents on their way to a dual meet show down April 24 that will probably decide the 1970 Marin County Athletic League track and field champion.

San Rafael was awesome in a 101½ - 25½ whitewash of Novato, while Tam held off Terra Linda, 74-53.

Bob Peterson was a triple winner for San Rafael, taking the 100 and 220 yard dashes and the long jump.

Tam had three double winners, Glenn Shockley, Bill Baker and Mike Arago, who erased his own school record in the two Mile with a time of 9:46.6.

San Marin had an easy day of it in winning over Drake, 74 - 49, and Redwood romped over Marin Catholic, 92-33 in the day's other meets.

Sprinter Rich Tierney won the 100 and 220 for Drake, while Redwood had two double winners, Tom Estudillo and Pat Dorinson.

Joe Clark of the Redwood B's was a triple winner, taking honors in both hurdles events and the long jump.

mates are as shocked by the pusillanimity of Denny's wrist slap as the Watch & Ward Society. Presumably, a couple of them have had occasion to throw a character in a pinstripe suit out the door a few times for waving a fistful of bills under their noses and suggesting they drop a few fly balls or walk a few guys with the bases loaded.

Concerned About The Neighbors

Maybe a jury of his peers would be less lenient with a suspected player than a man who is more concerned that the neighbors find out than he is with the mischief itself.

I think some system of getting at the facts, and laying them before the public, would be better than the locked-door chamber confrontation with the emergence a few hours later with the announcement "Charlie says he didn't do it."

The trouble with compassion is, it cannot be retroactive. So, on the day Denny McLain takes the mound again, let's, at least, lay a wreath on the grave of Shoeless Joe Jackson and the rest of the Black Sox, re-admit their records to the book, and put them in the Hall of Fame. After all, all they did was go in partners with a bookie, too.

Petaluma, Sonoma Nines Win

Petaluma and Sonoma high schools continued to set the pace in their respective leagues yesterday as each club captured its third straight win.

Petaluma blasted Vallejo 15-2 behind the four-hit pitching of Walt Sweeney to remain atop the North Bay League I standings with a 3-0 won-lost mark.

Sweeney struck out four in posting his second win in as many league outings. Jim Crabb's triple and doubles by Kurt Jastrow and Sam Solis were the big blows in a 14-hit Petaluma attack.

Sonoma's Dan Briggs was a big man both on the mound and at the plate in leading the Dragons to a 6-2 win over Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park. Briggs tossed a six-hitter and struck out 11 men in pitheing Sonoma to its third NBL-11 win in as many outings. The lefthander also tripled and singled in four trips to the plate, driving home a pair of runs.

Bill Weyl was two for four with two runs-batted-in for Sonoma.

In junior varisty action, Vallejo dumped Petaluma 10-3 and Rancho Cotate downed Sonoma 4-1.

SEARS POINT ACTION

Local Drivers In Stock Car 200-Miler Tomorrow

Craig Murray of San Rafael and Hugh Harn of Sonoma will be driving 1968 Camaros tomorrow when they shoot for gold and glory in the United States Auto Club's 200-mile late model stock car race at Sears Point International Raceway.

The local entrants will be in some pretty fast company as the field of 26 cars will feature such outstanding drivers as Indianapolis 500 veterans Roger McCluskey and Art Pollard and west coast standouts Scotty Cain, Marty Kinerk and Steve Froines.

Murray, 30, president of Sears Point Raceway, will be driving the same car Mark Donohue drove to the 1968 Trans-American sedan series championship.

McCluskey, the USAC national stock car champion from Tucson, Ariz., will be driving a 1970 Plymouth Superbird in the $40,000 race. Pollard, from Medford, Ore., will be in a 1969 Camaro; Cain will bring his 1969 Ford Torino to the demanding 2.5-mile, 11-turn, hilly Sears Point road circuit; Kinerk will drive a Plymouth and Froines a 1970 Torino Cobra.

Of the field of 26 drivers, 14 are from the midwest.

Gates will open at 9 a.m. for practice sessions. A motorcycle race will be held at 11:30 a.m. followed at 1 p.m. by the 80-lap stock car main event. Dare devil stunt car drivers will perform after the main event at approximately 4 p.m.

Admission is $6. per pperson. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

UCLA Lands Prep Phenom

SAN DIEGO (AP) — He's not as tall as Lew Alcindor and he doesn't have the nationwide fame Alcindor did when he came west from Power Memorial Academy in New York but Bill Walton may be a better basketball player.

"He's a better shot blocker at this stage than Alcindor was," exclaimed San Diego State Coach Dick Davis after watching Walton for two years in San Diego's Helix High School. Davis was among 150 colleges across the country bidding for the basketball services of Walton.

UCLA won.

The Bruins announced Friday that Walton, a 6-foot-11 high school superstar, was headed for Westwood. Walton said he made up his mind Friday, then called Wooden.

WOODEN 'PLEASED'

"He said he was pleased," Walton said of Wooden's reaction.

The 17-year-old redhead led Helix in suburban La Mesa to an undefeated season while averaging 29 points and hitting 78 per cent of his shots. He said he was relieved he has made his choice.

"It was getting kind of hectic, but I'm really satisfied with my choice. Mr. Wooden is a great person and a great coach. Being a great person is what makes him a great coach."

Walton, who plans to build up his 200-pound frame with a weight-lifting program, said he had reduced his choices to six —UCLA, Duke, University of Southern California, UC Berkeley, UC Santa Barbara and San Diego State.

"There was no single factor or catalyst; it was just the whole overall situation at UCLA," he said.

Bill said neither his parents nor his brother Bruce, captain of the UCLA freshman football team last year, influenced his decision.

Wooden has called Walton a "fine team player. I'm sure he could score more than he does."

"... We'd be interested in him if he were a 5-10 guard," says USC frosh coach Jim Hefner.

Walton, in the top 10 per cent of his senior class with a 3.5 grade point average, will join the U.S. national team next week in New York to prepare for the World Basketball Championships next month in Yugoslavia.

Today is Saturday, April 11, the 101st day of 1970 with 264 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and last quarter.

The morning star is Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1898 President William McKinley asked Congress to declare war on Spain.

In 1947 Jackie Robinson played for the Brooklyn Dodgers in an exhibition game against the New York Yankees. It was the first time a Negro had played in major league baseball.

In 1966 Guam-based U.S. B-52 bombers struck Vietnam for the first time.

In 1968 President Lyndon Johnson ordered 10,000 reservists to active duty and set a ceiling of 649,500 on U.S. troop strength in Vietnam.

A thought for the day: Gen. Douglas MacArthur said, "There is no substitute for victory."

Evangelist Sets Trio Of Talks

Wendell H. Wallace, who styles himself as a "black evangelist who tells it like it is" will speak two times this coming week in Marin County.

On Wednesday, Wallace speaks at 8 p.m. at the Corte Madera Recreation Center, and on Friday and Saturday at the Marin City Gynasium at 6 and 8 p.m. respectively.

His appearances are being sponsored by Interdenominational, Interracial Involved Christians (IIIC) whose director is Rev. Fred Small, pastor of the Marin City Church of God.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Key Play In Many Difficult Hands Is Leading Singleton

The key play in many difficult trump contracts is to begin by leading your singleton, particularly if that is in dummy's long suit. This usually gives the opponents a choice of defenses: if they lead trumps, you set up dummy's duit; and if they fail to lead trumps you crossruff.

NEEDS RUFFS

In today's hand, for example, you win the first trick with ehe ace of clubs, noting that you can easily win your won five trumps and the two side aces. The hand will be easy if you can ruff three clubs in the dummy.

You go down if you try to ruff the clubs at once. You can ruff a club in dummt, but then you cannot get to your hand. If you then lead a diamond from the dummy, the opponents will return a trump.

You solve your problem by leading a diamond at the second trick. If the opponents fail to return a trump, you can ruff three clubs in the dummy and get to your hand by ruffing diamonds.

UNPLEASANT CHOICE

One problem of the defenders is which of them should win the first diamond trick. If West steps up with the ace of diamonds, you can win his trump return in the dummy and lead the queen of diamonds through East. He will cover with the king, but you ruff and lead a trump to dummy to ruff another diamond. Now you draw trumps and get to dummy with the ace of spades to cash the rest of the diamonds.

TO FORCE KING

If West plays low on the first round of diamonds, you use the jack to force out the king. You win the trump return in dummy and ruff a low diamond, dropping the ace. Now the rest is easy.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1-no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:

♠ - Q J 10
H - 5 3
D - K 9 7 2
C - K 5 4 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 3-no-trumps.

Even if partner has the minimum count of 16 points, the partnership total will be 25 points with an extra tenspot and an extra nine. You also have two four-card suits, and one of them may well be a trick. If you bid only two notrump and partner passed, you would be sick. Bid three notrump to avoid this kind of sickness.

Six Graduate From Academy

Six Marin lawmen have been graduated from police academy training at Santa Rosa Junior College, four from the Marin County sheriff's department and two from the San Rafael police department.

Sheriff's deputies graduated recently are Joseph D. Dentoni, Elwood R. Love, James Spears Jr., and Gerald F. Tanner.

San Rafael officers are William H. Bertram and Woodrow C. Hoke.

Petaluma Librarian Takes New Challenge

By BONNIE BARD

When Alice M. Hanna stepped in last week as Petaluma's head librarian, she took on a personal challenge to wring every ounce of service possible out of the cramped and aging facilities.

The predicament, however, is not a new experience for Miss Hanna, who took on a similar position in the aged Hanford Library, Kings County, and walked away last month from new and modern facilities.

The correlation between her former library situation in Hanford and the present status of Petaluma library, form a striking picture. As had been tried in Petaluma, bond issues for a new library building failed in Hanford. The building didn't come to pass until the city library consolidated with the Kings County library system.

A similar consolidation was suggested in Sonoma County, but talks brought no results when the county library board refused to assure Petaluma a representative on the county board.

Miss Hanna speaks proudly of her achievements in Hanford and the sparkling new library. "It was called Hanford's living room," she said, referring to the carpeting and many easychairs.

Why would anyone want to leave a modern library facility to start all over again in Petaluma? "I was at a standstill in Hanford," she said. "I left to keep doing—to develop library services—and this job is totally unlimited."

Looking at the drab, although architecturally pleasing building, Miss Hanna pointed out that the wiring is bad. Built at the turn of the century, the second floor has no means of outside escape in the event of fire and leaves little room for storage.

"We're so far behind in needs after 70 years," she said. "If everyone were to be perfectly honest about it, they'd admit it's inadequate."

Although the library contains only 40,000 volumes, Mill Hanna said she found the circulation to be surprisingly high, basically because of membership in the Northbay Cooperative Library System that distributes books widely.

"The building hasn't even been remodeled in 70 years," Miss Hanna lamented. "I hope those who have opposed a new library in the past will have a change of heart."

Although new to the community, Miss Hanna is aware of the changing type of city—from that of a rural community to a suburb of professionals commuting to Marin and San Francisco. She said the most neglected sections appear to be the reference area and adult reading.

"Adults of Petaluma are well educated and they need more than they get now from the library," she said, adding that she hopes to build the business section for the convenience of the merchants and industries.

A realist, Miss Hanna said she realizes a new building could be another five or 10 years away. "In the meantime, we must improve services in spite of it," she said, gazing around her office that also serves as cataloging room, lunch room and filing room.

Jail Term Ordered On Bad Check Charge

Judge Hadden W. Roth of Marin Municipal Court yesterday sentenced Michael Edward Finn, 31, of San Anselmo, to six months in the county jail for a misdemeanor conviction of possessing a check with intent to defraud. He also placed him on probation for one year.

Finn pleaded guilty last month to the reduced charge. He had earlier been charged with a felony count of the same offense.

Robinson Files For School Seat

Lyman Robinson of Bolinas has filed candidicy papers for a seat on the Bolinas-Stinson School District board, the second candidate for the post vacated in March by Trustee Jane Phillip's resignation.

Also filing before Thursday's 5 p.m. deadline was Charles E. Hancock, Stinson Beach rancher.

The 50-year-old Robinson, who lives on Evergreen Road, is a sales representative for a San Francisco paper company and is a former president of the Bolinas Beach Improvement Club.

He and his wife, who are four-year residents of Bolinas, have two children, a son who attends Tamalpais High School and a daughter, a sixth grader at Stinson Beach School.

Luncheon Missed

Members of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors, delayed by a plane flight en route to San Francisco, were unable to make yesterday's informal luncheon meeting with Marin supervisors. No new meeting was set.

Two Dillon Beach Zonings Before Planners On Monday

Two rezoning requests, for commercial and condominium development at Dillon Beach, will come before the Marin County Planning Commission Monday morning.

The all-day meeting of the planning commission will start at 9 a.m. on the third floor of the Civic Center.

Merle and Walter Lawson want to rezone 1.8 acres of land at the end of Cliff Street from limited agricultural to general commercial. The Lawsons plan to install commercial services such as a coin-operated laundry.

Bodega Bay Lands, Inc. and Highway Properties, Inc., developers of Oceana Marin, will ask for rezoning of 60 acres north of Dillon Beach for condominiums.

Developers of Marinview subdivision in Tamalpais Valley will seek lot line adjustments and realignment of driveways in the 54-lot Unit 1.

Other items on the planning commission agenda include a request by Larry Walters for fill on his tideland lot near Inverness; another hearing on the proposed county tidal waterways ordinance to control filling and building on shorelines; Nancy Dunn's request for agricultural preserve status on 34 acres north of Marshall; and rezoning of 4.3 acres at the corner of Cypress and Palm Avenues in Kentfield to allow 10,000 square foot lots instead of the present 20,000 square feet.

No Computer Guards State Parks, Now

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The state Department of Parks and Recreation is accepting reservations for state park campsites by mail now that its computer reservation system has been shutdown.

Director William Penn Mott noted Friday that the department had been unable to process reservation requests since April 3 when Computicket Corp., the firm handling the reservations, ceased operations.

But Mott announced the department has resumed accepting reservations by mail to its headquarters in Sacramento for the week beginning May 3 and throughout the rest of the year. To allow time for the department to set up a new system, he said, no more reservations will be made for April.

Mott said the department was unable to issue reservations for the week-long period because it had not received enough information from Computicket on what campsites had been reserved.

He said all reservations already issued for campsites and tours of the Hearst Castle are still valid and will be honored.

Computicket was put out of business by its parent company, Computer Sciences, Inc., apparently because it was losing money. Under the computer system, campsite space was reserved at computer outlets throughout the state, many in neighborhood supermarkets.

Marijuana Verdict Leads To $100 Fine

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court yesterday fined Mark W. Goldberg, 19, of Lagunitas, $100 and placed him on probation for one year for possessing marijuana.

Goldberg was arrested Jan. 27, 1969, when owners of an antique shop in San Rafael complained he had shoplifted. Officers found the pot when they searched Goldberg.

Masonic Essay Winner Is Girl

Nancy Maroni, a sixth grade pupil at Oak View School, Terra Linda, has been named the winner of the Masonic Lodges' annual countywide essay contest.

For her essay on "Why the Public Schools are Important to Me," Nancy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Maroni of 23 Maple Hill Drive, will receive at $100 savings bond to be presented at an awards dinner April 25 at 7 p.m. at the Marin Masonic Lodge banquet room, San Rafael.

Area winners receiving a $50 bond will be Sarah Burdick of Marin Terrace School, representing the Mill Valley lodge; Seth Miller of Ross School, representing the Fairfax lodge and Linda Frederick of San Ramon School, Novato, representing the Hamilton lodge.

The first oil pipelines in the United States were laid about 1867, says the National Geographic.

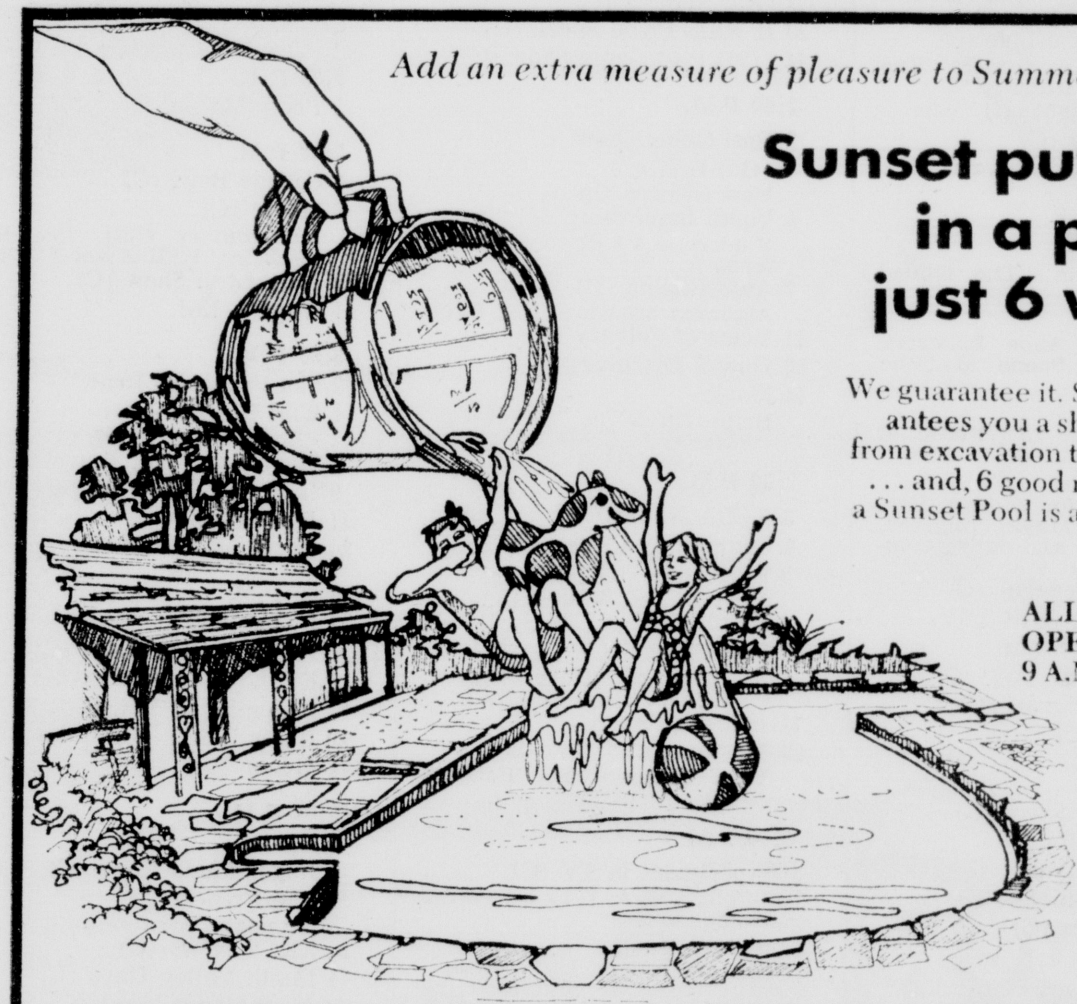
Add an extra measure of pleasure to Summertime fun!

Sunset puts you in a pool in just 6 weeks



We guarantee it. Sunset guarantees you a short 6 weeks from excavation to recreation . . . and, 6 good reasons why a Sunset Pool is a better buy!

ALL OFFICES OPEN TODAY 9 A.M. to 5 P.M.

1. Fast Construction—Our localized neighborhood offices maintain their own crews, to give you the fastest installation available on a quality swimming pool.
2. Personal Service—Local sales and service people make themselves available, to guarantee you the attention and interest you deserve.
3. Rigid Quality Control—Every phase of construction is checked and inspected, to be sure that all work meets with the highest standards of quality and reliability.
4. Unequalled Equipment and Accessories—Sunset's progressive research and development program goes on continuously, to bring you the finest equipment possible. There is no "planned obsolescence" here!
5. Financial Stability—Sunset offers you completion and performance bonds, backed by a multi-million dollar corporation.
6. Competitive Price—Our pools just look expensive. Every pool we build is "custom" - individually tailored to your requirements. There's a beautiful Sunset Pool in every homeowner's budget!

UNTITLED

long, graceful arm-fingers of eyes moving upon the frets of bark on a tree strumming grassy-leaf strings reaching into the ground and all the earth sings
A guitar player's sound songs of green and gold and yellow and brown to entertain the stars and greet the dawn

SAN RAFAEL KEN BOWLES

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER

A few new releases from Columbia Masterworks:

MAHLER: "The Youth's Magic Horn" (complete)—Christa Ludwig/Walter Berry-/Leonard Bernstein conducting the New York Philharmonic—Columbia KS 7395:

This unique two-disc album presents the lengthy song cycle by Mahler in two different versions, both utilizing the same singers and Bernstein.

The first is the orchestral version and the second is the version with piano accompaniment —Lenny at the keyboard, natuarlly. Comparison of the two versions will be interesting to most listeners.

The order of the songs is changed around between the two versions, since they do not tell a continuous narrative. There are also differences between the printed words (with English translations of the German texts of course) and the words as they are sung, especially in the piano version which was taped at a live concert in Vienna.

Bernstein's keyboard work seems a little overbearing on occasion, as though he is trying to squeeze the entire Philharmonic out of his 88 keys. Ludwig and Berry are excellent and the sound, even on the "live" version, is faithfully preserved.

TERRY RILEY: "A Rainbow in Curved Air;" "Poppy Nogood and the Phantom Band"—Columbia MS 7315:

Local composer Terry Riley creates a distinctive avant garde musical world that falls very easily on the ear. It depends heavily on ostinato (repeated) figures and reverberation using tape delay techniques. All of the sounds are created directly by Terry himself.

On "Rainbow," for example, he plays electric organ, electric harpsichord, rocksichord, dumbec and tambourine.

The spatial tricks Riley engages in on these tapes make listening in stereo, especially with headsets, almost required.

SAN RAFAEL — KEN BOWLES

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER

A few new releases from Columbia Masterworks:

MAHLER: "The Youth's Magic Horn" (complete)—Christa Ludwig/Walter Berry-/Leonard Bernstein conducting the New York Philharmonic—Columbia KS 7395:

This unique two-disc album presents the lengthy song cycle by Mahler in two different versions, both utilizing the same singers and Bernstein.

The first is the orchestral version and the second is the version with piano accompaniment —Lenny at the keyboard, natuarlly. Comparison of the two versions will be interesting to most listeners.

The order of the songs is changed around between the two versions, since they do not tell a continuous narrative. There are also differences between the printed words (with English translations of the German texts of course) and the words as they are sung, especially in the piano version which was taped at a live concert in Vienna.

Bernstein's keyboard work seems a little overbearing on occasion, as though he is trying to squeeze the entire Philharmonic out of his 88 keys. Ludwig and Berry are excellent and the sound, even on the "live" version, is faithfully preserved.

TERRY RILEY: "A Rainbow in Curved Air;" "Poppy Nogood and the Phantom Band"—Columbia MS 7315:

Local composer Terry Riley creates a distinctive avant garde musical world that falls very easily on the ear. It depends heavily on ostinato (repeated) figures and reverberation using tape delay techniques. All of the sounds are created directly by Terry himself.

On "Rainbow," for example, he plays electric organ, electric harpsichord, rocksichord, dumbec and tambourine.

The spatial tricks Riley engages in on these tapes make listening in stereo, especially with headsets, almost required.

Marin Cities Elect Their Councilmen

10 Municipalities Slated To Go To Polls Tuesday

By FRANK FARRARA

Tuesday will be the day when voters in 10 cities in Marin will have their say on city government, electing city councilmen.

There's no lack of competition with 50 candidates running for 24 open seats, and only Ross having an uncontested election.

San Rafael, a charter city, is the only city in Marin without an election Tuesday.

A STRONG FIELD of challengers, most making their first bid for public office, is assured of gaining some seats since seven incumbents have decided not to run for re-election.

Among those leaving the scene are Jan Paul Dyk of Sausalito and Mayor Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley.

In Belvedere, both incumbents whose terms expire, Sally Matthews and John R. Moore, have bowed out, leaving the field to three new candidates. A fourth contender announced his withdrawal from the race late last week.

In Tiburon, two of the three incumbents, Thomas E. Drohan and William R. Bremer, decided not to run, opening the way for a six-candidate race.

ARTHUR W. SMITH, a 25-year member of the San Anselmo City Council, will be making a comeback try after his defeat two years ago.

Smith will be in heavy going as the city is having a seven candidate race for three council seats.

Sausalito has six candidates in a race for two council spots, including veteran campaigners Marsha Owen, known as Sally Stanford, and artist Serge Trubach, who have enlivened but lost campaigns in the past decade.

Novato, as usual, has come up with a large field of candidates, seven for two seats, including the incumbents Mayor Harley A. McAskill and former mayor M. E. Silva.

LARKSPUR HAS one of the smaller fields with incumbents Neil R. Brixon and Alfred J. Malvino opposed only by Raymond C. Kesner, best known as head of the local Support Your Police Committee.

The field in Corte Madera is evenly divided in a six-man

THE NOVATO City Hall is one of 11 municipal seats of government in Marin County where city councils assemble to set policy and conduct the business of their jurisdictions. On Tuesday, citizens of 10 of these 11 cities will be going to the polls to elect some of the men and women who will sit on those councils. Two Southern Sonoma County municipalities also hold elections. Today's Independent-Journal Marin Magazine is a handbook for the voters, detailing the backgrounds and the platforms of the candidates. All candidates were invited to submit photographs, biographies and statements of their programs. Most complied. Where pictures or other material does not appear, it was not supplied.

Voting Age, School Taxes On Ballots

Special Measures Arouse Interest In 3 Localities

Mill Valley voters again will have a chance to voice their opinions on a national issue when they ballot Tuesday on a proposal to lower the voting age to 18.

Two years ago city residents had a referendum calling for an orderly withdrawal from the Vietnam war and it was passed by a vote of 1,863 to 1,433.

The Mill Valley Youth Commission hopes that a favorable vote will give impetus to an initiative campaign for a statewide referendum in November to lower the voting age in California to 18.

MILL VALLEY also will have a chance to decide whether city councilmen, who now receive no salary, should be paid $150 a month.

There will be special elections Tuesday in two school districts, Novato Unified and Dixie, both seeking voter approval to hike tax rates.

In the Novato district voters will decide on a measure to raise the general purpose tax rate 85 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, for four years.

The general purpose rate is now $3.481 per $100, but with overrides and bond repayment the total district tax rate is $5.345.

IN THE DIXIE District voters will be asked to approve a 50-cent increase in the general operating tax rate and a hike in bond interest from 5 to 7 per cent.

The general operating tax rate limit is now $3.35 per $100 assessed valuation and the total district tax rate is $3.995.

The district is seeking a hike in the bond interest because $1,495,000 in bonds authorized two years ago at 5 per cent interest have not been saleable at that rate.

Only Ross Is Without Contest For Its Council

Ross will be the only city in Marin with uncontested council seats at stake in Tuesday's municipal election.

Seeking re-election unopposed are Mayor Frederick S. Allen and Vice Mayor Roy Farrington Jones.

Here are profiles of the candidates:

FREDERICK S. ALLEN, 57, was appointed to the council in 1960 and elected to four-year terms in 1962 and 1966. A retired Navy commander, he served in World War II and the Korean War. A resident of Ross since 1946, he lives at 131 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. He is a member of the American Society of Naval Engineers, the American Ordance Association, the California State Firemen's Association, the Ross Volunteer Fire Department and the Marin Audubon Society.

ROY FARRINGTON JONES, 45, was elected to four-year terms on the council in 1962 and 1966 and also has served as a member of the Town of Ross Citizens Advisory Committee and as director of the Town of Ross Property Owners Association. He is a partner in the realty firm of Farrington Jones and Son and an appraiser. He served in the Navy Hospital Corps in World War II, is a member of the Marin County Real Estate Board and the American Rights of Way Association and is a life member of the Marin County Historical Society. He lives at 20 Olive Avenue.

Novato Has Seven In Race

Novato will have a seven-candidate race on Tuesday for two city council seats with the aspirants including incumbents, former candidates and newcomers to the political ring.

The candidates are:

JOSEPH BONOMOLO, 53, owner of a gasoline service station, is making his third try for the city council, having run in 1966 and 1968.

A native of New York City, he has lived in California for 31 years and operated a garage in San Francisco before moving to Novato seven years ago.

Bonomolo said he believes that planning should be long-term, should make provision for open space and green belt areas, and should include sites for industry compatible with Novato.

He also urged that all special districts be consolidated, but that annexation be achieved slowly," so it would be to the benefit of all.

One of the organizers of the Boys Club of Novato, Bonomolo advocated that the city include the youth of the community in its planning.

Bonomolo has served as president of the Novato Fair Merchants Association and the San Marin Improvement Association, and is a member of the Italian Catholic Federation, the Knights of Columbus and the Salesian Boys Club.

Bonomolo and his wife, Celeste, live at 201 San Felipe Way and have five children.

WILFRED H. LIEB, 45, a rancher and businessman, is making his second try for the council, after finishing as a runner-up two years ago.

Lieb, a resident of Novato for 40 years, said he would "strive to provide the leadership needed to create a desirable environment."

He has served as a director of the Marin County Farm Bureau and the Novato Volunteer Firemen, and is a past president of the Marin County Firemen's Association.

Lieb holds an associate of arts degree in mechanical engineering from the College of Marin and has engaged in engineering survey work.

He is a veteran of World War II, having served two years in the South Pacific. He is single and lives at 1521 Hill Road.

BETTY JEANNE MACHADO, 45, who served on the city's first parks and recreation commission, will be making her second bid for the city council, having been a candidate in 1966.

Mrs. Machado is a member of the Novato Republican Women's Club, Novato Federated Women's Club, Rancho Parent-Teacher Association and Toastmistress Club.

Mrs. Machado, who regularly attends meetings of the council and other public bodies, said: "I strongly feel I have remained on the fringe long enough. To be effective, I now require a vote on council level. Too many things are taking place that require a person with memory and a knowledge of the background."

Mrs. Machado, who worked for incorporation of Novato, was a member of the home-rule committee and the city seal committee.

She feels there should be a woman on the council to provide "a better balance of opinion."

Mrs. Machado, her husband, John, and their two children, live at 1424 Dawes Street.

HARLEY A. McASKILL, 47, elected to the council in 1966, and mayor for the past two years, is seeking re-election to another four-year term.

McAskill, operator of a men's wear store for 17 years, recently liquidated his business, saying he would probably remain in the men's clothing trade.

He said he wants more improvement to the city streets and a broadening of the tax base through property development.

A native of Petaluma, he was graduated from Santa Rosa Junior College and served in the Navy in the South Pacific in World War II.

McAskill is a member of the Elks, the Novato Druids, the Novato Chamber of Commerce and Novato Rotary Club. He was chairman of the first Novato Planning Commission.

McAskill and his wife, Betty, live at 291 San Felipe Way and have two sons.

GEORGE C. QUESADA, 44, is chairman of the Novato Planning Commission, and an architect in San Francisco.

A native of Dayton, Ohio, he has been a resident of Novato since 1967, and serves on the plan review committee, the downtown study committee and the city-county planning council.

Quesada said he believes in keeping taxes down, eliminating tax inequities, proper annexation, better streets, parks and housing and "law and order."

He termed himself a firm believer in planning and said "We must preserve as we develop, and we must develop."

He earned a bachelor's degree from the University of California at Los Angeles and a master's degree from the University of California at Berkeley.

Quesada is a member of the Telegraph Hill Dwellers Association and Inverness Improvement Association.

He and his wife, Ellen, live at 1860 Virginia Avenue.

F. WAYNE SARTAIN, 37, is vice chairman of the Novato Planning Commission, and a founder of the North Marin Federation of Homeowners Association.

A printer, he has been employed as monotype supervisor for Mackenzie and Harris in San Francisco for the past 12 years.

Sartain also is a founder and past president of the San Marin Improvement Association and chairman of the Citizens Finance Advisory Committee to the Novato Unified School District.

"If we do not have a strong tax base, we cannot educate our children or function as a city," Sartain said.

"This base cannot be established without a strong downtown area," he said, pledging to work for progressive development.

Sartain and his wife, Bea, have lived at 141 San Felipe Way for the past six years. They have three children.

M.E. (BABE) SILVA, 63, a retired field representative for Borden Milk Co. and an incumbent, will be seeking his third term on the council.

Silva was elected to the council when Novato was incorporated in 1960, and served as mayor in 1962-64. He was defeated in 1964, but regained his seat with a comeback win in 1966.

Born in Marinwood, he has lived most of his life in Novato, and was active in the organization of the Novato Fire District, Novato Sanitary District and North Marin Water District.

He is a member of the Novato Chamber of Commerce, Novato Rotary Club and the Elks and the Druids.

He is a life member of the Parent-Teacher Association and the Novato Little League.

Silva said he had considered running for county supervisor but felt "there is a greater need for my continued services to the city of Novato which is still my first love."

He said he wants to retain his seat to help in projects in the formative state, such as street improvement, recreation development and planning.

Silva and his wife, Marion, live at 837 Sweetser Avenue, and have two sons.

"What Caused The Spots On My Husband's Shirts?"

You might guess the answer to your question. The spots are caused by man's recent return to the use of perfume. Most of the world's gentry used unguents and perfume from the time of the Egyptian Pharoahs to the French Revolution to disguise body odors and affect masculinity. Until recently, American men for the most part depended upon soap and talcum powder to keep smelling fresh. Today, however, young men use cologne as a deodorant and it might be well if some of our elderly males gave serious thought to the practice.

But to get back to your question, Mrs. R. P. R., the same caution advanced to the ladies for years, applies to the men. Do not apply cologne or perfume to a fabric. The alcohol in cologne can affect the dye causing the spots you observed in your husband's colored shirts. Cologne's oil can cause yellowish or brown stains in white shirts. I would suggest that your husband be warned to apply cologne only to his skin and not to any fabric. If he does those particular spots will not appear again.

Novato Has Seven In Race

Novato will have a seven-candidate race on Tuesday for two city council seats with the aspirants including incumbents, former candidates and newcomers to the political ring.

The candidates are:

JOSEPH BONOMOLO, 53, owner of a gasoline service station, is making his third try for the city council, having run in 1966 and 1968.

A native of New York City, he has lived in California for 31 years and operated a garage in San Francisco before moving to Novato seven years ago.

Bonomolo said he believes that planning should be long-term, should make provision for open space and green belt areas, and should include sites for industry compatible with Novato.

He also urged that all special districts be consolidated, but that annexation be achieved slowly," so it would be to the benefit of all.

One of the organizers of the Boys Club of Novato, Bonomolo advocated that the city include the youth of the community in its planning.

Bonomolo has served as president of the Novato Fair Merchants Association and the San Marin Improvement Association, and is a member of the Italian Catholic Federation, the Knights of Columbus and the Salesian Boys Club.

Bonomolo and his wife, Celeste, live at 201 San Felipe Way and have five children.

WILFRED H. LIEB, 45, a rancher and businessman, is making his second try for the council, after finishing as a runner-up two years ago.

There's A Three-Men Field In Larkspur

Two Incumbents Seek To Retain Council Positions

There will be a three-way race for two seats on the Larkspur City Council Tuesday with two incumbents in the running.

Mayor Neil R. Brixon and Councilman Alfred J. Malvino will be seeking re-election, while Raymond C. Kesner will be making his first bid for the council.

NEIL R. BRIXON, 49, of 475 South Eliseo Way, has been a member of the council since 1960 and has served three years as chairman of the Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen.

He is the owner of Elite Rug Cleaners in Larkspur and a member of the Larkspur Chamber of Commerce and the Larkspur Lions Club.

Brixon said he is seeking another term because he is interested "in following up the Corte Madera Creek flood control project to make sure it does not change from what it started out to be as far as the City of Larkspur is concerned — particularly in regard to its cost to the taxpayers."

He also said he would like to help complete revamping of the downtown section and the development of the Greenbrae commercial area.

A native of Hawley, Minn., Brixon has been a resident of Marin since 1949. He serves on the Advisory Board of Corte Madera Flood Control Project, Zone 9.

He and his wife, Velma live at 475 South Eliseo Way and have two children.

NEIL R. BRIXON
The Larkspur mayor

RAYMOND C. KESNER, a retired Army sergeant, is a correctional officer at San Quentin Prison.

He is chairman of the Larkspur Support Your Local Police Committee, a committee of the John Birch Society.

Kesner said he was prompted to run "because of the lackadaisical attitude of some members of our present council toward the threat of federal control over our local police."

Kesner said he also is "concerned about the growing tendency among our public officials at all levels of government to jeopardize our freedom by acceding to the destructive social experiments, desires and demands of a federal bureaucracy."

He advocated withdrawal of Larkspur from the Association of Bay Area Governments, and opposed federal projects "such as Vista, Office of Economic Opportunity, low income housing and subsidized rentals."

Kesner also opposed "the creation of such commissions as youth, human rights or any others that are designed to serve the interest of special groups at the expense of the taxpayers."

A resident of Larkspur for 13 years, he lives at 113 Sycamore Avenue.

ALFRED J. MALVINO
Councilman since '66

ALFRED J. MALVINO, 53, of 87 Dartmouth Drive, has been a member of the council since 1966, and served as mayor in 1968.

Owner of Malvino Furniture Co. in San Francisco, he has been a resident of Larkspur for 14 years and has been active in youth programs.

"I have consistently worked to secure the maximum use of the tax dollar for the benefit of our community," Malvino said. "The future development of our city is the most pressing problem before us, and I will continue to seek an orderly development of our community with the prime purpose of conserving our natural beauty."

He has been a member of the Corte Madera Flood Control Advisory Board for two years, represents the council at the Association of Bay Area Governments, and was elected by the Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen to serve on the City-County Services Committee which is seeking a more equitable tax structure in city and county services.

All New Faces In The Belvedere Contest

Two Council Incumbents Decide Not To Run Again

No matter what the outcome, Belvedere will have two new councilmen from its field of three candidates in Tuesday's balloting.

All in the field are newcomers as the incumbents, Sally Matthews and John R. Moore, decided not to seek re-election.

Vying for the two open seats are Beatrice S. Mann, Willard G. Pittman and Allan Satinau.

The name of Vernon E. Perry, a municipal consultant division manager for J. Barth and Co., San Francisco, will also appear upon the ballot. However he announced late last week that he was withdrawing as a candidate because of the pressure of business. The announcement was made at a candidates' night gathering.

Here's a rundown on the three candidates:

BEATRICE S. MANN, 55, of 26 Lagoon Road, is a member of the Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission.

A native of Hazleton, Pa., she has been a resident of Belvedere for seven years. She is a board member of the Marin Conservation League, the Tiburon Peninsula Advisory Committee and the Women's Auxiliary, San Francisco Yacht Club.

Mrs. Mann, wife of Dr. Samuel J. Mann, Belvedere optometrist, said she is running on a program for flood control for Belvedere.

"I feel the most pressing problem facing the city at this time is the drainage problem," she said. "We cannot let another year slip by without taking concrete steps to correct this matter, either with or without Tiburon's help."

Mrs. Mann is opposed to a four-lane highway proposed by the State Division of Highways along Tiburon Boulevard, and favored undergrounding of utility lines in Belvedere.

In 1965 Mrs. Mann was instrumental in getting Lagoon Road residents together to beautify the street with 240 pine trees.

She believes Belvedere should assist Tiburon in its condemnation suit to acquire Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way for a bicycle path.

BEATRICE S. MANN
Drainage a necessity

WILLARD G. PITTMAN, 59, of 456 Belvedere Avenue, a food broker, is a board member of the Belvedere-Tiburon Landmarks Society.

During World War II, Pittman was food controller for the War Shipping Administration in the Pacific area, and after the war went into the food brokerage business in San Francisco. He moved his office to Tiburon in 1966.

He has pledged to work for flood control, tax economies and maintenance of the beauty of the city "with particular emphasis on conservation and resistance to urbanization."

WILLARD G. PITTMAN
For flood control

A Belvedere resident for 10 years, Pittman attended Ross Grammar School and Tamalpais School for Boys in San Rafael in his early years.

He is a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley and served as president of the Northern California Food Brokers Association in 1960.

ALLAN STEINAU, 43, of 32 Windward Road, an architect, is a former chairman of the Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission.

A resident of Belvedere for 16 years, Steinau is a past commodore of the Belvedere Sailing Society and a past president of the Belvedere Lagoon Property Owners Association.

ALLAN STEINAU
The needs are listed

He is campaigning on a platform to find solutions "to continuous problems, and needs", which he listed as sewage system, flood control, joint action with Tiburon, possible tax economies and a master plan to enable the city to qualify for federal flood control funds.

Steinau is vice president of the Tiburon-Belvedere Landmarks Society, assistant scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop No. 9 and a member of Order of the Arrow of the scouting organization.

Small Field Of Three On The Mill Valley Council Ballot

Tuesday's race for two seats on the Mill Valley City Council finds three candidates still in the running after a fourth hopeful was ruled off the ballot because he didn't meet the residency requirement.

In the race are incumbent Edward J. Boessenecker; Jean Barnard, former chairman of the Park and Recreation Commission, and Dolph F. Jaeger, real estate salesman.

Mayor Dean N. Meyer isn't seeking re-election, and Philip Williams, a pre-law student at San Francisco State College, who filed to run, was ruled ineligible by City Atty. Leland H. Jordan.

Here's a rundown on the candidates:

JEAN BARNARD served on the Mill Valley Park and Recreation Commission for five years and was its chairman for the past two years before resigning in January.

Mrs. Barnard said her chief interest is "good government. This means to me efficiency and economy, through a tight budget, and also through very careful assessment of the long-range impact of proposed developments on the people, business community, quality of life and natural beauty of our town."

Mrs. Barnard is a life member of the Sierra Club, a 20-year member of the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin and a member of the Marin Conservation League and Tamalpais Conservation Club.

She is civics and conservation chairman of the Outdoor Art Club, and organist at the Mill Valley Community Church.

Mrs. Barnard, who lives at 1 El Capitan, is a Vassar graduate and a Mill Valley resident since 1946. She is the wife of John R. Barnard and they have two sons.

EDWARD J. BOESSENECKER, 49, of 4 Hollyhock Court, a former member of the city planning commission, was appointed to the council in October.

An attorney practicing in San Francisco, he has been a resident of Mill Valley for 16 years. He was appointed to the planning commission in 1962 and served as its chairman in 1966 and 1967.

Boessenecker said he has been deeply involved as a commissioner and councilman with protecting and preserving Mill Valley's unique qualities.

"Mill Valley has some of its most serious problems facing it now, such as properly development of the North Ridge and Marina areas, the pollution of our bay by an overburdened sewage system, the Miller Avenue slide, flood control and drainage," he said. "With my experience as a resident long active in community affairs, I believe I can make a contribution to their solution."

DOLPH F. JAEGER, 44, a retired naval officer and Sausalito real estate salesman, has lived in Mill Valley since 1962.

He retired from the Navy in June, 1968, after 24 years of service, including World War II, Korean War and Vietnam War, and held five commands.

"I would like to maintain the character, image and reputation of Mill Valley as the finest possible place to live," Jaeger said. "Our unique recreational facilities need protection and proper planning for development. We need to develop and encourage our business community without destroying the atmosphere of Mill Valley, and we need the best possible police protection for our families and our homes."

All New Faces In The Belvedere Contest

Two Council Incumbents Decide Not To Run Again

No matter what the outcome, Belvedere will have two new councilmen from its field of three candidates in Tuesday's balloting.

All in the field are newcomers as the incumbents, Sally Matthews and John R. Moore, decided not to seek re-election.

Vying for the two open seats are Beatrice S. Mann, Willard G. Pittman and Allan Satinau.

The name of Vernon E. Perry, a municipal consultant division manager for J. Barth and Co., San Francisco, will also appear upon the ballot. However he announced late last week that he was withdrawing as a candidate because of the pressure of business. The announcement was made at a candidates' night gathering.

Here's a rundown on the three candidates:

BEATRICE S. MANN, 55, of 26 Lagoon Road, is a member of the Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission.

A native of Hazleton, Pa., she has been a resident of Belvedere for seven years. She is a board member of the Marin Conservation League, the Tiburon Peninsula Advisory Committee and the Women's Auxiliary, San Francisco Yacht Club.

Mrs. Mann, wife of Dr. Samuel J. Mann, Belvedere optometrist, said she is running on a program for flood control for Belvedere.

"I feel the most pressing problem facing the city at this time is the drainage problem," she said. "We cannot let another year slip by without taking concrete steps to correct this matter, either with or without Tiburon's help."

Mrs. Mann is opposed to a four-lane highway proposed by the State Division of Highways along Tiburon Boulevard, and favored undergrounding of utility lines in Belvedere.

In 1965 Mrs. Mann was instrumental in getting Lagoon Road residents together to beautify the street with 240 pine trees.

She believes Belvedere should assist Tiburon in its condemnation suit to acquire Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way for a bicycle path.

WILLARD G. PITTMAN, 59, of 456 Belvedere Avenue, a food broker, is a board member of the Belvedere-Tiburon Landmarks Society.

During World War II, Pittman was food controller for the War Shipping Administration in the Pacific area, and after the war went into the food brokerage business in San Francisco. He moved his office to Tiburon in 1966.

He has pledged to work for flood control, tax economies and maintenance of the beauty of the city "with particular emphasis on conservation and resistance to urbanization."

A Belvedere resident for 10 years, Pittman attended Ross Grammar School and Tamalpais School for Boys in San Rafael in his early years.

He is a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley and served as president of the Northern California Food Brokers Association in 1960.

ALLAN STEINAU, 43, of 32 Windward Road, an architect, is a former chairman of the Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission.

A resident of Belvedere for 16 years, Steinau is a past commodore of the Belvedere Sailing Society and a past president of the Belvedere Lagoon Property Owners Association.

He is campaigning on a platform to find solutions "to continuous problems, and needs", which he listed as sewage system, flood control, joint action with Tiburon, possible tax economies and a master plan to enable the city to qualify for federal flood control funds.

Steinau is vice president of the Tiburon-Belvedere Landmarks Society, assistant scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop No. 9 and a member of Order of the Arrow of the scouting organization.

Small Field Of Three On The Mill Valley Council Ballot

Tuesday's race for two seats on the Mill Valley City Council finds three candidates still in the running after a fourth hopeful was ruled off the ballot because he didn't meet the residency requirement.

In the race are incumbent Edward J. Boessenecker; Jean Barnard, former chairman of the Park and Recreation Commission, and Dolph F. Jaeger, real estate salesman.

Mayor Dean N. Meyer isn't seeking re-election, and Philip Williams, a pre-law student at San Francisco State College, who filed to run, was ruled ineligible by City Atty. Leland H. Jordan.

Here's a rundown on the candidates:

JEAN BARNARD served on the Mill Valley Park and Recreation Commission for five years and was its chairman for the past two years before resigning in January.

Mrs. Barnard said her chief interest is "good government. This means to me efficiency and economy, through a tight budget, and also through very careful assessment of the long-range impact of proposed developments on the people, business community, quality of life and natural beauty of our town."

Mrs. Barnard is a life member of the Sierra Club, a 20-year member of the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin and a member of the Marin Conservation League and Tamalpais Conservation Club.

She is civics and conservation chairman of the Outdoor Art Club, and organist at the Mill Valley Community Church.

Mrs. Barnard, who lives at 1 El Capitan, is a Vassar graduate and a Mill Valley resident since 1946. She is the wife of John R. Barnard and they have two sons.

EDWARD J. BOESSENECKER, 49, of 4 Hollyhock Court, a former member of the city planning commission, was appointed to the council in October.

An attorney practicing in San Francisco, he has been a resident of Mill Valley for 16 years. He was appointed to the planning commission in 1962 and served as its chairman in 1966 and 1967.

Boessenecker said he has been deeply involved as a commissioner and councilman with protecting and preserving Mill Valley's unique qualities.

"Mill Valley has some of its most serious problems facing it now, such as properly development of the North Ridge and Marina areas, the pollution of our bay by an overburdened sewage system, the Miller Avenue slide, flood control and drainage," he said. "With my experience as a resident long active in community affairs, I believe I can make a contribution to their solution."

Seven Candidates Stage Spirited San Anselmo Council Campaign

One of the largest 1970 municipal election fields in Marin, seven candidates, will be vying Tuesday for three seats on the San Anselmo City Council in a spirited race marked by a comeback try by long-time councilman Arthur W. Smith.

Incumbents Woodrow V. Capurro and Duane Ragan will be seeking re-election, but incumbent Robert M. Scott is not a candidate.

Challengers are Dr. Martin G. Blinder, Sarah Nome, Warren R. Perry, Lewis W. Stewart and Smith.

Here is a rundown on the candidates:

MARTIN G. BLINDER, 33, a psychiatrist with offices in San Anselmo and San Francisco, is a member of the San Anselmo Human Rights "miniboard."

He is medical director of the Family Therapy Institute in San Rafael, a clinical professor at the University of California at Berkeley and a teacher at the Mendocino and Napa state hospitals and the Pacific Medical Center.

Dr. Blinder said that with the Hub City's population expected to double in the next 30 years, "we must take pains now to protect our smalltown charm from the ugliness, dirt and strife afflicting so many of our American cities.

He said he wants "tougher controls on building design," preservation of open spaces and creation of mini-parks and safe bicycle paths.

"We must keep the Army out of our creek until we have a plan that will stop, not just move, the flooding, while still preserving the creek's beauty."

Dr. Blinder, who practices organic gardening, proposed free garden trash collection and establishment of a community compost pile.

He and his wife, Dorothy, live at 50 Idalia Court and have one daughter. A native of New York, he has lived in the Bay Area for 10 years and in San Anselmo for 18 months after residing in Sausalito.

WOODROW V. CAPURRO, 49, a superintendent for the Weber Plastering Co. of San Rafael, has been a member of the council since 1962 and is currently serving as San Anselmo's mayor.

Capurro, a resident of San Anselmo for 33 years, is a member of the Wade Thomas and Red Hill parent-teacher associations, the joint school board-city council committee, and the City-County Planning Council.

He is a former president of Lathers Union Local 268, the Club Italia and Rafael Racquet Club, and a charter member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars post in San Anselmo.

"I will continue to work endlessly to keep San Anselmo a residential community, to protect our beautiful hillsides and valleys and to retain our natural setting," he said.

"I oppose overstaffing and unnecessary spending of public funds and I have never voted for a tax increase in our budget," Capurro asserted. He pledged to enhance the city's natural environment, to maintain local autonomy and to "keep San Anselmo free of super-highways and concrete ditches."

He and his wife, Jermaine, live at 79 Lincoln Avenue and have two children.

SARAH NOME, a registrar at the San Francisco Maritime Museum, has lived most of her life in San Anselmo.

She said she is dedicated to a harmonious business climate in San Anselmo and to preserving the "rural aspect of our town."

"I have opposed the piecemeal street work at our Hub intersection, particularly since we have spent twice more than the job was originally estimated as costing in January, 1969, and consequently we have expended our entire allotment of accumulated gas tax funds."

Mrs. Nome said she is convinced that the city's public works budget "is far too high for a city our size," and that "it would be disastrous to consider a full-time planner in addition to the three full-time engineers and inspectors that the city now supports."

Mrs. Nome is a member of the Women's Propellor Club, the Navy League of America, the American Association of Museums and the San Anselmo Homes Association.

A widow, she is the mother of two children, and lives at 77 Alder Avenue.

WARREN R. PERRY, 39, a San Rafael attorney, has been a member of the San Anselmo Planning Commission since 1963 and was chairman in 1966 and 1967.

He is a partner in the firm of Pendergrass and Perry, a director of the Marin County Bar Association and a member of the California and American bar associations.

Perry, a native of San Anselmo, contended there has been a lack of direction and consistency in the city's growth "as well as in the administration of the city government."

The main issues facing San Anselmo, he said, are flood control and salvation of the creek, traffic and transportation, and "direction of city government."

He said the creek should not be sacrificed in the name of efficient flood control, and that he is "absolutely opposed" to any state highway, such as Highway 17, going through San Anselmo.

Perry served as a Marine lieutenant from 1953-55. He was graduated from the University of California at Berkeley and the Golden Gate Law School.

He and his wife, Jane, live at 15 Barber Avenue and have three sons.

DUANE C. RAGAN, 58, a department sales manager at the Emporium in Northgate, was elected to the council in 1966 and served as mayor in 1968.

A retired Army master sergeant, he served on the San Anselmo planning commission before joining the council.

He is a past president of the Marin County Foster Parents Association, a member of San Anselmo Homes Association and has been active in Little League, Junior and Senior League baseball.

A native of Columbus, Ohio, he has lived in San Anselmo for 15 years.

Ragan said his decision to seek re-election was based on his "desire to help contribute to the continuance of good government in our community," and contended that there have been many improvements in the past four years.

Ragan and his wife, Helen, live at 457 Laurel Avenue, and have two sons and a daughter.

ARTHUR W. SMITH, 69, owner of a variety store in San Anselmo from 1941 to 1967 and now employed as a salesman in a San Anselmo hardware store, served 25 years on the council, including 12 years as mayor, before being defeated in 1968.

He is a native of Los Angeles, attended business college in San Francisco and operated a wholesale dye house there before coming to San Anselmo.

He and his wife have resided at 15 Bank Street since 1938, and they have three grown children and eight grandchildren.

He is a member of numerous Masonic groups, a former president of the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce and past director of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District.

Smith has said that the undertaking of a master plan for San Anselmo, based upon his past experience, "would be a definite waste of city and federal monies." He has urged that action to prevent the annual flood damage threat to homes and business be taken without further delay, and that he hopes some alternative plan other than a concrete ditch running through the town can be devised.

He has advocated, too, a revival of a long range drainage plan "set up years ago, the first phase of which was the culvert under Tamalpais Avenue to drain the water from the Laurel Canyon area." This, he says, has prevented several downtown floods that formerly occurred even before the creek overflowed.

The plan, said Smith, called for additional culverts in the lower San Anselmo Avenue areas.

LEWIS E. STEWART, 35, is a community development consultant for Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

He was an organizer and keynote speaker for San Anselmo's 1969 Town Meeting and is serving as a board member of the reorganized San Anselmo Festival for 1970.

Stewart said the "present makeup of the city council doesn't reflect an ability to see San Anselmo as a whole community. Decisions are fragmented, without regard to their consequences on the total environment."

Noting the city's problems, he said:

Traffic clogs the streets. Housing at reasonable cost is scarce. Park and recreational land is only minimally developed and hence receives little use. San Anselmo business needs stimulation for a healthier economy. City facilities, most notably the police and fire departments, are cramped and badly in need of renovation for greater efficiency. There is an urgent need for improvement of storm drains, and certain needs for flood control.

He emphasized that it is important that residents take part in the planning and the decisions that will affect them.

A native of Marysville, Stewart has lived in San Anselmo for six years. He is a graduate of the University of the Pacific and Brooks Institute of Photography. He and his wife, Barbara, and their three children live at 130 Madrone Avenue.

Six Compete In Corte Madera

Voters Will Pick Three For Town Council Jobs

The Corte Madera Town Council race to be decided Tuesday has twice as many candidates as there are seats open, six competing for three vacancies.

Three incumbents seeking re-election are Edward W. Colthurst, Holmes S. Norville and Harold B. Wagstaff.

The three challengers are David I. Freed, an attorney; Patricia Friend, a housewife, and Heber C. Leney, a retired attorney.

Short sketches of the council candidates follow:

EDWARD W. COLTHURST, 61, of 480 Montecito Drive, has served 12 years on the council including nine as mayor, one year in 1960-61 and then continuously since 1962.

Before being elected in 1958, he served three years on the town planning commission.

Colthurst is a vice president of Mipro Corp. of South San Francisco. A native of San Francisco, he has lived in Corte Madera since 1948. He served overseas in World War II as a combat infantry officer.

He serves on the Ross Valley Flood Control Advisory Board and formerly served on the Marin Transit District Board, representing cities in Marin.

He is a member of the Corte Madera Lions Club and former president of the Corte Madera Volunteer Firemen. Colthurst and his wife Ivy have two children.

In support of his candidacy, he pointed to the "giant strides" which he said the city has made under his leadership, including a regional library, "a fine, exciting park," recreation programs, public buildings, "strong police and fire departments," street improvements, continuing town beautification . . ."

All these, he said, have been accomplished with tax reductions made possible by "excellent money management."

If re-elected, he promised to devote his energy and leadership talents to provide effective flood control, a broader recreation program, yet stronger police and fire protection, and continued beautification and conservation projects.

DAVID I. FREED, 27, is acting president of the Marina Village Homeowners' Association.

A native of Chicago, Freed is a graduate of the Boalt Hall School of Law at the University of California at Berkeley and practices law in San Francisco.

Freed said he believes the town needs a new flood control plan, since the existing plan is 15 years old, and that the town's master plan and zoning ordinances need to be reviewed.

Regarding tidelands, he said, "The last of our town's open space and access to the water's edge are about to disappear. When development comes, we must protect these assets. Any plans for a ferry terminal in our town must be closely watched."

He also advocated a long range plan for development of the police and fire departments. "The level of protection provided by our police and fire departments continue to be below that of other Marin cities and must be improved."

Freed is a committeeman with Boy Scout Troop 90. He, his wife, Elaine, and their children, Mark, 6, and Deborah, 3, live at 35 Harbor Drive.

PATRICIA FRIEND, 48, of 25 Rocklyn Court, a housewife, has been active in several local organizations.

She spent eight years on the Twin Cities Little League board, served as recording secretary and hospitality chairman of the Neil Cummins Parent-Teacher Association, was an assistant Brownie leader and an assistant Cub Scout den mother.

Mrs. Friend said she would make no campaign promises and had no pre-conceived ideas — "only to give an honest appraisal and investigation to the problems as they occur, and a promise to keep the future of a dignified, friendly, warm and beautiful town intact."

A native of San Francisco, Mrs. Friend has lived in Corte Madera for 16 years and has five children. During World War II she worked as a receptionist for the Army Corps of Engineers, and formerly worked for the Bank of California, Macy's and the Emporium. She also served as a dealer service representative for Swift and Co.'s processed meat division.

HERBER C. LENEY, 61, of 318 Golden Hind Passage, is a member of the Corte Madera Sanitary Commission and past president of Sanitary District No. 2, which was taken over by the town.

Leney, a retired Army officer, also is a member of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission.

"I have supported and will continue to urge unification of sewer treatment facilities and collection agencies in order to stop pollution in the bay," Leney said. "I will work for flood control measures in order to protect public and private property as well as to beautify the bay front, the lagoons and the waterways of San Clemente Creek."

Leney also said he would support rapid transit, tax reform, recreation for all residents and adequate police and fire protection.

A native of Union City, Okla., Leney has been a resident of Corte Madera for 10 years and is a past president of the Mariner Cove Improvement Association.

HOLMES S. NORVILLE, 44, of 126 Granada Drive, has been a member of the council since he was elected in 1966.

An engineer, he is supervisor of corporate tool engineering for the Hexcel Corp. of Dublin, Alameda County.

He is a past president of Marin Estates Homeowners Association and has been a resident of Corte Madera for 12 years.

Norville said he is particularly concerned about "improved flood control, preservation of development of natural features which enhance the town, and the development of regional government which is better able to cope with regional problems such as bay fill, air pollution, refuse disposal, rapid transit and commuter buses and ferries."

A lieutenant commander in the Naval Reserve, he was on active duty from 1943 to 1947 and from 1950 to 1960 and received the Korean Order of Merit "Chung-Mu" for his service as an adviser to the Korean Navy from 1950-52.

HAROLD B. WAGSTAFF
Bicycling is best

A native of Albuquerque, N. M., he was graduated from Iowa State College, Ames, Ia.

HAROLD B. WAGSTAFF, 53, is an architect, a partner in the firm of Wagstaff and McDonald in San Anselmo.

He was elected to the council in 1966 after serving seven years on the planning commission and eight years on the town board of design.

A native of San Francisco, he has lived in Corte Madera since 1951, and is a member of the town volunteer fire department and the San Anselmo Rotary Club.

Wagstaff and his wife, Elinor, live at 472 Montecito Drive, and have three children.

Wagstaff, who has been cycling around the town during his campaign with a "fight smog" sign on his bicycle, believes Corte Madera is one of the best towns in Marin for bicycling.

On the state of the town in general, he said, "People should work and move around in the county as I do in my daily work to fully appreciate the blessings, which the town of Corte Madera enjoys, both physically and financially.

"This happy situation has happened not in just the last three or four years, but through the worthwhile, long-range goals set by previous councils and commissions. We would like to feel that we have shared in the continuance of these worthy and positive goals."

Six Compete In Corte Madera

Voters Will Pick Three For Town Council Jobs

The Corte Madera Town Council race to be decided Tuesday has twice as many candidates as there are seats open, six competing for three vacancies.

Three incumbents seeking re-election are Edward W. Colthurst, Holmes S. Norville and Harold B. Wagstaff.

The three challengers are David I. Freed, an attorney; Patricia Friend, a housewife, and Heber C. Leney, a retired attorney.

Short sketches of the council candidates follow:

EDWARD W. COLTHURST, 61, of 480 Montecito Drive, has served 12 years on the council including nine as mayor, one year in 1960-61 and then continuously since 1962.

Before being elected in 1958, he served three years on the town planning commission.

Colthurst is a vice president of Mipro Corp. of South San Francisco. A native of San Francisco, he has lived in Corte Madera since 1948. He served overseas in World War II as a combat infantry officer.

He serves on the Ross Valley Flood Control Advisory Board and formerly served on the Marin Transit District Board, representing cities in Marin.

He is a member of the Corte Madera Lions Club and former president of the Corte Madera Volunteer Firemen. Colthurst and his wife Ivy have two children.

In support of his candidacy, he pointed to the "giant strides" which he said the city has made under his leadership, including a regional library, "a fine, exciting park," recreation programs, public buildings, "strong police and fire departments," street improvements, continuing town beautification . . ."

All these, he said, have been accomplished with tax reductions made possible by "excellent money management."

If re-elected, he promised to devote his energy and leadership talents to provide effective flood control, a broader recreation program, yet stronger police and fire protection, and continued beautification and conservation projects.

DAVID I. FREED, 27, is acting president of the Marina Village Homeowners' Association.

A native of Chicago, Freed is a graduate of the Boalt Hall School of Law at the University of California at Berkeley and practices law in San Francisco.

Freed said he believes the town needs a new flood control plan, since the existing plan is 15 years old, and that the town's master plan and zoning ordinances need to be reviewed.

Regarding tidelands, he said, "The last of our town's open space and access to the water's edge are about to disappear. When development comes, we must protect these assets. Any plans for a ferry terminal in our town must be closely watched."

He also advocated a long range plan for development of the police and fire departments. "The level of protection provided by our police and fire departments continue to be below that of other Marin cities and must be improved."

Freed is a committeeman with Boy Scout Troop 90. He, his wife, Elaine, and their children, Mark, 6, and Deborah, 3, live at 35 Harbor Drive.

PATRICIA FRIEND, 48, of 25 Rocklyn Court, a housewife, has been active in several local organizations.

She spent eight years on the Twin Cities Little League board, served as recording secretary and hospitality chairman of the Neil Cummins Parent-Teacher Association, was an assistant Brownie leader and an assistant Cub Scout den mother.

Mrs. Friend said she would make no campaign promises and had no pre-conceived ideas — "only to give an honest appraisal and investigation to the problems as they occur, and a promise to keep the future of a dignified, friendly, warm and beautiful town intact."

A native of San Francisco, Mrs. Friend has lived in Corte Madera for 16 years and has five children. During World War II she worked as a receptionist for the Army Corps of Engineers, and formerly worked for the Bank of California, Macy's and the Emporium. She also served as a dealer service representative for Swift and Co.'s processed meat division.

HERBER C. LENEY, 61, of 318 Golden Hind Passage, is a member of the Corte Madera Sanitary Commission and past president of Sanitary District No. 2, which was taken over by the town.

Leney, a retired Army officer, also is a member of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission.

"I have supported and will continue to urge unification of sewer treatment facilities and collection agencies in order to stop pollution in the bay," Leney said. "I will work for flood control measures in order to protect public and private property as well as to beautify the bay front, the lagoons and the waterways of San Clemente Creek."

Leney also said he would support rapid transit, tax reform, recreation for all residents and adequate police and fire protection.

A native of Union City, Okla., Leney has been a resident of Corte Madera for 10 years and is a past president of the Mariner Cove Improvement Association.

HOLMES S. NORVILLE, 44, of 126 Granada Drive, has been a member of the council since he was elected in 1966.

An engineer, he is supervisor of corporate tool engineering for the Hexcel Corp. of Dublin, Alameda County.

He is a past president of Marin Estates Homeowners Association and has been a resident of Corte Madera for 12 years.

Norville said he is particularly concerned about "improved flood control, preservation of development of natural features which enhance the town, and the development of regional government which is better able to cope with regional problems such as bay fill, air pollution, refuse disposal, rapid transit and commuter buses and ferries."

A lieutenant commander in the Naval Reserve, he was on active duty from 1943 to 1947 and from 1950 to 1960 and received the Korean Order of Merit "Chung-Mu" for his service as an adviser to the Korean Navy from 1950-52.

HAROLD B. WAGSTAFF

A native of Albuquerque, N. M., he was graduated from Iowa State College, Ames, Ia.

HAROLD B. WAGSTAFF, 53, is an architect, a partner in the firm of Wagstaff and McDonald in San Anselmo.

He was elected to the council in 1966 after serving seven years on the planning commission and eight years on the town board of design.

A native of San Francisco, he has lived in Corte Madera since 1951, and is a member of the town volunteer fire department and the San Anselmo Rotary Club.

Wagstaff and his wife, Elinor, live at 472 Montecito Drive, and have three children.

Wagstaff, who has been cycling around the town during his campaign with a "fight smog" sign on his bicycle, believes Corte Madera is one of the best towns in Marin for bicycling.

On the state of the town in general, he said, "People should work and move around in the county as I do in my daily work to fully appreciate the blessings, which the town of Corte Madera enjoys, both physically and financially.

THE TIBURON ELECTION

Six Vie For Three Positions

There's only one incumbent in Tuesday's six-candidate race for three seats on the Tiburon City Council.

Mayor Branwell D. Fanning is seeking re-election, but Councilmen William R. Bremer and Thomas E. Drohan have chosen not to run.

Challengers are Donald L. Batten, television engineer; M. Carlisle Becker, landscape architect; R. Gary Gray, architect; Alvin R. Kuhn, stockbroker, and Albert H. Sennett, attorney.

Brief sketches of the candidates follow:

DONALD L. BATTEN, 49, an engineer with KPIX television, is president of the Belveron Home Owners Association.

A native of El Cerrito, he has been a resident of Tiburon since 1959. He set up a two-way radio exchange between the people of Sausalito and its "sister city" Vina del Mar in Chile.

Batten believes that drainage problems in Tiburon are crucial. "I would like to see the city fathers expedite some programs as soon as possible to give residents some protection against impending flood threats to their homesites. . ."

He urged speedy creation of a bicycle path program and an attractive design for the development of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad property for this purpose.

Batten is a member of Occidental Lodge 22, Free and Accepted Masons, and public relations director of the California Bodies of the Scottish Rite in San Francisco. He serves as public information officer of the Grand Lodge of California and Hawaii, F & AM. He is a member of the Tiburon Peninsula Advisory Committee, and lives at 29 Mercury Avenue.

M. CARLISLE BECKER, 34, is a landscape architect with Berridge, Becker and Julin in San Francisco.

He is a member of Belvedere Tiburon Landmarks Society, Tiburon Peninsula Club and Tiburon Peninsula Advisory Council.

"The city council must develop new leadership and encourage citizen participation," Becker said. "A councilman must be a responsive member of the community. He must guarantee dedicated and careful attention to all viewpoints within the community."

Becker said as a councilman he would spend at least two scheduled week days each month seeking information and meeting with residents.

"Tiburon should develop according to a plan, one which reflects the needs and best thoughts of the community," he said. "The role of the city council is to achieve that plan."

Becker, a native of San Bernardino, has been a resident of Marin for 27 years. He earned a bachelor's degree at the University of California and a master's degree from Harvard University.

Becker and his wife, Margery, live at 1828-B Centro West, and have two children.

BRANWELL D. FANNING, 41, tourist marketing director for the Compton Advertising Co. in San Francisco, has been a member of the council for four years and currently is the Tiburon mayor.

With the two other incumbents bowing out of the race, Fanning said: "I thought one of us ought to stay and see the important city projects through-particularly, the downtown plan and bicycle paths."

Fanning saw as crucial issues the development of Angel Island and residential areas on the fringe of the city, and transportation.

He is a member of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission, Tiburon Peninsula Club and Commonwealth Club of California.

A native of Hines, Ill., he is a graduate of Northwestern University and a Navy veteran of World War II.

He has been a consultant to the U. S. State Department on tourism development in Latin America and has had photos and stories published in travel publications.

Fanning and his wife, Carolyn, have three daughters, and live at 4 Burrell Court.

R. GARY GRAY, 38, an architect and planning consultant for Lester Gorsline Associates of Belvedere, has stressed the potential benefits to Tiburon of his planning experience.

"All plans for the development of the Tiburon Peninsula should be preceded by, or revised on the basis of an analysis of the sea and landscape as working entities to determine their intrinsic opportunities for benefits and their limitations," Gray said.

"From this derives an open-space plan, a drainage plan, re-establishment of oyster beds lying in Tiburon waters and a law prohibiting developers from leaving exposed sub-soil scars on the land and so on."

Gray also advocated establishing a new system of city commission, "which would provide a broad base for policy and use of the reservoir of talent in the city."

He also urged establishing a single purpose citizens' commission on local government to investigate, analyze and report on issues concerning the 18 local governments and special purpose districts on the Tiburon Peninsula.

Gray was graduated from the University at Berkeley with a bachelor's degree in architecture, and formerly worked for the Tiburon firm of Callister and Payne.

ALVIN R. KUHN, 44, is an account executive with Dean Witter and Co., San Francisco.

A native of Fresno, he has been a resident of Tiburon for six years and is on the Marin Estate Planning Council.

Kuhn favors construction of hiking and bicycle paths as an integral part of highway design, recreational areas and the downtown plan.

Adequate and safe crosswalks should be provided with regard to major streets, he said.

He advocates implementation of a highway plan that will eliminate the hairpin turn at Trestle Glen and improve safety at the hazardous entrances and exits to the Reedlands, Belveron, Trestle Glen Boulevard and Little Reed Heights.

He is a member of San Francisco Sales and Marketing Executives Association, the Commonwealth Club of California and a Boy Scout committeeman.

Kuhn is a graduate of Fresno State College and served as a Navy officer in World War II.

Kuhn, his wife, Joy, and three children live at 27 Tara Hill Road.

ALBERT SENNETT, an original member of the Tiburon Peninsula Advisory Committee, has served on the Tiburon Planning Commission since last April.

An attorney in San Francisco, he has been a resident of Tiburon since 1962.

He is a member of the Save the Bay Association, Audubon Society and other conservation groups.

He is a past chairman of the Little Reed Heights Association.

He has offered the voters a program that promises the preservation of a maximum amount of open space consistent with healthy growth by controlling construction; a private transportation system encouraging pedestrians, bicyclists and the use of public transport to reduce dependence upon the private car; the preservation of Tiburon's waterfront and beach for water-oriented uses; a de-emphasis on tourist-oriented commercialism in downtown Tiburon with new stress upon service to the residents, and "an open ridge with no development that would destroy its appearance or its use by local residents."

Mixed Field Faces Voters In Sausalito

Six Candidates Divided Between Vets, Newcomers

With three seats up for grabs on Tuesday the Sausalito City Council race has attracted a mixed field of six candidates, three veterans and three new campaigners.

Mayor Earl F. Dunphy is seeking re-election, but Councilman Jan Paul Dyk, whose term expires, isn't in the running.

Marsha J. Owen will be making her fifth try for a council seat and Serge Trubach his sixth bid, while challengers Robert D. Bauerle, Stephen Fraser and Michael J. Kutsko are in their first race.

A rundown on the candidates follows:

ROBERT D. BAUERLE, 49, co-owner of a gift shop in Sausalito, is making his first bid for political office.

He said he doesn't intend to "support, introduce or encourage any new ways to attract more tourists to Sausalito, but to find ways to cope with the influx the city now has."

Bauerle said he would support ways to solve the city's traffic problems and would endeavor to hasten the completion of a Central Waterfront Plan which has the welfare of residents in mind.

He called for eliminating "the harassment of residents and visitors by panhandlers and other undesirable elements through adequate police protection in the downtown area."

He is a member of the Sausalito Chamber of Commerce, the Sausalito Rotary Club and Sausalito Artists and Merchants, and a six-year resident of the city.

A native of Omaha, Bauerle attended Wichita University and served in the Army in World War II.

He lives at 78 George Lane and has two sons.

EARL F. DUNPHY, 65, has served a total of 14 years on the council from 1936-1944, and from 1964 until the present and is currently Sausalito's mayor.

A machinist with a San Francisco newspaper printing company, Dunphy has been a resident of Sausalito for 52 years. He served on the Sausalito Planning Commission from 1946 until 1956, as acting postmaster from 1949-51 and on the Marin County Grand Jury in 1956.

Dunphy said he was seeking re-election "because we have a lot of unfinished business, particularly in the central waterfront area, that I would like to help complete."

He said he would work for a new city hall and library and favors commercial development of the central waterfront area with major parking in the Marinship area at the city's northern boundary.

Dunphy is a member of the Sausalito Citizens Council and the Young Men's Institute of Star of the Sea Catholic Church.

He and his wife, Blanche, live at 33 Filbert Avenue, and have two daughters.

STEPHEN A. FRASER, 30, is a professor of urban government and planning at Sonoma State College and executive director of the Sausalito Coalition for an Open Waterfront.

Fraser has advocated a program of environmental improvement including development of parks and open space along the waterfront.

He also has supported traffic restrictions in the city's business district, tourist traffic entry from the north with a city-operated parking area in the north, and commute ferry service from Marinship.

Fraser's goals include increased police foot patrols in central Sausalito, establishment of a circuit or night court in Sausalito, promotion of businesses that serve Sausalito residents, and a new city library on the proposed waterfront park east of Bridgeway in the Litho and Napa streets area. He said the city hall should remain in the central business district.

Fraser also serves as the Sonoma State College representative to the Sonoma County Planning Commission and has served as a consultant on government with federal and state programs of assistance to local communities.

He holds a doctoral degree in political science and public administration from Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md., and a master's degree from the University of Michigan.

A native of Beaconsfield, England, Fraser has lived in Sausalito for three years. He and his wife, Judith, and two daughters live at 18 Bulkley Avenue.

MICHAEL J. KUTSKO, 30, an attorney in San Francisco, is making his first bid for a council seat.

He said it is "a matter of immediate and urgent necessity that qualified and dedicated new individuals be elected to the council in order to solve the unprecedented critical problems now facing our city."

An increasing crime rate "and deteriorating conditions of our downtown area cry out for a vigorous new program of more effective and increased law enforcement based on strict new municipal laws."

Kutsko also urged action to adopt "the long overdue" Central Waterfront Plan.

A native of Youngstown, Ohio, Kutsko was graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a bachelor's degree in physics and the Golden Gate School of Law in San Francisco.

He is a member of the Pyramid Lodge, the Marines Memorial Association, the Olympic Club, the Sierra Club, the Knights of Columbus and several professional associations.

Kutsko and his wife, Lorraine, live at 55 Miller Avenue and have a duaghter.

MARSHA J. OWEN, 66, is owner of the Valhalla Inn, and has been a runnerup in four previous tries for a council seat.

Mrs. Owen, better known as Sally Stanford, finished fourth in 1968, in a race for three seats.

She is a member of the Sausalito Foundation and Sausalito and San Francisco chambers of commerce.

Mrs. Owen advocates a program of careful spending by the city. Charging that the city has wasted a great deal of money in past years, she said she knows how "to spend money with caution, since I have always had to earn my money."

She favors commercial development of the central waterfront as soon as possible. "The people who have owned property on the waterfront for years and have paid taxes should be able to develop their land," she said.

A resident of Sausalito for 21 years, she lives at 207 Bridgeway.

SERGE TRUBACH, 56, an artist, is making his sixth try for a council seat.

A resident of Sausalito for 18 years, Trubach has been active in the Sausalito Arts Festival and has received numerous awards for art. He is a member of the California State Fair art jury.

He contended that the city needs direct action to solve its problems. "The city government has been lethargic in providing adequate police protection and other things that residents need," he said.

Trubach favors underground parking garages in the downtown area, elimination of on-street parking on central Bridgeway, and parks and walkways rather than commercial development along the central waterfront.

Trubach also favors having two policemen on patrol on foot in the downtown area 24-hours a day. "The people need to get to known their policemen."

A native of the Ukraine, Russia, he grew up in New York City, attended art schools in New York and Europe, and taught art at the San Francisco art schools and at the New England School of Art in Boston. He lives at 631 Bridgeway and has a married daughter.

THREE IN CONTEST F

Cotati voters on Tuesday will select two councilmen from three candidates — incumbent Mayor Frank J. Dolinsek, former Councilman Herbert Winters and Sonoma State College graduate student T. Jeffrey Hughes.

FRANK J. DOLSINEK was appointed to the council in 1966 and will be seeking his first full four-year term. He has operated Dolinsek's Begonia Gardens in Cotati since 1954, and moved from Santa Rosa to 1964 Gravenstein Highway in 1964. He has one son.

THOMAS JEFFREY HUGHES, 24, is a political science major at Sonoma State where he has been a student since 1965 and has been active in student government. He is on the executive board of the Associated Students Board of Directors and serves as a graduate senator in the student senate. He is doing his master's thesis on small town government and Cotati. Fraser also serves as the Sonoma State College representative to the Sonoma County Planning Commission and has served as a consultant on government with federal and state programs of assistance to local communities.

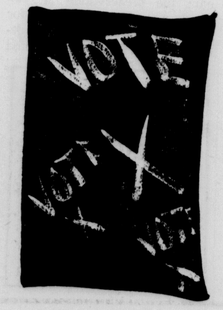
He holds a doctoral degree in political science and public administration from Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md., and a master's degree from the University of Michigan.

A native of Beaconsfield, England, Fraser has lived in Sausalito for three years. He and his wife, Judith, and two daughters live at 18 Bulkley Avenue.

MICHAEL J. KUTSKO, 30, an attorney in San Francisco, is making his first bid for a council seat.

He said it is "a matter of immediate and urgent necessity that qualified and dedicated new individuals be elected to the council in order to solve the unprecedented critical problems now facing our city."



An increasing crime rate "and deteriorating conditions of our downtown area cry out for a vigorous new program of more effective and increased law enforcement based on strict new municipal laws."

Kutsko also urged action to adopt "the long overdue" Central Waterfront Plan.

A native of Youngstown, Ohio, Kutsko was graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a bachelor's degree in physics and the Golden Gate School of Law in San Francisco.

He is a member of the Pyramid Lodge, the Marines Memorial Association, the Olympic Club, the Sierra Club, the Knights of Columbus and several professional associations.

Kutsko and his wife, Lorraine, live at 55 Miller Avenue and have a daughter.

MARSHA J. OWEN, 66, is owner of the Valhalla Inn, and has been a runnerup in four previous tries for a council seat.

Mrs. Owen, better known as Sally Stanford, finished fourth in 1968, in a race for three seats.

A native of Baker, Ore., she has operated her Sausalito restaurant for 20 years.

She is a member of the Sausalito Foundation and Sausalito and San Francisco chambers of commerce.

Mrs. Owen advocates a program of careful spending by the city. Charging that the city has wasted a great deal of money in past years, she said she knows how "to spend money with caution, since I have always had to earn my money."

She favors commercial development of the central waterfront as soon as possible. "The people who have owned property on the waterfront for years and have paid taxes should be able to develop their land," she said.

A resident of Sausalito for 21 years, she lives at 207 Bridgeway.

SERGE TRUBACH, 56, an artist, is making his sixth try for a council seat.

A resident of Sausalito for 18 years, Trubach has been active in the Sausalito Arts Festival and has received numerous awards for art. He is a member of the California State Fair art jury.

He contended that the city needs direct action to solve its problems. "The city government has been lethargic in providing adequate police protection and other things that residents need," he said.

Trubach favors underground parking garages in the downtown area, elimination of on-street parking on central Bridgeway, and parks and walkways rather than commercial development along the central waterfront.

Trubach also favors having two policemen on patrol on foot in the downtown area 24-hours a day. "The people need to get to known their policemen."

A native of the Ukraine, Russia, he grew up in New York City, attended art schools in New York and Europe, and taught art at the San Francisco art schools and at the New England School of Art in Boston. He lives at 631 Bridgeway and has a married daughter.

THREE IN CONTEST FOR COTATI COUNCIL

Cotati voters on Tuesday will select two councilmen from three candidates — incumbent Mayor Frank J. Dolinsek, former Councilman Herbert Winters and Sonoma State College graduate student T. Jeffrey Hughes.

FRANK J. DOLSINEK was appointed to the council in 1966 and will be seeking his first full four-year term. He has operated Dolinsek's Begonia Gardens in Cotati since 1954, and moved from Santa Rosa to 1964 Gravenstein Highway in 1964. He has one son.

THOMAS JEFFREY HUGHES, 24, is a political science major at Sonoma State where he has been a student since 1965 and has been active in student government. He is on the executive board of the Associated Students Board of Directors and serves as a graduate senator in the student senate. He is doing his master's thesis on small town government and Cotati. He has lived in Cotati for two years and is a member of the citizens' committee to promote the $100,000 sewer bond issue to be voted on in Tuesday's election.

Hughes, the only Cotati candidate to respond to the Independent-Journal invitation to submit a statement on campaign issues, says an extension of the sewer system and an adequate sewer plant are critically needed to prevent pollution of the environment.

He says there is a need for "new blood" on the council and that future vacancies should be filled by special elections, not by appointments by the remainder of the council. Sixty per cent of the present council membership is the result of such appointments, he said.

HERBERT WINTERS is attempting a comeback, having served one term on the Cotati council, but having been defeated in his attempt at re-election two years ago. He owns and operates the Sonoma Mattress Co. in Cotati and lives at 833 Richardson Lane.

Big Ballot List For Fairfax Council

There's no shortage of candidates for three seats on the Fairfax City Council with seven in the running including three incumbents.

Seeking re-election on Tuesday will be Frank J. Egger, Robert R. Souza and Adelaide Wilson.

The challengers are Albert Gately, an attorney; Lee Nelder, a San Francisco police sergeant; James K. Henington, a welding supervisor at the San Francisco Naval Shipyard, and Winston R. Curtis.

Here's a rundown on the candidates:

WINSTON R. CURTIS, 53, district manager in Marin for Equity Securities Funding Corp. of San Francisco, is making his first bid for the council.

A native of Wisconsin, he is a university graduate and formerly was Sacramento branch manager for Olson Brothers Eggs and Poultry.

He is a member of the Fairfax Lions Club and the Marin Rod and Gun Club and served in the Navy in World War II.

"I favor a through-traffic bypass to the north side of Fairfax," Curtis said. "Further commercial development would be invited, but to be confined to a prescribed perimeter, rather than the strip type along traffic routes."

He also favored a city manager type of government, saying he was sure that money could be saved by more rapid execution of city business.

"I feel that city councilmen shouldn't be paid," he said.

Curtis and his wife, Dorothy, live at 484 Cascade Drive. They have three children.

FRANK J. EGGER, 31, salesman for a San Francisco bakery has been a member of the council since he was elected in 1966.

Before joining the council he was a member of the Fairfax Park and Recreation Commission and served a year as chairman.

Egger said it will take "intelligent planning, innovative government, responsive leadership and more and better services for residents" to keep Fairfax "the best place to live and rear a family."

Egger noted that during his term there have been many new programs and many improvements. "We built tennis courts, initiated a senior citizens program and a tiny-tot program, increased police personnel, adopted a flexible general plan to retain the small town character of Fairfax, created a design review board, formed a youth commission, adopted an underground utilities ordinance, installed new street lights and lowered the tax rate 10 cents."

Egger has lived in Marin for 11 years and in Fairfax for seven. He attended Santa Rosa Junior College, the College of Marin and the University of San Francisco.

He is a member of Native Sons of the Golden West, Fairfax Parlor 307.

Egger, his wife, Ronita, and 9-year-old daughter, Lori, live at 13 Meadow Way.

ALBERT E. GATELY, 49, an attorney, is a referee with the Workmen's Compensation Appeals Board in San Francisco. He is chairman of the Fairfax Planning Commission.

He is a former chairman of the Marin County Democratic Central Committee and a former exalted ruler of the San Rafael Elks Lodge.

"The principal problem facing Fairfax is the apparent inability of the city council to develop any programs to meet the many needs of the city," Gately said.

"In addition to the road and drainage problems, for better than four years they have been aware that the city hall is in a serious state of deterioration. Realistic programming would have established a building fund, either to replace or to repair the civic facilities so that we would not now have to face the problem of raising large sums of money for this purpose."

Gately and his wife, Shirley, live at 69 Bothin Road and have four children.

JAMES K. HENINGTON, 55, of 112 Cypress Drive, is a welding supervisor at the San Francisco Naval Shipyard.

A resident of Fairfax for 15 years, Henington feels the cost of city government can be reduced by "eliminating waste and taking a more organized approach." He doubted that residents "are getting dollar value for dollar spent."

Henington urged respect for law and support of police to curtail crime "including the flagrant use of narcotics and mind-damaging drugs, which are now available to our children from grade school level on up."

Henington is opposed to the Association of Bay Area Governments, "or any other regional form of taxing authority that is beyond the direct control of the people."

He also opposed "any form of gun control laws," and "busing of school children solely for integregation purposes."

He served with the First Cavalry Division in World War II and received the Purple Heart.

Henington and his wife, Shirley, live at 122 Cypress Drive and have four children.

LEE NELDER, 48, is a sergeant with the San Francisco Police Department in charge of its Police Helicopter Unit. He previously was assistant range master.

He is a director of the Fairfax Little League, a World War II veteran and a member of the American Legion.

"I feel I have something to offer the city of Fairfax in regard to some of our most perplexing conditions," Nelder said. "We certainly are not free from difficulty."

A native of San Francisco, Nelder has been a police officer for 23 years and a resident of Fairfax for more than four years. He attended the University of San Francisco and San Francisco City College and studied police and city administration though the Davis Correspondence School.

Nelder, and his wife, Marilyn, live at 241 Marinda Drive and have three children.

ROBERT R. SOUZA, 46, was appointed to the council in 1964, elected in 1966 and served as mayor from April, 1968, to April, 1969.

Before joining the council he was chairman of the city park and recreation commission.

Souza said the council needs a concerted team effort that he feels has been lacking in the past.

"Our Haight-Ashbury image is perhaps our major problem," he said. "I'm referring here to a way of life and mode of behavior, rather than to mere physical appearance. We need stricter enforcement of our local ordinances and housing codes. I will not support a Fairfax Festival in 1970."

He also called for a close look at the city's general plan, "to make sure it reflects the viewpoint of the majority of our local residents."

He supported the present city administrator-city clerk combination, "which has proved effective, economical, non-political and which permits the councilmen to keep a close touch with people who elected them."

A native of San Francisco, Souza has been a resident of Fairfax for 14 years. He is senior veterans employment representative with the State Department of Human Resources Development in San Francisco.

Souza and his wife, Louise, live at 18 Claus Circle and have four children.

ADELAIDE P. WILSON of 189 Cascade Drive was elected to the council in 1966.

She was selected by the Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen to represent cities in Marin on the executive board of the Association of Bay Area Governments.

She and her husband, Russell, operate Christiansen's Bakery in Fairfax and have three children.

Mrs. Wilson noted that during her term the council adopted the Fairfax General Plan, "as a first step to upgrading our town."

She pledged to work for orderly development as shown in the plan and to continue to fight against higher density and overdevelopment of the city.

Mrs. Wilson, chairman of the City-County Planning Council, believes that city and county problems are inter-related, and has been working to end "double taxation" for city residents.

A native of Seattle, she is a graduate of Principia College, Elsah, Ill., and has been a resident of Fairfax for nine years.

Five Rohnert Park Names On Ballots

Challenger Louis G. Beary Critical Of Council Incumbents

With two city council positions to be decided, Rohnert Park's municipal election on Tuesday has drawn a field of five including the two incumbents.

Mayor James W. Rogers and Councilman Arthur N. Roberts seek to retain their seats in the face of challenges by Louis G. Beary, Billy C. Ayers and Paul D. Lynd.

BILLY C. AYERS, 35, lives at 7124 Bresda Way, is a sheetmetal worker and a past president of the Rohnert Park Homeowners Association. He has also served as president of the Men's Golf Club. He is a veteran of the Korean War and a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He and his wife have five daughters.

LOUIS G. BEARY, 29, a native of Philadelphia, has lived at 810 Bernice Avenue, Rohnert Park, for three years. He is a district manager for the Mutual Funds Associates Inc. and associated with Bundesen's Realty in Petaluma. In 1967 and 1968 he was a correctional officer at San Quentin Prison.

He is married to the former Sherlyn Hicks of Novato and they have two children. He is a 1968 graduate of Sonoma State College and also attended Pennsylvania State University and the Air Force Academy.

He has served on the Citizens Advisory Committee of the Cotati School District and is a member of the Sonoma State College Alumni Association and the Santa Rosa Evening Active 20-30 Club.

Seeking office for the first time, he says that one of the key issues of the campaign is the necessity for a program to increase sales tax revenues in Rohnert Park, pointing out that the city is third in Sonoma County in population but last in sales tax per capita income.

ARTHUR N. ROBERTS
Seeking a second term

"This means that sales tax revenues the city of Rohnert Park should be getting are going to Santa Rosa and Petaluma," he says.

He criticizes the incumbent councilmen for obligating the city to $700,000 in bonds for the municipal golf course without first submitting the proposal to a vote of the people. He said the announced price quoted to many residents was only $450,000.

PAUL C. LYND, 59, a maintenance man, has lived at 270 Allan Avenue, Rohnert Park, for four years. He is married and has a son. Lynd did not respond with comments on campaign issues.

ARTHUR N. ROBERTS is seeking his second term on the Rohnert Park City Council. He was elected a councilman in 1966 and served as vice mayor in 1967 and mayor in 1968. He is also a member of the Sonoma County Sales Tax Committee, the Sonoma County Library Committee, the County Comprehensive Health Planning board, and the advisory board to Hillcrest Hospital. He is chairman of the Mayors' and Councilmen's Air Pollution Committee.

A native of New York, he is a pharmacist and owns the Rohnert Park Pharmacy. He received his degree from Long Island University and attended Brooklyn College.

He is past president of the Rohnert Park Chamber of Commerce and the Optimist Club, past chancellor commander of the Knights of Pythias Westwood Chapter, and a board member of Temple Beth Ami, Santa Rosa.

He points to his four - year record on the council "during which I believe I have defended the rights of the city and its people" and says his experience will be especially valuable "at this time when Rohnert Park will be growing faster than ever before."

JAMES W. ROGERS, 37, was appointed to the council in 1963 and elected in 1966. He is serving his second one-year term as mayor. A real estate agent, he is associated with Bart C. Mitchell Realty Co. He lives at 704 Brett Way.

He did not submit a campaign statement.

If You're Planning A New Fence

Handyman's Pages

If you're planning your spring schedule of home and yard repairs, perhaps building a new fence should be on your agenda.

A fence can do several things for you such as mark property lines, give privacy, help control wind, provide a background for flowers and help keep children and pets in the yard.

No matter how intricate the fence, it will generally have three simple parts: posts, rails, and screening. In some cases, the rails may actually form the screen.

BETTER HOMES and Gardens new "Handyman's Book" suggests you follow these easy steps when building a fence:

Before you do any work on your fence, be sure to check local ordinances (which may require a fence to be set back from a property line or limit the height) and be certain you know your exact property line.

Then lay out the fence with a stake at each end of the proposed fence line. Stretch a cord for a guideline. Next drive a stake at each post location; the normal spacing between posts varies from six to eight feet.

Your lumber dealer can help you determine the best spacing for the fence pattern you select.

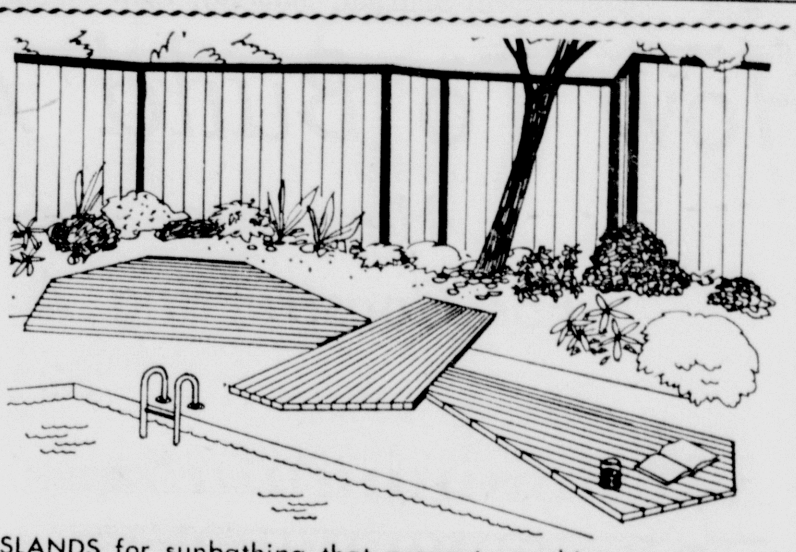
CORNER POSTS and posts carrying heavy screening should be buried a third of their length — unless they're anchored in concrete. Bury other posts at least two feet.

The posts you use should be pretreated with a chemical preservative. If this has not been done when you purchase them, you should coat them with a preservative before you bury them.

The basic post-and-rail fence is easy to build, and needs no adornment. However, every joint will show so workmanship is important — unless materials are rustic so that minor imperfections do not detract. Panels or pickets can always be added to the basic fence later if you choose joints that will carry the weight of screening material.

The method of fastening depends on size of lumber and the weight that rails will carry. A butt joint is usually unsatisfactory unless its supported by a cleat, made of wood or metal. Metal cleats are usually less conspicuous.

There are many ways to make screening that will help control wind, sight, and even noise. Vertical pickets may be made of lath, dowels, bamboo, or pipe; diagonal braces of bark strips of packing crate lumber; panels of wood, plastic, asbestos, cement, wire mesh, plywood or canvas.



ISLANDS for sunbathing that prevent scorching contact with the hot poolside paving when summer temperatures are high can be built of fir two-by-fours nailed over flat two-by-fours underneath. These people-size platforms can be fun shapes. The wood requires no finishing.

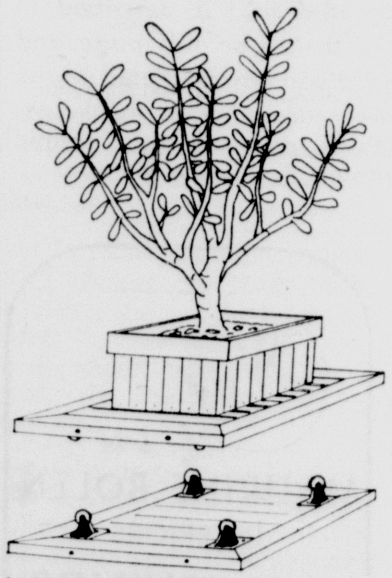
Dressing Up Dining Area

Deadpan plaster does nothing for a formal dining room.

For an inexpensive "dress-up," cover the lower third of the walls with hemlock board paneling to make a dado. Then mount individual panels of wallpaper on the upper walls, framing each with wood moulding.

Leave about eight inches between each framed panel for the best effect.

TREE WHEELER



A PLANTER on casters can be moved around the patio, or from indoors to the outdoors. Set the heavy duty casters in from the edge of the frame to prevent sagging. Douglas fir or western red cedar will resist weather wear and attractively complement almost any planting.

If You're Planning A New Fence

Handyman's Pages

If you're planning your spring schedule of home and yard repairs, perhaps building a new fence should be on your agenda.

A fence can do several things for you such as mark property lines, give privacy, help control wind, provide a background for flowers and help keep children and pets in the yard.

No matter how intricate the fence, it will generally have three simple parts: posts, rails, and screening. In some cases, the rails may actually form the screen.

BETTER HOMES and Gardens new "Handyman's Book" suggests you follow these easy steps when building a fence:

Before you do any work on your fence, be sure to check local ordinances (which may require a fence to be set back from a property line or limit the height) and be certain you know your exact property line.

Then lay out the fence with a stake at each end of the proposed fence line. Stretch a cord for a guideline. Next drive a stake at each post location; the normal spacing between posts varies from six to eight feet.

Your lumber dealer can help you determine the best spacing for the fence pattern you select.

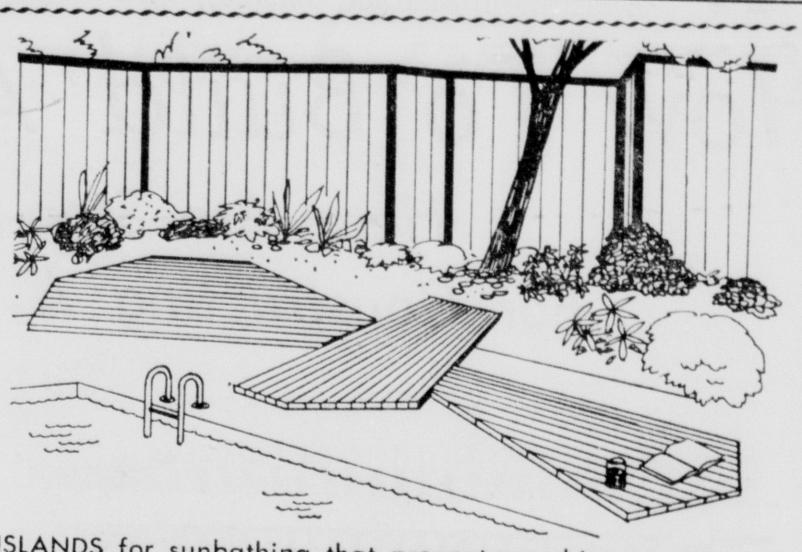
CORNER POSTS and posts carrying heavy screening should be buried a third of their length — unless they're anchored in concrete. Bury other posts at least two feet.

The posts you use should be pretreated with a chemical preservative. If this has not been done when you purchase them, you should coat them with a preservative before you bury them.

The basic post-and-rail fence is easy to build, and needs no adornment. However, every joint will show so workmanship is important — unless materials are rustic so that minor imperfections do not detract. Panels or pickets can always be added to the basic fence later if you choose joints that will carry the weight of screening material.

The method of fastening depends on size of lumber and the weight that rails will carry. A butt joint is usually unsatisfactory unless its supported by a cleat, made of wood or metal. Metal cleats are usually less conspicuous.

There are many ways to make screening that will help control wind, sight, and even noise. Vertical pickets may be made of lath, dowels, bamboo, or pipe; diagonal braces of bark strips of packing crate lumber; panels of wood, plastic, asbestos, cement, wire mesh, plywood or canvas.



ISLANDS for sunbathing that prevent scorching contact with the hot poolside paving when summer temperatures are high can be built of fir two-by-fours nailed over flat two-by-fours underneath. These people-size platforms can be fun shapes. The wood requires no finishing.

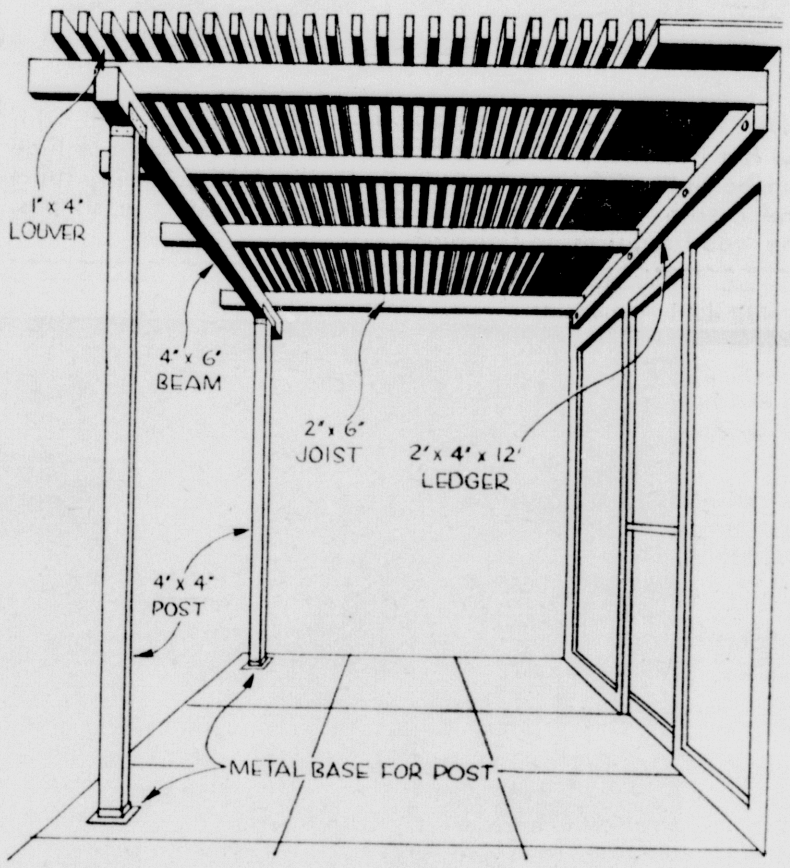
How To Build A Patio Shelter

Here Are Step-By-Step Directions For Constructing A Simple Redwood Shade



A PATIO ROOF in order to be effective need not be an elaborate structure. Here is a simple one that will do the job. Not only does it give the desired shade, but it still permits a free flow of fresh air into the patio.

(Drawing by California Redwood Association)

To construct a simple eight-by-12-foot redwood patio shelter:

1. Anchor a nominal two-inch-by-four-inch-by-12-foot ledger to the side of the house using bolts or other fasteners permitted by local building codes. Allow sufficient clearance between the top of the ledger and the bottom of the soffit (roof overhang) to permit later insertion of normal two-by-six-inch joists eight feet long.

2. Prepare for anchoring of nominal four-by-four posts which will support the nominal four-by-six-inch beam which will support the outer ends of the two-by-six-inch joist. (A) If the patio surface is concrete, the bottom of the post is best secured in a patented, non-corroding metal post base. A masonry bit will be necessary to drill holes into the concrete to secure the post base with non-corroding screws. (B) If the patio surface is wood decking, the same kind of post base can be simply anchored to the wood with 16 d nails. (C) If the patio surface is brick, remove enough bricks to dig out sufficient soil to enable the seating of a precast concrete block for anchoring the post. If the concrete block contains a wood nailing block at the top, metal post base can be nailed to it with 8 d nails. If the concrete block is of the drift pin type, drill holes into the bottoms of the post for securing on the drift pins.

3. Trim posts to the proper length to support the beam so that joists will be level when they are finally installed. Proper length can be determined by holding in its base an untrimmed post in plumb vertical position, holding a joist resting on the ledger in its proper position, and checking its levelness with a carpenter's level. With the level's bubble centered, mark the post where the bottom of the joist crosses it. Subtract the measurement of the beam upon which the joist will finally rest, mark the post and saw off the end. Repeat this process for the post which will support the other end of the beam.

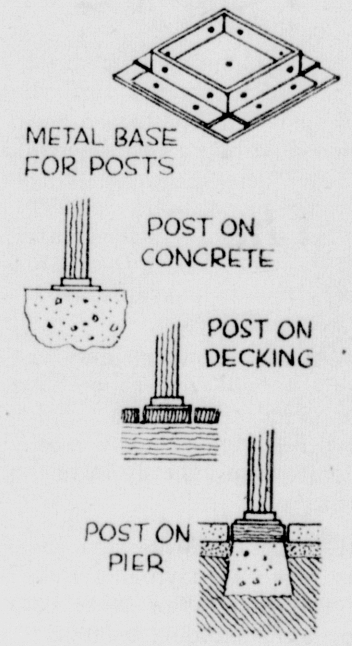
4. With posts trimmed, plumb them upright in their anchored positions, then hold them in place by lightly nailing temporary supporting boards to the posts. Anchor the posts to their metal bases with 8 d non-corroding nails.

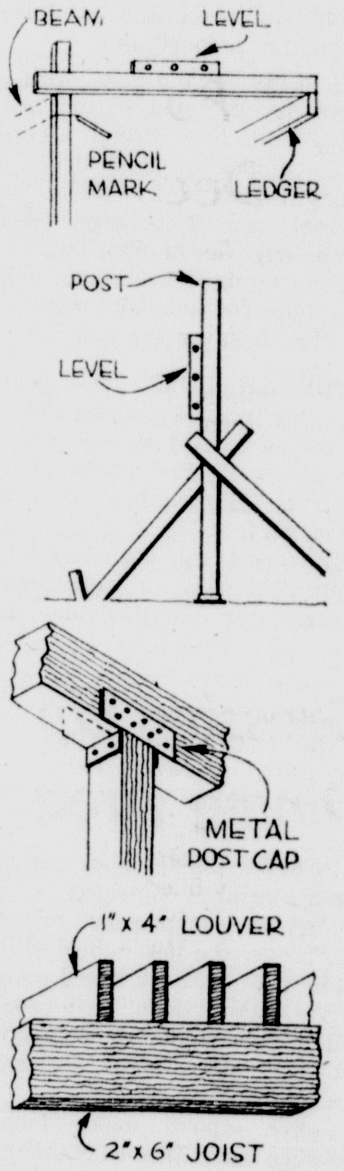
5. With posts plumbed vertically, anchor non-corroding metal post caps to the tops for insertion of the two-by-six beam. Secure the beam with non-corroding 8 d nails to both posts.

6. Insert joists at four foot intervals so that they span across the tops of the ledger and the beam. Secure joists to each by toenailing with 8 d non-corroding nails. As further protection against lateral movement of the joists, joist tops can be toenailed to house soffit or fascia if material is of sufficient thickness.

7. With joists firmly in place, nominal one-by-four louvers on edge may now be toenailed to joists leaving three inch intervals between rafters to permit filtered sunlight.

To prevent staining of redwood by nails, use only non-corroding stainless steel, aluminum, or high quality, galvanized nails.





ABOVE are the step-by-step drawings that will help you to construct the redwood patio roof that is described in the article on this page and shown as completed in the other drawing on this page. It's a comparatively simple project for the handyman.

Plant Now For Summer Color Carnival

New Introductions Have Widened The Versatility Of These Old Reliables

Summer is the time when masses of flowering annuals can make a garden come alive with color.

But before they can bloom, those annuals must first be planted.

And the time for doing that is now.

Right now, nurseries feature a huge supply of annuals in nursery flats, ready for transplanting into the garden. Properly tended, a few months from now, they will provide your garden with a veritable carnival of color.

Garden Page

THE SELECTION of colors and sizes is unlimited.

For instance, the marigold is no longer restricted to the long popular yellows and oranges, beautiful though these are. They come now in creams, persimmon, golds and lemon shades, and even reddish and mahogany combinations.

One of the new introductions, the Bolero, deservedly a 1970 All-America Selection, produces bright mahogany red and gold blooms.

It is a free-flowering dwarf that grows to about eight inches tall, and produces double blooms.

NOR IS IT the only new marigold ideally suited to borders and to massed display beds. The Moonshot, for instance, is an in-between size marigold, standing about one foot high, that produces bright yellow flowers. And there are giants particularly suited as background plantings.

Marigolds, among the easiest to grow annuals, will provide summer-long color that lingers into early winter.

The zinnia is yet another annual that requires a minimum of attention and gardening skill, and yet rewards its growers with a profusion of long-lasting color.

THESE, TOO, come in a wide variety of sizes and colors.

The Thumbelina types are wee growers (about six inches) that make perfect borders. Plant breeders have developed separate colors, such as the Mini-Pink and the Cherry Button, thus affording the gardener an opportunity to create pleasing contrasts in low plantings.

Taller zinnias are a sensation of bright, mixed colors, with varying flower forms.

The periwinkle (Vinca) is a warm weather favorite. The familiar lavender-pink performer has now been joined by dwarf, compact versions including Little Pinky, Bright Eyes (white) and a 1970 newcomer Little Blanche (snow white).

VINCA IS BEST used to fill in large areas or as borders.

Petunias come in virtually every color and every form. Check particularly the 1970 introductions that have further enriched the ranks of these well-established favorites.

There are also blue ageratum and alyssum for low mounds of color. One step up in size gives you the verbena and the phlox. And yet another step takes you to the asters and dwarf dahlias for tall background plantings.

EVEN THIS LIST has barely scratched the surface of the annuals awaiting Marinites in their nurseries this weekend.

Keep in mind that the annual represents the ultimate in garden reliability. The amateur gardener using them stands every chance of producing summer color every bit as dazzling as that of the veteran "green thumber" or the professional landscaper.

THE KING TUT shown here is one of the newer marigolds that combine mahogany shadings with golds. These recent introductions come in striking flower forms and in a wide range of sizes that are suited to everything from low borders to tall background plantings.

Clay Pots For Decor

Red clay flower pots, in addition to being the most suitable containers for living plants, are growing in favor as decorative accessories.

For a summer luncheon, your entire theme can be built around clay pots with or without plants inside.

You can serve the first course of a "garden-look" luncheon in a low clay pot bulb or clay saucer lined with aluminum foil to contain your favorite salad. Or serve the dessert in a clay bulb pan lined with a glass dish that just fits inside.

FOR TABLE decorations set clay-potted azaleas, geraniums or small foliage plants at each place, with matching clay saucers. Your center of attraction can be a tray filled with individual plants, or one of the larger professionally grown combination plants.

For children's party decorations, balloons on wooden sticks can be stuck into small clay pots filled with pebbles or candy. Small clay pots or saucers lined with colorful papers also make good individual nut or candy dishes.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

✓ In your spring planting, don't overlook the shady nooks in your garden. Flowering plants that are especially happy in the shade include the impatiens, the cinerarias and the godetias.

✓ After they have completed their bloom, spring-flowering bulbs still require some attention if you would have beautiful flowers again next year. When the blooming is over, continue to water the plants occasionally, letting the tops die naturally. From the green tops, the bulbs will draw food that will enable them to produce healthy flowers next season.

✓ Many native plants are in bloom this month. The likes of the wild lilac or ceanothus can be planted now for quick color.

✓ This is the ideal time of the purchase and planting of rhododendrons. You'll find them in bloom in the nurseries, so that you can see exactly how they look in flower when you make your selections.

✓ Don't neglect those Easter gift plants. Give them the necessary care and they will reward you with continued pleasure.

THE BOOK PAGES

An Indictment Of The French

By DON KEOWN

THE MYTH OF FRANCE by Raymond Rudorff; Coward-McCann, 248 pages, $5.95.

Raymond Rudorff's "The Myth of France" carries the subtitle "Can 50,000,000 Frenchmen Be Wrong?"

Rudorff's answer to that question is an emphatic "yes" — they can be, and indeed they are, wrong about virtually everything.

His book is a slashing indictment of just about everything French, although he somehow overlooks the onion soup. Just listen:

"The myth has it that the French are a nation of individuals bound together by the unit of their culture and their 'Frenchness.' The truth is that they have tended throughout their country's history to form into factions and to fight each other. In this France in which patriotism has so often become chauvinism, in which myths of cultural and warlike grandeur have been assiduously propagated by rival groups, in which political divisions have never been counter-balanced by overall moral unity and a sense of national oneness, in which class resentments and enmities are so marked, no characteristic would seem more applicable to the French as a mass than a tendency to divide into certain well-defined types rather than individuals. . . .

"This long-established tendency to gather according to type into factions within the nation and to take up extreme positions in politics and cultures has been accompanied by the rivalry and clashes between types . . .

"The pleasant belief that the French are a somewhat frivolous people, more devoted to pleasure than to strife, to verbal argument than serious and violent enmity, is not confirmed by France's recent history. It is strange how often it is forgotten that the culture and way of life which have attracted so many admirers have been produced by a country with an extremely war-like, blood-stained past.

"Memories of various belles epoques, the lure of Paris and the prestige of French art and literature have made people forget that this country which they find so civilized has a dark record of extremist behavior, internal hatreds, and civil conflicts in which one part of the population reacted against the other with appalling ferocity . . ."

Charles de Gaulle's adoption of the Joan of Arc role, says Rudorff, "was perfectly typical of a France that believed in its myths, and he also represented the continuity and orthodoxy of a chauvinistic tradition. . . .He was also a reminder that. . . the French are conservative in their myths and like to hear them repeated in a traditional language that refuses all change — even stylistic."

A survey of French history between the First Empire and 1914, Rudorff asserts, "is enough to show that Prussian militarism was nothing but a pale shadow compared to the French product." Something of an overstatement, to be sure. The Prussian record pales before no other.

Rudorff is as hard on French culture as he is on its history and politics. In art and theater he is disdainful of "a Surrealist nostalgia that lingers on." The literature is erotic, pornographic, while at the same time being pretentious, formalized and rooted to the past. Even that most promising of the French arts, the cinema, is severely handicapped by censorship.

Not even Paris itself escapes Rudorff's scorn. "Paris," he writes, "may be a beautiful lady, but she has some filthy underclothes."

He is particularly distressed by "a singular lack of new post-war buildings of any distinction." Americans, engulfed by modern buildings of supposed distinction, might not share his concern. More telling is his criticism that "something else that is disappearing from Paris is its 'Parisianity' and that 'good taste' for which it has long been reputed the center . . ."

He accuses her of "eccentricities, scars, changes, crazes and disconcerting lapses of 'French good taste'."

He is critical, too, of Paris' dominant role over the provinces as a "cultural despot."

While Rudorff's attack makes interesting and amusing reading, his charges must be viewed with some skepticism.

For one thing, he is plainly a man not without strong prejudices, himself. And one of these is a distaste for tradition. "Since France," he writes, "is apparently so much in love with the past, it is not surprising that this history-mania should have spread into every-day life and tastes. . .a vast number of French people seem fiercely determined to live in their country's past as far as it is possible for them to do so. . . ." Which, some of us could add, might have its advantages over contemporary gimcrackery.

Rudorff must, by necessity, deal in generalities, but this is sometimes manifestly unfair. The rude Frenchman is actually a minority, not the majority. The jingoists may or may not be.

Too, it must be noted that many of Rudorff's complaints against the French could be made with equal justice about other nationalities.

France has been far from the only exploiter of colonies. Its past history of military adventures is not unique to that country alone. Others have practiced anti-Semitism even more virulently. The same polarization between the left and right, or between the classes, generations or races can be found in other nations, including our own. Chauvinism is far from an exclusively French quality. And as France has had its Jean Nocher — "a Fascist-megalomaniac" we have had our own right-wing rabble-rousers, our Fulton Lewis Jrs. and Westbrook Peglers.

As with so many things, it is generally a matter of degree, and France is not always the worst offender.

For instance, Rudorff is no doubt correct when he claims that Paris has lost some of its distinctive Parisianity (it would lose yet more if it erected the modern buildings he urges). But it remains a fact that Paris is still among the world's most beautiful cities, certainly less spoiled than most. Such things are relative.

And even when Rudorff asserts of France: "The revolutionary tradition is still alive and the forces of reaction that cannot accept the present are still powerful." And foresees the possibility there of a major civil war, we must recognize, if with a shudder, that other lands also stand in peril of that same specter today.

Rudorff, German-born of German-Irish parentage, a journalist and author who has lived most of his life in London and in Paris, now makes his home, we are told, in Rome. His neighbors there might be excused if they become a mite uneasy. He could be working on "The Myth of Italy." You know — those dictators Caesar and Mussolini, the awful noise and traffic of Rome, all those crumbling ruins where "new post-war buildings of distinction" might have gone and all that preoccupation with tradition and the past.

RAYMOND RUDORFF is a British journalist, but he was born in Germany and has lived much of his life on the continent. In his "The Myth of France" he scores the French as chauvinistic, militaristic and riven by factionalism.

BOOK publishing inevitably reflects the public interests and concerns of the time, and thus the output of works dealing with ecological problems has been stepped up in tempo. Among the newer books is "Air and Water Pollution," assembled and edited by Gerald Leinwand as a study of environmental contamination and its alleviation. The selected readings come from such sources as Rachel Carson, Robert F. Kennedy, U. S. Surgeon General Luther L. Terry, Ralph E. Lapp and Newsweek magazine. It is part of the Problems of American Society Series of 75-cent paperbacks, issued by Washington Square Press, a division of Simon and Schuster Inc.

FAWCETT has published as a 75-cent original Gold Medal paperback "Strange Creatures from Time and Space" by syndicated columnist John Keel.

FOR HOBBYISTS long on skills with their hands and short on ideas of what to do with them, Dover Publications has reprinted Michael Carlton-Dank's "Scrap Craft—105 Projects."

First published in 1946 as "Adventures in Scrap Craft," the book provides detailed instructions for projects that range from towel racks to acorn jewelry, from plastic bracelets to pull-toys.

The author provided his own illustrations, and they are good ones, as are his directions, expertly thought-out, succintly stated.

The book is recommended not only for householders with time on their hands and a creative urge within, but also for camp counselors, scoutmasters, teachers, occupational therapists. Most of the projects are quite simple and easily within the abilities of children.

Price of the quality paperback is $2.50.

HIGH TIDE by P. M. Hubbard; Atheneum, 181 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Here is a really excellent suspense novel, written by an Englishman who belongs in the front ranks of the masters of the genre.

The narrator, named Curtis, has just left prison after serving time when the man he struck during a roadway altercation died. He hopes to find a location to begin a new life free of the past. But as he travels, seeking the right site, he finds that this past is following him relentlessly. Even when he changes from automobile to sailing boat, he cannot shake it off.

Finally, in a small and remote seaside village, the whole thing boils up again and comes ultimately to a final climax.

The novel is peopled by realistic characters who act and react believably. The plot and the writing skill of Hubbard maintain, then build the level of the tension. There is a nicely done, not intrusive romantic touch, and some good nautical lore. The whole book is an excursion in escapism and sheer enjoyment under the confident direction of a most competent guide.

Cecelia Holland's Sixth Novel Weak In Characters, Dialogue

ANTICHRIST by Cecelia Holland; Atheneum, 299 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Suzanne Hock.

Frederick II, Holy Roman Emperor, and King of Sicily and Germany, is the hero of Cecelia Holland's fifth historical novel.

The book covers a major incident in Frederick's life when he leads a crusade to the Eastern Mediterranean to do what everyone else up to that time had tried to do — take Jerusalem. However, instead of fighting for it, this remarkable man negotiated with the sultan of Egypt, and won the Holy City for the Christians without a single battle. The treaty lasted 10 years.

Because this 13th Century king wanted to rule all Italy, including Rome, he incurred the wrath of the Pope. The Pope excommunicated him, thus he was known as Antichrist, an enemy of the Church. Frederick further antagonized the Pope by crowning himself King of Jerusalem in Saint Sepulcher.

Cecelia Holland is a most prolific writer. She has six novels under her belt, and she is only 27. It is evident that she researches her material quite thoroughly. But where she is strong in historical background, she is weak in her characterizations. Dialogue is banal, and Frederick and his friends lack a depth that would make them interesting. The reader is presented with an isolated episode in an important man's life without the embellishment of earlier events and feelings that would add substance and believability to Frederick's personality.

THE BOOK PAGES

An Indictment Of The French

By DON KEOWN

THE MYTH OF FRANCE by Raymond Rudorff; Coward-McCann, 248 pages, $5.95.

Raymond Rudorff's "The Myth of France" carries the subtitle "Can 50,000,000 Frenchmen Be Wrong?"

Rudorff's answer to that question is an emphatic "yes" — they can be, and indeed they are, wrong about virtually everything.

His book is a slashing indictment of just about everything French, although he somehow overlooks the onion soup. Just listen:

"The myth has it that the French are a nation of individuals bound together by the unit of their culture and their 'Frenchness.' The truth is that they have tended throughout their country's history to form into factions and to fight each other. In this France in which patriotism has so often become chauvinism, in which myths of cultural and warlike grandeur have been assiduously propagated by rival groups, in which political divisions have never been counter-balanced by overall moral unity and a sense of national oneness, in which class resentments and enmities are so marked, no characteristic would seem more applicable to the French as a mass than a tendency to divide into certain well-defined types rather than individuals. . . .

"This long-established tendency to gather according to type into factions within the nation and to take up extreme positions in politics and cultures has been accompanied by the rivalry and clashes between types . . .

"The pleasant belief that the French are a somewhat frivolous people, more devoted to pleasure than to strife, to verbal argument than serious and violent enmity, is not confirmed by France's recent history. It is strange how often it is forgotten that the culture and way of life which have attracted so many admirers have been produced by a country with an extremely war-like, blood-stained past.

"Memories of various belles epoques, the lure of Paris and the prestige of French art and literature have made people forget that this country which they find so civilized has a dark record of extremist behavior, internal hatreds, and civil conflicts in which one part of the population reacted against the other with appalling ferocity . . ."

Charles de Gaulle's adoption of the Joan of Arc role, says Rudorff, "was perfectly typical of a France that believed in its myths, and he also represented the continuity and orthodoxy of a chauvinistic tradition. . . .He was also a reminder that. . . the French are conservative in their myths and like to hear them repeated in a traditional language that refuses all change — even stylistic."

A survey of French history between the First Empire and 1914, Rudorff asserts, "is enough to show that Prussian militarism was nothing but a pale shadow compared to the French product." Something of an overstatement, to be sure. The Prussian record pales before no other.

Bringing Fun Into A Business

UP THE ORGANIZATION by Robert Townsend; Knopf, 202 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

If you think business is dull, then you have never had a boss like dynamic Robert Townsend.

He is the specialist in reviving moribund businesses whose most spectacular exploit was the guiding of the Avis Rent a Car Corp. from obscurity and red ink to the status of the country's best-known No. 2 in its field and to healthy profits.

Townsend has put down his theories for corporate management and operations in the form of an alphabetically-arranged series of notes and comments. Pithy and pointed, they offer a decided contrast to the stodgy ideas of business orthodoxy.

His central thesis is that work should be fun and that management should create the kind of on-the-job climate that makes it so for the employees.

Some other Townsend ideas:

Advertising — Fire your whole advertising department and your old agency. Then go out and get the best new agency available, and leave the program completely in its hands.

Computers — "Most of the computer technicians that you are likely to meet or hire are complicators, not simplifiers. They're trying to make it look hard. Not easy. . ."

Conflict — It's healthy, up to a point. But keep it on the eyeball-to-eyeball level.

Decisions — All decisions should be made at the lowest possible level in the organization.

Authority — A real leader delegates as many important matters as he can because that creates a climate in which people grow.

Directors — "In the years that I've spent on various boards I've never heard a single suggestion from a director. . .that produced any result at all. . .directors are usually the friends of the chief executive put there to keep him safely in office."

Contracts — Employment contracts usually lose the men they are designed to hold and keep those who have no other basis for staying. "At the root of the disaster in American education today is the tenure system."

Performance — "If you can't do it excellently, don't do it at all."

Expense accounts — Keep them honest even if others are cheating.

Evaluations — "Everybody must be judged on his performance, not on his looks or his manners or his personality or who he knows or is related to." Rewarding outstanding performance is important, but it is equally important to make sure that under-achievers don't get rewarded.

Firing — It's unpleasant, but occasionally necessary, and a neglected art in most organizations.

Incentives — Profit sharing should be related directly to performance whenever possible and should be open to as many employees as possible.

Job descriptions — Insane for positions paying $150 a week or more.

Labor unions — "A bloody nuisance," but if you have them, deal with them openly and honestly.

Lawyers — "Usually the best is a young lawyer on-the-make."

Meetings — "Generally speaking, the fewer the better."

Nepotism — Bad, no matter how good the relative is at his job.

No-Nos — No reserved parking spaces, large offices, special quality stationery, buzzers, company planes, executive washrooms for the boss or other brass. No house organ and conventions at a minimum.

Office hours — "Anyone who makes over $150 a week should be allowed to set his own office hours." The same holds true for vacations.

Personnel — Fire the whole personnel department, or at most have only a one-girl "people department" to help anybody who is recruiting.

Public relations — Fire them, too.

Purchasing — Another department you can dispense with.

Salaries — Be on guard against "salary gaposis," an unjustified differential between the pay of top officers and the wages of the really key people — the engineers, sales managers, chemists, designers, etc.

Racism — It is time to unload the dice the corporations have been loading against blacks, Jews and women.

Salesmen — Top salesmen should be given stock options "and encouraged to think like owners." In fact, ownership should be spread as much as possible among corporate personnel.

Secretary — At Avis, Townsend had none and "in my case, unloading a secretary worked out like finding an extra four hours a day." Telephone switchboard operators are more important.

Theory — Too much space, personnel and money are all bad. It is better to be understaffed, crowded and tightly budgeted.

Training —"The only way I know to get somebody trained is on the job."

Resigning — "Nobody should be chief executive officer of anything for more than five or six years. By then he's stale, bored, and utterly dependent on his own cliches."

Townsend followed that last bit of advice at Avis, and now he is president of the Rosewater Foundation while living in "non-retirement" on Long Island and taking on troubleshooting, problem-solving assignments for Communications/ Research/ Machines.

His book will appeal to much the same audience as that which made "The Peter Principle" a recent best-seller, but whereas that book pointed out satirically the things that go wrong in business, and why, Townsend offers remedies that are sensible and original, though wittily and pungently presented.

And Townsend is always candid with his reader: ". . .what you're really trying to do," he says of employer-employee relationships, "is to come between a man and his family. You want him to enjoy his work so much he comes in on Saturday instead of playing golf or cutting grass."

Townsend would be an interesting, though not always easy, man to work for. His book is both interesting and easy to read.

A Novel With The Polish Expected Of Professional

THE STUNT MAN by Paul Brodeur; Atheneum, 278 pages, $5.98. Reviewed by Gordon Parr.

From the moment that Cameron, a draftee on the way to his first training camp aboard a GI bus, elects to step into a grove of trees and bug-out, this novel becomes impossible to put down.

Once he leaves the reality of the hot, broken-down vehicle and the bloodshot-eyed black sergeant, Cameron stumbles into a surrealistic montage of events and people. He discovers a toll collector manning a booth on a deserted highway. . .is nearly run over by a lone motorist on that same road, and when the driver turns for a second pass — Cameron kills him, in self-defense.

When he arrives at a small-town hotel, the clerk he finds behind the desk is a movie director who hires him to replace a stunt man who has disappeared in a filming accident.

This second novel by Paul Brodeur has the polish expected of a professional. Brodeur has been a writer on the staff of the New Yorker since 1958 and has written many short stories and non-fiction pieces for this and other publications.

As every contemporary novelist must, Brodeur includes several sexual episodes; one routine, one humorous, and one voyeuristic. He builds the story purposefully until his anti-hero chooses the final chase scene in the movie as his way out. There is a nice touch where his old black sergeant recognizes him at a roadblock and says, softly, "Come on out of there, Cameron."

He doesn't achieve the escape he plans, but instead one quite unexpected and almost mystical.

Handbook For The Collector

THE ANTIQUE COLLECTOR'S GUIDE TO STYLES AND PRICES by Rita Reif: Hawthorn, 276 pages, $12.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

New York Times reporter Rita Reif has put together a well illustrated, interestingly written and knowledgeable handbook for the budget-conscious collector. There is also a considerable store of information for connoisseurs with fewer financial inhibitions. The book is divided into two sections, one dealing with European furniture, the other with American pieces, both treatments rich in historical background as well as technical detail, and immediate and precise in their price data. Miss Reif's lively, personal writing style adds immensely to the reader's — and user's — enjoyment of the book.

As every contemporary novelist must, Brodeur includes several sexual episodes; one routine, one humorous, and one voyeuristic. He builds the story purposefully until his anti-hero chooses the final chase scene in the movie as his way out. There is a nice touch where his old black sergeant recognizes him at a roadblock and says, softly, "Come on out of there, Cameron."

He doesn't achieve the escape he plans, but instead one quite unexpected and almost mystical.

Handbook For The Collector

THE ANTIQUE COLLECTOR'S GUIDE TO STYLES AND PRICES by Rita Reif: Hawthorn, 276 pages, $12.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

New York Times reporter Rita Reif has put together a well illustrated, interestingly written and knowledgeable handbook for the budget-conscious collector. There is also a considerable store of information for connoisseurs with fewer financial inhibitions. The book is divided into two sections, one dealing with European furniture, the other with American pieces, both treatments rich in historical background as well as technical detail, and immediate and precise in their price data. Miss Reif's lively, personal writing style adds immensely to the reader's — and user's — enjoyment of the book.

NEW YORK (UPI) — What with airlines offering some of the lowest fares in aviation history, American tourists are expected to flock overseas in record numbers this year.

So if you are planning a foreign vacation, now is the time to apply for passports and beat the anticipated rush on the U.S. Passport Office. Past records show the highest number of applications are filed during the spring and summer months and there could be delays which might affect your plans if you wait too long.

There are some countries and islands in the Western Hemisphere which will admit American tourists without passports as long as they have other proof of U.S. citizenship. But veteran travelers rarely leave the country without a valid passport.

THE OFFICIAL document is still the best proof of identification and nationality wherever you go. Each passport carries an individual number perforated through the front cover, the signature, vital statistics and photograph of the bearer.

The passport also can help provide peace of mind for Americans traveling in foreign lands should emergencies arise. Inscribed on Page 1 is the following: "I, the undersigned, Secretary of State of the United State of America, hereby request all whom it may concern to permit the citizens of the United States named herein to pass without delay or hindrance and in case of need to give said citizens all lawful aid and protection."

OBTAINING the bluebound three and three-quarters by six and one-quarter inch booklet is no problem.

Usually all that is required are the completed application form, two duplicate recent black-and-white or color front-view photographs, a birth certificate or other documentary proof of place and date of birth, or of citizenship if naturalized.

Applicants also must establish proof of identity with a driver's license or similar official document, provided it includes signature and either a photograph or personal description. Identification also may be made by a U.S. citizen who has known the applicant for more than two years.

PASSPORTS ARE issued to individuals or to families with small children traveling together. When dependents are included, group photographs are preferred although separate pictures are acceptable. Incidentally, the Passport Office suggests a "pleasant natural pose." Photographs must be no smaller than two and a half inches square or bigger than three square inches.

Applications for passports may be obtained in person or by mail from U.S. passport agencies in Buffalo, Chicago, Honolulu, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, Miami, New Orleans, New York and Philadelphia or the Passport Office in Washington, D.C.

They must be executed, however, in person before a passport agent or an authorized clerk of a federal or state court.

THE FEE for a passport, valid for five years, is $10, plus $2 execution charge.

Passports are no longer renewable. If your old passport has expired, you must make an application for a new one. The fee is $10 and application may be made by mail if you send the completed special form, the old passport and two photographs taken within the past six months.

Generally, passports are mailed directly to applicants within one week after the application is filed. But it could take longer during the busy vacation months when time may be important. In case of emergency — and proof is required — the processing may be speeded up on payment of an extra fee.

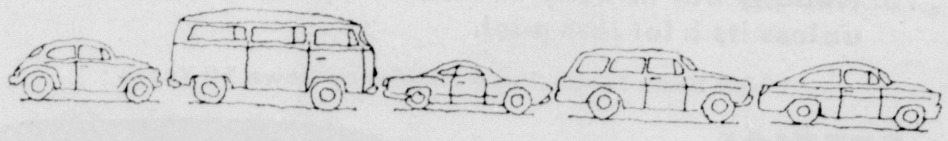
YOU SHOULD allow yourself time, too, to check on visas, tourist or travel cards, and medical requirements needed during the trip. Some inoculations are given in series over a period of weeks and must be recorded by your physician, and validated by a local public health officer, in the International Certificates of Vaccination. The booklet can be obtained free at passport offices, travel agencies and from airlines and steamship companies.

Obtaining visas also can be a lengthy process particularly if your plans include several countries. In some cases, it will mean mailing your passport to the embassies or consulates of each country. Tourist or travel cards also may be required in advance.

The most popular tourist destinations in Western Europe, such as Britain, France, West Germany and Italy, require only a valid passport. Japan, site of Expo '70, requires both a passport and a visa which is issued free.

Duty-Free Gifts

While American tourists are permitted to send home duty-free gifts with a valuation not exceeding $10, some items such as perfumes valued at more than $1 retail, tobacco and alcoholic beverages are excluded from the list.



We'll hand you the same line in Europe.

Any Volkswagen you see in our showroom can be waiting for you in Europe.

We'll take care of purchase. Insurance. Registration. Licensing. Delivery. All the red tape.

And since you'll probably want to bring it back with you (VWs save you money on gas and oil wherever you drive them) we'll give you the details on that, too.

Counting sunroof, convertible, and camper models, there are a dozen Volkswagens to choose from.

Spring Is A Time For Wine Country Tours

In the spring California wine-growers eagerly await the bursting forth of the season's first grapevine buds, heralding the approach of a new year of wines.

The beginning of a new vintage is an excellent time to visit the California wine country. California vintners are especially pleased to extend hospitality to visitors this year as it marks the beginning of the third century of California's wine growth.

ROADWAYS ARE less crowded in springtime. So also are winery tasting rooms and vineyard picnic areas.

The California wineland, stretching for more than 400 miles from Ukiah in the north to San Diego in the south, offers more than 100 wineries where a hospitable welcome awaits the visitor the year around.

Marin County is an hour or two away from some 50 of the world's most richly-endowed vineyards.

The motorist can take Highway 101 toward the Sonoma, Napa and Mendocino wine country. Within an hour's drive, vineyards appear on the landscape against a background of mountain slopes and fir forests, forming a leafy mantle gently covering much of the terrain of those three counties.

BEAUTIFUL NAPA Valley, with St. Helena its center and Mount St. Helena forming a majestic backdrop, inspired Robert Louis Stevenson to write in his "Silverado Squatters":

"The stirring sunlight, and the growing vines and vats and bottles in the cavern made a pleasant music for the mind."

Driving south and crossing the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge onto Highway 50, the traveler is led into the Livermore Valley, some 50 miles east of the Bay. The gravelly soil of Livermore is ideally-suited for producing notable table wines, and red table wines from the Livermore Valley are becoming increasingly well-known.

A longer ride can take you to Lodi and Modesto in the huge Central Valley, each about 90 miles away. The Lodi wine district long has been a noted producer of fine appetizer and dessert wines. In recent years it has swung more and more to producing dry table wines and sparkling wines as well.

ANOTHER ASPECT of the California wine country unfolds on either side of the state's main north-south highway, Route 99, into the vast, sun-drenched San Joaquin Valley. Here appetizer and dessert wines have been traditional, although winemakers also produce millions of gallons of fresh and fruity red and white table wines as well as increasing quantities of sparkling wines.

The Modesto-Ripon-Escalon wine district, about 100 miles from San Francisco in the San Joaquin Valley, is located between the Lodi and Fresno districts, connected by Highway 99. Traditionally a producer of appetizer and dessert wines, it has begun to produce important quantities of table wines.

Further east are new plantings in the Mother Lode country, reviving an industry which supplied wines to Gold Rush miners well over a century ago.

SOUTH OF San Francisco, via the Bayshore Highway lies the San Benito-Monterey-Santa Clara wine areas. Although Santa Clara County, once one of the state's greatest agricultural regions, now has become largely urbanized, San Benito and Monterey counties are sites of new vineyards yielding choice wine grapes to meet the ever-growing demand for California wines.

From Santa Clara Highways 9 and 17 run down to Big Basin State Park, where sunlight filters through giant redwoods, streams run clear and deer abound. In this area are some of the picturesque smaller California wineries whose production is little-known beyond neighboring counties.

In Southern California, east of Los Angeles, is the Cucamonga Wine District, rich in California history and lore. Despite encroaching urbanization, the district still has a dozen wineries with tasting rooms open to the visitor. To cope with this encroachment, new acreages have been opened in Riverside County and other areas.

Southern California wineries, like those of most other districts, produce wines in all the major classes—appetizer, red and white dinner, dessert, and sparkling.

WINERY TOURING and tasting is an easy venture from Marin.

Old World Spanish flavor still permeates the hospitality of California wineries from as far north as Ukiah to the Mission San Diego in the south, where it all began more than two centuries ago when Fr. Junipero Serra planted the first California vineyard in the mission garden.

NATIONAL WINE QUEEN Susan Schwampe samples California vintage during a springtime winery visit. Winemakers throughout California are doing the same thing as the state's wine industry enters its third century of growth. Susan's verdict on the wine: "Delicious!"
